STATE MAY COME AND COLLECT, EMMERSON SAYS

Invade Cook with Own Tax Board.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson announced today that the state government may step into Cook county with its own tax collecting organization.

The governor read a typewritten statement to this effect to newspapermen after a four hour conference in his office in which all but one of the elected state officials and all of the administration's department heads participated.

The action was unexpected and for a time there was a belief that it might have some bearing on a later meeting between the governor and Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, who has been trying to help the governor's tax conference program over some of the hurdles that have thus far blocked its advance.

But the Emmerson-Traylor conference came to naught and the theory that there was some connection between the two meetings was dropped because it was said the threat to send collectors into Cook county to gather in the state's share of taxes now delinquent was not called to the banker's attention.

Mr. Traylor's Stand.

He, it is understood, stood firmly by his earlier declaration in favor of an appointive board of assessment and revision to replace the two elective boards now in office. A third man present in this meeting was Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, and a compromise plan he said he will present tomorrow may be the one having the support of the administration.

"I shall introduce an amendment to the bill tomorrow," he said, "providing for the retention of the present board of review of three members and for the appointment of a single assessor by the governor and the president of the county board. The amendment also will limit the power of the reviewers to that of hearing and passing upon complaints. The assessor would hold office until 1934, when there would be an election for the office unless in the meantime the appointive plan has worked so well that a subsequent assembly might provide for its continuation indefinitely."

Chats with Igoe.

Before hastening to a late afternoon train for Chicago, Mr. Traylor spoke briefly with Michael L. Igoe and it was said he told the minority leader the Barr plan, or the Emmerson-Barr plan, if that is what it is, would not be acceptable to the advocates of the reconstruction of the county tax machinery.

The banker told reporters he had nothing to say for publication, but added:

"We are just where we were. I have not changed my position."

The Barr plan would continue Charles V. Barrett and Edward R. Litsinger, Republicans, and Edward J. Hughes, Democrat, on the board of review. It would eliminate the three Democratic assessors. John E. Conway, John Traeger Jr., and Walter W. L. Meyer unless an appointment for one of them was agreed upon by the governor and the president of the county board. This setup is displeasing to all the Chicago Democrats.

All present at the big conference that began at 10 a. m. and continued until 2:30 were pledged to secrecy concerning what occurred there, but there were several whispers that the main idea embodied in the governor's announcement was his own.

Governor's Statement.

That announcement read as follows:

"The conference of this morning was called by the governor for the purpose of explaining to the state officers and directors of the various departments of the administration the necessity for the strictest economy during the coming year due to the fact that the county of Cook is indebted to the state in taxes levied and assessed to the amount of approximately twenty-five million dollars.

"There were present at the conference all of the elective state officers with the exception of Secretary of State Stratton who is out of the state and who sent a representative from his office, and also a member of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois.

"The necessity for strictest economy was unanimously agreed to and it was the opinion of the conference that legislation should be presented to the present special session of the gen-

"IMPEACH HIM" BRINGS RETORT BY DEFENDERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The word "impeachment" was heard in the house of representatives today. It came in denunciation of President Hoover, during bitter denunciation of the President's course in initiating the moratorium on intergovernmental debts. Both house and senate are in ferment over the issue.

Representative Louis McFadden of Pennsylvania, member of the President's party and former chairman of the house banking and currency committee, asserted Mr. Hoover had "sold out" the United States to "the German international bankers." He said the administration's course in working for acceptance of the moratorium was like "the ways of an oriental potentate drunk with power." He declared the President's unofficial poll of congress last June was "a crude attempt to usurp legislative power."

Democrat Comes to Defense.

So outspoken were the Pennsylvania congressman's allegations that at the close of his hour's address, a Tammany Democrat—Representative John J. O'Connor—jumped to his feet, and cried out to the Republican members:

"It's my President as well as yours he's talking about, and if none of you will defend him from charges which are grounds for impeachment, I'm going to."

At which Representative Burnett M. Chiperfield [Rep., Ill.] tossed aside the notes prepared for a speech on another topic and declared:

"If the gentleman [McFadden] means what he says and if the gentleman is sincere, let him and his associates prepare articles of impeachment against the President of the United States and let those articles of impeachment be tried, and then the proof may be known, and let the guilt and infamy and horror fall where it may. The President of the United States would ask for such action, knowing that the truth and a fair inquiry would vindicate him."

If the President, as Mr. McFadden had charged, actually entered into direct negotiations with Germany and German interests in order to sell out the United States, "then he was guilty of treason," Mr. Chiperfield asserted.

Calls for Proof of Charges.

"This is no time to mince matters," the Illinois member went on. "This is the time to speak plainly. The gentleman also said that the President was the agent for the interests who are serving Germany and which are opposed to the United States. He said there was an agency existing between the President and interests adverse to the United States. I denounce this as false and untrue, without offense to the gentleman but as to the statement—I denounce as false and untrue any statement that the President has negotiated directly with financial interests.

"The statement was also made that the President sold out the United States. What does that mean, my friends? If there is a sale, there is a price and if there is a price the money that Judas took for the betrayal of Christ is no more foul than the money that would be taken by the President of the United States.

"Ladies and gentlemen, if there is one particle of integrity in the statement the gentleman has made, let the gentleman produce proof of his charges. Let him show that we have a President who is unworthy of occupying that high office or let him go from this chamber as a foul traducer of the character of an honest man."

Halted Before Finish.

Members broke out into applause as Mr. Chiperfield ended. The house was excited. Mr. McFadden's speech had been made in time allotted to the Democratic side and twice he was granted more time, in order to get through the thirty-five typewritten pages of his prepared speech. He was halted at last, his speech unfinished, when Representative William H. Stafford [Rep., Wis.] insisted that the house rules limited all speeches to one hour.

Getting back to McFadden's speech, he began with a preamble in which he charged that the President sought to help Germany at the expense of the American taxpayer. Mr. McFadden quickly came to the "German international bankers." He named them—"the Warburgs, Kurn, Loeb & Co. of New York, and their followers."

Illegally, he said, and because he had been afraid to do it alone, Mr. Hoover had sought to get congres-

THE STRANGLER VINE

INDIANA STOPS SHOW OF 'CAPONE ARMORED AUTO'

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Clark Felgar, local theatrical promoter, set up a gangster's armored car in a vacant downtown salesroom here today and prepared to cash in.

"See $50,000 Killer Car," he advertised. "Inspect personal machine of emperor of Chicago racketland. Veteran of 100 Rides!"

Felgar said he purchased the car from a lieutenant of Al Capone and showed documents to prove the deposed Chicago gang boss had paid $22,000 for it. The machine was equipped with bullet proof glass, sheathed in armor plate, and had a secret compartment for pistols under the dashboard.

Felgar was charging 10 cents admission and was enjoying a thriving patronage when Capt. Risher of the state police arrived. On orders of Prosecuting Attorney Samuel Schwartz, the captain closed the showroom and towed the car to a police garage.

Felgar said he had planned to tour the country with the car. The prosecutor said it would be confiscated in accordance with the state law prohibiting ownership or exhibition of armored cars, except by banks and express companies.

Cleaning Co. Chauffeur Is Shot to Death

Michael Geary, 30 years old, 6601 South Lincoln street, was found fatally wounded early this morning on the sidewalk in front of 6600 South Honore street. A single bullet had struck him in the chest and he died at the Holy Cross hospital shortly afterward without regaining consciousness.

Geary was a driver for the Almore Dye house, a wholesale cleaning establishment at 4422 Wentworth avenue. One of the theories investigated by the police was a possibility that terrorists who have been tossing acid recently on the clothing in cut price retail cleaning shops may have turned to the shooting of drivers in furtherance of their campaign.

The Almore house, according to the police, is independent, but has had no trouble with terrorists so far.

No witnesses of the shooting were found. The police went to the spot where the body was found after an anonymous caller reported a shooting there.

These investigators, from the Chicago Lawn station, favored a belief that Geary had been shot down in a stickup. They pointed out that if terrorists had been desirous of intimidating the driver they would have seized him while at work.

As a corroborative circumstance they recalled that Karl Raun, 6202 South Winchester avenue, had been held up and robbed of a small amount of money by armed men near 6139 South Paulina street shortly before the Geary shooting was reported.

HONOLULU FEARS NEW RIOTS; CALLS OUT HEAVY GUARD

HONOLULU, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The city of Honolulu, whose name means "Fair Haven," was quiet in all sections today with the largest police guard in years on the streets.

The entire personnel of the police force was on duty, aided by an increased naval shore patrol and the regular army police, as a result of the kidnaping and beating Saturday night by 20 unidentified men of Horace Ida, island-born Japanese.

Ida was one of five defendants in a criminal assault case brought by the wife of a young naval officer recently. The case ended in a declared mistrial. Rear Admiral George T. Pettengill, commanding mine craft of the 14th naval district, thereupon publicly stated he considered Honolulu "unsafe" for naval officers' wives.

DIARY OF GIRL TO AID MANN ACT PROSECUTION

Arrested by Sergt. Michael Naughton of the detective bureau in a flat at 2917 West Jackson boulevard yesterday, Joseph Goldstein, 36 years old, will be turned over to federal authorities today for prosecution under the Mann act.

Living with Goldstein in the flat was Gertrude Robinson, 22 years old, formerly of Gary. The police seized a diary of the girl which showed that Goldstein had taken her across the state line several times. The diary also contained numerous expressions of the girl's regret that she had not married "the nice boy I used to go with" instead of associating with Goldstein.

In 1928 Goldstein, member of a gang of alleged forgers which included Aaron Mosbiek and Morris Boguslawski, was convicted of forgery and sentenced to one to five years in prison. He obtained a new trial and was again convicted, but has been at liberty on a writ of supersedeas pending appeal.

LATVIA IMPOSES 50% INCOME TAX IN HUNT FOR CASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 15.—Latvia's cabinet today continued its attempt to balance the budget. It decided to introduce a sugar monopoly, increase realty taxes 100 per cent and impose an income tax up to 50 per cent on all except government officials. Railway tariffs will be increased 10 to 20 per cent.

The government's valuta commission, which is grudgingly granting permission to Latvian importers to pay their debts abroad, has already received petitions requesting $20,000,000 worth of foreign currency. The state bank possesses only $2,500,000 in foreign exchange and a gold reserve of $6,000,000.

Local business men, as well as foreign observers, think Latvia will be compelled to apply to the world bank for a dictator to set its finances in order.

Drops Dead When Raiders Find Liquor in His Home

Indianapolis, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Three policemen called today at the home of Homer N. Ingersoll, former circus employe.

"We have complaints that you've been selling liquor," Sergt. John Eisenhut told Ingersoll. A look of pain appeared on Ingersoll's face and he sat down.

One officer went to the basement and returned with a gallon jug of corn whisky. Ingersoll collapsed and died.

Wife Ends Life So Her Mate May Go to War

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Dec. 15.—Kiyoichi Inouye, 21 year old wife of Lieut. Inouye, who had been ordered on active service, committed suicide today so her husband would be free of any anxiety regarding her while absent in Manchuria. They had been married sixteen months.

The suicide was most deliberate and formal. Wearing a ceremonial dress and make-up as for a party, she sat facing the family gods and cut an artery in her neck with a dagger.

Leaves Letter for Mate.

A letter to her husband read:

"Words cannot express the joy with which I leave you free. I congratulate you on your heroic departure and die in joy. Thanks to your love, our short married life has been perfect bliss. Do not worry about me and serve our country as best you can. Life is eternal in the future world and we will meet again."

She inclosed $20 to be given to his soldiers and added a warning that he should be careful of his weak stomach.

Lieut. Inouye's commander at first planned to give him a leave to attend his wife's funeral, but decided it would be more in keeping with her spartan act for him to proceed to Manchuria immediately. He left before the funeral.

An Old Japanese Custom.

Suicide in Japan, usually by hara-kiri, is a survival of Japanese feudal custom and is identified with the Shinto religion. Hara-kiri was committed when one wished to show extreme loyalty to a dead leader, to avoid dishonor in battle, or to express disagreement with a policy.

Count Maresuke Nogi, supreme military counselor of the Japanese emperor, and hero of Port Arthur, and his wife killed themselves on Sept. 13, 1912, just as the body of Emperor Mutsuhito was being removed from Tokio.

The count and countess attended the funeral services of their sovereign in Tokio and then retired to their home. As a cannon in the palace grounds boomed the signal that the royal cortege was leaving Tokio, the count plunged a dagger into his throat and the countess committed hara-kiri.

LINER PICKS UP AIRPLANE AND 2 PILOTS AT SEA

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The S. S. Friede of the Union Sulphur lines wirelessed the Mackay Radio company plant at Rockford, Me., tonight that she had picked up an airplane and two pilots at sea five miles south of the Five Fathoms light vessel. The lightship is located off the Delaware capes.

The message, signed by Capt. Gilliway of the Friede, said:

"Rescued Paul Zimmerman and Ed Moodie from airplane and took machine aboard ten miles south of Five Fathoms light vessel. They were forced to land at 11 a. m. Plane bound New York to Porto Rico."

Zimmerman and Moodie, both of them licensed transport pilots, took off at 9 o'clock this morning from the Keyport, N. J., airport in a biplane equipped with floats, bound for Porto Rico, where Zimmerman has a brother in the pineapple business.

Ireland May Open Saloons on Saint Patrick's Day

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 15.—(AP)—In order to give Irishmen a chance to observe the custom of "drowning the shamrock," the Free State government will introduce tomorrow in the dail a bill providing for the opening of public houses on St. Patrick's day.

MEETS JUNE 14 IN NEW STADIUM TO NOMINATE

Will Draw Crowds of Visitors.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Chicago won the 1932 Republican national convention here today at the meeting of the Republican national committee. It will be held in the new Chicago stadium, beginning Tuesday, June 14.

When the matter came to a vote the choice lay between the two great summer resorts of the country — Chicago with its lake breeze and Atlantic City with its ocean breeze, each tendering a certified check for $150,000 to cover the expense of the convention.

Eighty-six committeemen voted for Chicago, 14 for Atlantic City, whereupon, on motion of Daniel E. Pomeroy, New Jersey committeeman, the choice of Chicago was made unanimous.

With the Republican convention meeting there and possibly the Democratic national convention also immediately afterward, Chicago is preparing to be the center of great festivities in June.

A Foretaste of 1933 Fair.

It came out during the presentation of Chicago's invitation that Rufus Dawes is undertaking to stage a preliminary opening of the 1934 Century of Progress exposition for the special benefit of the convention delegates.

Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia and St. Louis withdrew their bids for the convention before the balloting began. None of them could raise the money for the convention expense.

A good deal was heard up to the last minute of administration opposition to Chicago as territory unfriendly to President Hoover, but it failed to materialize in the voting. The President, it transpired, is giving special attention to the political situation in Chicago as it affects his candidacy. He discussed the matter today with George Haddock, Republican leader from Chicago, who has become active in the interest of Mr. Hoover.

Mrs. Baur Pleads in Verse.

Mrs. Bertha Baur, Illinois committee woman, opened the plea for Chicago in a rhymed argument setting forth the advantages of the inland metropolis. She was followed by Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the citizens' committee, who dwelt on the railroad facilities, hotel accommodations, and the size and comfort of the new Stadium in which the convention will meet. He caused a large colored interior view of the hall to be displayed.

"You see there is not a pillar or post in it," said Mr. Hurley. "It's built like a cantilever bridge. We are very proud of our new convention hall, built in 1929 of concrete and steel, which actually has 21,000 permanent numbered seats, with space to add 4,000 more if necessary; and particularly do we remind you of its modern iced air cooling system, which maintains a temperature of 70 degrees in the hottest weather."

The Chicago hotels, Mr. Hurley said, have agreed to accommodate 3,500 delegates, alternates, and newspaper men at rates of from $1.50 to $4 a day.

[Bachrach-Richter.]

MRS. BERTHA BAUR.

Randolph Next Speaker.

Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said that Illinois will be a pivotal state in the presidential election and that a convention held in Chicago will insure Republican victory in the state. He was followed by Senator Otis F. Glenn, who urged the selection of Chicago for convenience alone, "because I know that if this convention were held in the Philippines, Illinois would go Republican."

"Chicago guarantees to keep order," said Senator Hamilton Kean of New Jersey, "but will she not add a life insurance policy for any one venturing upon her streets?"

Mayor Harry Bachrach of Atlantic City told of the eight mile board walk "where any man or woman can walk unescorted in perfect safety from molestation at any time, day or night."

Those thrusts caused Mr. Randolph to come back with this:

"Chicago, it is true, has had in the past a bad name. But the fact is that the only people who ever got into trouble in Chicago were guilty of contributory negligence. We now have all the bad characters locked up and any one is just as safe in Chicago as Atlantic City."

Platform Committee Named.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, chairman of the committee, appointed a subcommittee with former Senator Patrick Sullivan of Wyoming as chairman to receive and transmit to the resolutions committee of the convention any suggestions as to platform planks.

Suggestions of a wet prohibition plank have already cropped out in the sessions of the leaders. In the executive committee meeting yesterday, it transpires, Committeeman Earl Kinsley of Vermont observed that the younger generation is not going to be satisfied with a mere law enforcement plank, but will insist upon settlement of the prohibition issue. The dry attitude of the Republican party is turning young people to the Democratic party, he thought.

Vermont, he said, is wet today and will send a wet delegation to Chicago. Committeemen Clarence Hamlin of Colorado and Maurice Maschke of Ohio agreed with Mr. Kinsley.

Anti-Hooverite Seated.

The Hoover forces suffered a reverse when the committee seated Mrs. W. S. La Van as committee woman from Ohio. She was an anti-Hoover member of the committee at Kansas City, and was afterwards replaced by Mrs. Hugh Clark, now dead. Lately the state committee elected Mr. La Van to the vacancy. Mr. Maschke tried to get action on her seating postponed, but was defeated on motion of Committeeman Charles D. Hilles of New York.

Chairman Fess urged the committee to "sell" Hoover to the country.

"An intelligent public opinion must be formed," he said. "It is the purpose of this committee to assist in convincing the disaffected that the President is not responsible for the spots on the sun, the storms at sea, the droughts on land, nor the numerous epidemics that frequently sweep sections of the country. Our business is to place Mr. Hoover in the minds of the public where his stupendous efforts and brilliant leadership justify. This stage reached, there would be no doubt about the results of the contest next November."

NATIONAL UNION BACKS PETRILLO IN NEW CONTRACT

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, following a conference with national union officials in New York, announced yesterday that he had been promised the full support and cooperation of the American Federation of Musicians in any dispute the Chicago union may have with Chicago broadcasting stations.

Final considerations of the union's demands will be made Saturday morning at a meeting of the executive board of the union with officials of the radio stations. Broadcasting officials assert that the musicians' proposed contract will mean a 160 per cent increase in operating costs over the contract which expires on Dec. 31. Petrillo states the increase will not be more than 15 per cent.

Among the union demands is a six day week with no reduction in pay, increase of station orchestras from 10 members to 15, employment of union musicians for tone control booths, and the elimination of transcriptions in commercial programs.

Two Boys Are Arrested with Stolen Automobile

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Charles Drake, 14, and his brother, Edwin, 11, of Grand Rapids, Mich., were arrested yesterday on a charge of possession of a stolen automobile which they are said to have driven from Grand Rapids. Charles was held but Edwin was released in the custody of his mother, Mrs. Marie Drake of Homestead, Pa.

75,000 VISITORS PREDICTED FOR G. O. P. MEETING

Preview of 1933 Fair Is Planned for Delegates.

The decision of the Republican national committee to hold the 1932 convention of the party in Chicago assures local business of about $10,000,000 in trade.

At least that amount of money will be spent in preparation for the convention, and by the delegates and many thousands of persons who will be attracted to Chicago by the party meeting for the selection of a presidential nominee, according to estimates made by John L. Coyne, vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mr. Coyne is in charge of conventions for the association and is general manager of Mandel Brothers.

"We expect about 75,000 persons to visit Chicago to participate in, or watch the proceedings of, the convention," he said.

Prices Will Not Be Raised.

"We believe that from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 will be spent by the visitors in spite of the fact that hotel rates for the delegates and other official visitors will not be raised, railroad fares will be reduced to fare and a half for the round trip and other expenses will be kept at usual levels. All lines of business will benefit, as the visitors will spend their money for local transportation, telephones, amusements and in the retail stores and restaurants."

Delegates to the convention will make the first official inspection of the 1933 World's Fair grounds. A preview of the Century of Progress is being arranged for them so that they may carry a message of Chicago's centennial celebration to all parts of the nation when they leave.

Hotel Facilities Increased.

Since the last Republican national convention was held in Chicago in 1920 the hotel facilities in the loop and to the north and south of it have been increased immeasurably, according to J. K. Blatchford, secretary of the Chicago Hotel association. In 1920 the accommodations were sufficient, he said.

"Since 1920 we have acquired the new Stevens hotel, the Palmer House, the Bismarck and the Drake, as well as large additions to the Sherman and the Morrison—with a total of 8,368 new rooms," Mr. Blatchford said. "And in that time we have lost only the Windsor Clifton, the Stratford and the old Palmer House and Bismarck hotel.

"All of the new hotels on the near north side have been built since then. And virtually all the hotels along the north and south lake front were not built in 1920. A recent survey indicated we have a total of 59,000 hotel rooms, 24,000 apartments and more than 350,000 other rooms to rent in Chicago."

Convention to Be at Stadium.

The convention will be held in the Stadium at 1800 West Madison street. The Stadium was built in 1929. It will seat 25,000 persons in comfort. It has a refrigerating plant that is capable of keeping the temperature at 10 degrees. It is only eight minutes' ride from the loop.

Arrangements to accommodate more than 1,000 newspapermen expected to attend the convention are already under way by a committee of the Association of Commerce, which has taken up the question of adequate telegraph service as a first step.

SLOT MACHINES RAISE DEFENSE FUND, IS CHARGE

Detectives from the state's attorney's office charged last night that roadhouse owners in the territory northwest of the city were being forced to place slot machines in their establishments in order to raise a defense fund for Nick De Grazia. He was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail a few days ago for violation of the prohibition law.

When Detective Sergeants Herbert Seyferlich, David Levin, and Fred Jeiner found two slot machines in the Colonial barbecue at North avenue and Thatcher road, they asked Joseph Horwuth, the owner for an explanation. "Nick De Grazia made me put them in for his defense fund," said Horswuth.

Russell McGill, who claimed to be a contractor, and Roy Parland, an entertainer, were arrested in the Moose Tavern at 4613 Harlem avenue when slot machines were found in McGill's car and in the roadhouse. McGill was carrying a revolver, according to the detectives.

John Thomas was seized at 6500 Gunnison street when detectives found two slot machines in his place.

The four men arrested will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Daniel Alexander in Morton Grove tomorrow, on charges of possessing gambling equipment. A gun totine charge was lodged also against McGill.

STIRRING STORY OF FIRST CHICAGO CONVENTION TOLD

Lincoln Nominated at Old Wigwam in 1860.

Chicago's first national nominating convention was held in the days of turmoil that preceded the civil war. It gave Abraham Lincoln the Republican nomination for the presidency on May 18, 1860.

The scene of that convention, the second national gathering of the then young Republican party, was the Wigwam. This was a huge wooden structure, little more than a shed, at Lake and Market streets. On the same spot, only a few years before, had stood the old Sauganash hotel, a tavern which was the resort of trappers and Indians in the days when Chicago was still a fur trading post.

Lincoln a Prairie Lawyer.

Lincoln came to the convention a prairie lawyer. He had served one inconventful term in congress, but he was known nationally only for the brilliant series of debates on the slavery question with Stephen A. Douglas two years before. These debates were the feature of the Lincoln-Douglas contest for the United States senatorship from Illinois, which Douglas won.

William H. Seward, the New Yorker who was to be Lincoln's secretary of state, was the leading candidate for the nomination. His bloc of eastern delegates were marshaled by Thurlow Weed, the polished Republican boss of New York.

Lincoln was the favorite son candidate of Illinois and Indiana when the convention opened on May 16.

Abe's Managers Get Busy.

Thurlow Weed was busy lining up delegates for Seward at the Richmond house. The various favorite sons saw that they must head off Seward if any of them was to get the nomination. Their managers met in a prolonged caucus at the Briggs house. Lincoln was represented by David Davis of Bloomington, a circuit riding judge before whom the future President had tried many cases.

The conference lasted all the next day and night. It was 9 o'clock on May 18 before Davis and his fellow managers for Lincoln won the support of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey delegations, largely on the argument that Lincoln was the man to meet the campaign of Douglas, whom they knew was to be the nominee of the northern Democrats.

Hall Packed with Farmers.

Seward's supporters paraded through Chicago that morning and, while they were marching, Judge Davis packed the convention hall with Illinois and Indiana farmers. When the Seward parade ended only his delegates could get into the Wigwam.

The hall, packed with Lincoln supporters, gave a thunderous ovation when he was placed in nomination. Three ballots told the story. Seward led the first roll call with 173½ votes to 102 for Lincoln. Nomination required 233.

The favorite son votes of Pennsylvania and New Jersey switched to Lincoln on the second ballot, and he was only a few votes behind Seward. The third ballot was being announced, with a total of 231½ for Lincoln to 180 for Seward, when Ohio switched four votes and gave him the nomination.

Nine Presidents Nominated in Conventions Held Here

The 1932 Republican national convention, to be held in Chicago next summer, will be the 15th convention of a major party in this city since 1860. Of the Chicago conventions ten have been Republican, four Democratic, and one Progressive.

Of the tickets nominated here, nine out of fifteen have been victorious in the national elections. Seven of the ten Republican tickets and two of the four Democratic tickets have won. The Progressive ticket lost. Following is a list of the fifteen national conventions held in Chicago:

1860—Republican — Abraham Lincoln nominated for president, Hannibal Hamlin for vice president. They were elected.

1868—Republican—U. S. Grant nominated for president, Schuyler Colfax for vice president. They were elected.

1880—Republican—James A. Garfield nominated for president and Chester A. Arthur for vice president. They were elected.

1884—Democratic—Grover Cleveland nominated for president and T. A. Hendricks for vice president. They were elected.

1884—Republican—James G. Blaine nominated for president and John A. Logan for vice president. They were defeated.

1888—Republican—Benjamin Harrison nominated for president and Levi P. Morton for vice president. They were elected.

1892—Democratic — Grover Cleveland nominated for president and Adlai E. Stevenson for vice president. They were elected.

1896—Democratic—William J. Bryan nominated for president and Arthur Sewall for vice president. They were defeated.

1904—Republican—Theodore Roosevelt nominated for president and Charles W. Fairbanks for vice president. They were elected.

1908—Republican—William H. Taft nominated for president and James S. Sherman for vice president. They were elected.

1912—Republican — William H. Taft nominated for president and James S. Sherman for vice president. They were defeated.

1912—Progressive — Theodore Roosevelt nominated for president and Hiram W. Johnson for vice president. Sherman died before election and Nicholas Murray Butler was drafted. They were defeated.

1916—Republican—Charles E. Hughes nominated for president and Charles W. Fairbanks for vice president. They were defeated.

1920—Republican—Warren G. Harding nominated for president and Calvin Coolidge for vice president. They were elected.

CLERKS OF VIENNA BANK QUIT POSTS OVER PAY CUTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Dec. 15.—Hundreds of bank clerks, accountants, tellers, and minor office managers, employed in the Kredit Anstalt, central Europe's largest bank, deserted their desks during the noon hour rush today and angrily stormed a directors' meeting in protest against salary cuts and the wholesale dismissal of their colleagues.

In vain departmental managers pleaded with the clerks to serve the customers. But the clerks demanded an interview with the directors, threatening to wreck the furnishings if refused.

When the directors adjourned Alexander Spitzmueller, the late Emperor Franz Josef's minister of finance, now the general director of the Kredit Anstalt, received the employes and promised to bring their grievances before the government which took over the bank when it crashed last June. The employes are incensed over the recommendations of the reconstruction committee, composed of British and Dutch bankers, to discharge 1,900 out of the 1,500 clerks.

ROBBERY! CRIES TERRY AT AUCTION OF HIS RARE ART

2,000 Go to Sale Held to Satisfy Bank Debt.

The depression wasn't in evidence at 1750 North Clark street yesterday, where the bidding on Terry Druggan's household effects was spirited. The former beer distributor is indebted to the West Central State bank, so all his bric-a-brac, his water colors, etchings and oils, his ornate living room and bedroom suites, drapes, tapestries, and rugs went on the auction block.

There were gasps from women who had come in limousines when a canary cage went for $12.50 and a so-called Venetian mirror brought $39. Nevertheless, the camera shy Druggan shouted "robbery" when one of his Watts' etchings sold for only $24.50.

Bids $3,000 fo. Whole Lot.

After Auctioneer Richard Levy had closed the last sale no one was sure of his purchase. N. A. Larson, a dealer at 1210 West 79th street, bid $2,800 for the whole lot of goods before piecemeal auction began. This bid was subject to the total of the individual sales, but during the bidding Larson raised his offer to $6,000. The total of the piecemeal sales was $5,471, and there arose a dispute as to whether Larson was entitled to change his bid. This will be settled today by the Chicago Title & Trust company, trustees.

Among the high bidders were W. D. Raggerty, 414 South Cuyler street, a member of the Board of Trade, whose purchases totaled $700; E. F. Dames, Joliet, who bought $1,700 worth of goods, and A. S. Boyer, head of the Boyer Chemical company, 2700 South Wabash avenue, with $500 worth of purchases.

2,000 Persons Attend Auction.

About 2,000 persons came and went as the sale progressed in the large storeroom of the Werner Brothers-Kennelly company, and many of the women experienced the obvious thrill of pulling back the silken spreads and sitting on one of Terry's inlaid French style twin beds.

One of the bedroom suites, of twelve pieces, including the twin beds, sold for $925. There remained to be sold another suite with twin beds and one with a double bed. Canopied window drapes harmonizing with the bedroom suites were sold in separate lots.

Two of Terry's love seats were placed on sale and the first one, upholstered in silk damask, went for $12.50. The next one, "a beautiful needle point tapestry love seat with down cushions," brought $175, to the astonishment of some of the more discriminating onlookers.

Bronze Statues $50 Each.

Bronze statues of Apollo and Minerva sold for $50 each; several "Dresden lamps and shades" brought $32.50 and upward, and an electric grand piano with 119 player rolls brought $95. "The Underworld Blues" and other jazz hits of recent years were in the music roll cabinet, but four selections of Rudolf Friml, the operetta composer, attested Terry's flair for heavier stuff.

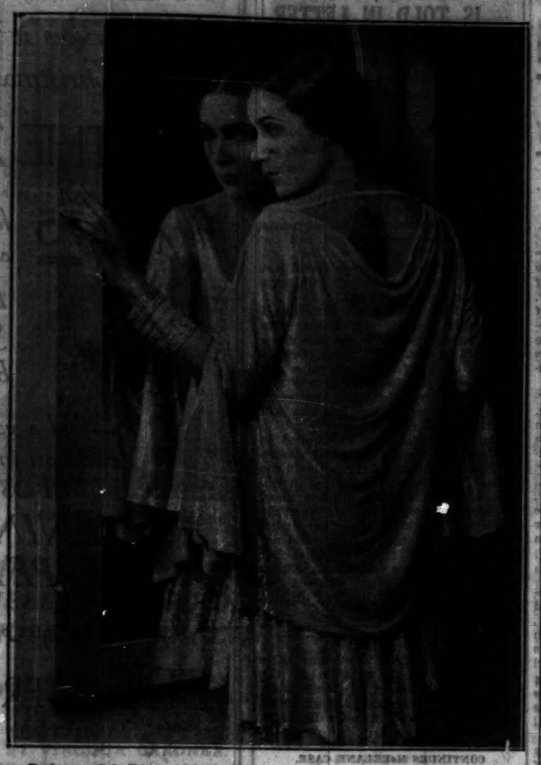
The household equipment included everything for the home from the electric piano to Terry's bedroom slippers which lay among the kitchen utensils and wooden trees — everything except the famous Druggan library with its calfbound volumes. Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, who ordered the sale, made this concession for the scholarly gangster.

The sentencing of Druggan and Frankie Lake, former beer barons, on their pleas of guilty to charges of income tax evasion, was again continued for twenty-four hours yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom the gangsters are to appear, was ill and the cases are set for today by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. Druggan and Lake appeared with their attorneys.

Sheriff Granted Stay of Court Contempt Sentence

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday granted a fifteen days' stay in the execution of the three months' jail sentence for contempt of court against Sheriff John Perucca of Cook county for allowing liberties to Anton J. Rench, who was a prisoner in Perucca's jail for violating the prohibition law. The stay was granted because Attorney David D. Stansbury, a new lawyer in the case, said he needed more time to look into the matter.

TOLD TO PAY UP



Dolores del Rio, against whom judgment of $20,000 for lawyer's fees was awarded by Judge Minor Moore in the Superior court at Los Angeles. She has already paid $4,000 of this amount, so the court orders her to pay $16,000 more.

FINDS BILLIONS ILLEGALLY LEFT OFF TAX ROLLS

Jarecki Gives First Opinion in Suit.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday announced his finding that billions of dollars worth of personal property subject to taxation was unlawfully, intentionally, and systematically omitted from the assessment rolls of 1928 and 1929.

The ruling was made in the suit of Mrs. Lillian Cisar, an Oak Park widow, who is contesting the legality of the two assessments. The case is a test action for 2,000 other real estate owners. Through Attorneys Roy D. Keehn and Morris Schaeffer, representing the property owners, evidence upon which the court's finding was based has been presented.

A Finding of Facts.

The opinion does not constitute a ruling upon the case, Judge Jarecki explained, but is merely a finding of facts which have been incontrovertibly proved. It was delivered at this time, the judge said, in order to expedite the final arguments of attorneys which began on Monday. Only the legal points in question will be considered in the further arguments.

Attorneys for the property owners called he ruling a victory, pointing out that it was an indication that the court had decided the tax rolls were fraudulent. It is upon this contention that the objections to the assessments were filed, the plaintiffs holding that the failure to assess personal property had burdened real estate with an unequal share of taxation.

Reason for argument upon the legal questions remained, attorneys said, in the necessity for determining the extent of the powers of the court.

Five Points in Judge's Findings.

Yesterday's finding was established by five points which the county's attorneys had been unable to disprove, Judge Jarecki said. These were:

1. That preceding the reassessment of 1928 there was no system for the assessment of either personal or real property used either by the assessors or reviewers.

2. That the reassessment did result in the establishment of a uniform system for the taxation of real estate.

3. That the assessors and reviewers consumed almost a year in extending the reassessment on the tax rolls, although the valuation had been completed within six months.

4. That personal property never was sought out by the taxing boards and only such property as was reported to the offices of the assessors and reviewers ever was placed upon the rolls.

5. That an attempt to place personality upon the rolls during the reassessment in 1928 was halted by the assessors.

Judge Cites the Record.

In concluding his opinion Judge Jarecki said:

"It is evident from the record in this case that other counties in this state, as well as the other communities operating under similar laws in other states, have levied taxes upon a much higher amount of personal property than Cook county, and unless omissions of taxable property are unintentional, and unless a thorough, consistent, systematic, and sincere attempt be made to assess personality the same as realty, no assessment roll, at any time, can be free from attack of invalidity in the courts."

$16,000 Owed

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Gunther Lessing, attorney who sued Dolores Del Rio, film beauty, for $31,000 as fees which he claimed were due for services, was awarded $16,000 today by Superior Court Judge Minor Moore.

A judgment of $20,000 was returned, but the court included $4,000 which the actress had paid, thus reducing the total to $16,000.

Judge Moore described the actress as above the average in intelligence but temperamental and not especially well versed in business.

Among things he had to do, Lessing testified, was to protect her from adverse publicity when she obtained a divorce from her first husband, the late Jaime Del Rio; arrange an annulment of the marriage of the actress' secretary, and generally act as "handy man around her house."

The actress, who is of Spanish blood, testified Lessing once represented herself and Edward Carewe, film producer and her discoverer, in an action in which they were at odds.

She said Lessing was "acting for her worst enemy," but the lawyer claimed she had given him approval to take both sides of the case.

ASSERTS SCHOOL BOARD IS PLACED IN UNFAIR LIGHT

Savage Fights 7 Million Cut in Building Fund.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school trustees have been made to appear as "either knaves or fools," in the opinion of Trustee Joseph Savage.

In Springfield the school board is asking legislative authority to issue $50,000,000 in bonds for building new schools. In Chicago on Monday L. E. Myers, president of the board, suggested, on the advice of Superintendent Bogan, that $7,000,000 be eliminated from the 1932 appropriations for new buildings.

"While any reduction in this item will delay our building program somewhat," Mr. Meyer wrote, "Superintendent Bogan assures me that a $7,000,000 decrease will not greatly interfere with the 1932 program."

Asks More Pupils Per Teacher.

The president also recommended that two more pupils be assigned to each teacher, which plan, he said, had the indorsement of the superintendent.

"We operate the schools for the benefit of the children, not the employes," said Trustee Savage yesterday. "When the superintendent says that cutting $7,000,000 from the building program will not greatly interfere with it when we are short 67,000 seats, he does not know what he is talking about. When he approves of adding two more pupils to each teacher, he is not benefiting the children. Why attempt to make the children pay for the economy we must practice?

"We ask $50,000,000 in bonds for new schools and then tell the public we can cut our 1932 building program $7,000,000. That makes us appear as either knaves or fools."

Trustees Wait for Bogan.

The finance committee of the board held up action on the 1932 budget yesterday because Supt. Bogan is lecturing in California. The trustees said they wanted him present when the educational appropriations are determined.

The board has finished tentatively consideration of appropriations for the business offices and departments, exclusive of new building, maintenance, repairs, and operation. On the face of the record the committee has eliminated $584,982 from the 1932 budget of more than $100,000,000, but actually the saving is about a fifth of that amount, it was said.

From the educational fund there is a tentative saving of $99,485 and from the building fund $11,314, a total of $110,799. The remaining cut of $384,183 is regarded as uncertain.

Of this latter sum $42,100 has been lopped off the architect's fund and the remaining $352,083 from the school factory and repair pay roll. But the factory repair employes, it was pointed out, are actually paid from appropriations for repairs at schools.

Start Cutting Repair Fund.

Therefore Trustees Brandenburg and Blatchford were assigned to go through the list of repairs proposed for each school and eliminate all they deemed advisable. They started at once on that task.

They trimmed out repairs, furniture, and fittings in every school canvassed, but most of the items were small. As a general policy they decided to eliminate all interior painting and all new furniture in substitution for old. They hope to prune out $150,000 to $200,000 in the entire system.

In the budget sessions of the two days trustees have made numerous suggestions for savings, but action on them has not been taken.

According to reports, the board has been approving appropriations for several jobs which department heads have not deemed it necessary to have filled.

CONTRACTORS BID ON SCHOOL WITH NO PAY IN SIGHT

Told They May Have to Finance Work.

Despite advice that they might have to finance the building to completion themselves, contractors have submitted bids on the proposed new Wilson Senior High school at 80th street and Karlov avenue, according to John C. Christensen, school board architect.

Although no definite promises have been made, the bids were interpreted by school authorities as a tacit agreement by the contractors to construct this and possibly other buildings on credit.

Trustee Praises Contractors.

Informed of the bids, Carter Blatchford, chairman of the school board committee on buildings and grounds, said: "The contractors who have been accepting our contracts, in view of our financial condition, are entitled to a vote of thanks."

The total of the low bids received for the Wilson High school, together with estimates on branches of work not yet advertised, is $2,114,412. This is a saving of $197,929 from the cost of the Steinmetz Senior High school, which is almost the same in plan as the proposed Wilson school. Up to this time, according to Mr. Christensen, the Steinmetz school has been considered the lowest priced job awarded by the school board in recent years.

Architect Gives Warning.

The Wilson school bids were made in the face of a letter from Mr. Christensen which specified a full understanding that "contractors will be paid only at such times as cash is available" and that the successful bidder "will be prepared to proceed with the work promptly without any delay and continue his work without undue interruptions."

The bids will probably be presented to the board of education at the regular meeting on Dec. 23 or on Jan. 6, according to Mr. Christensen. Meantime approximately $20,000,000 worth of school buildings stand incomplete, exposed to vandals and winter weather.

COUNTY GETS LOW MILK BID OF 20C TO 23C A GALLON

Bids of ten Chicago milk distributing companies were opened yesterday by the Cook county board on the milk and cream for January, February, and March for four county institutions and several thousand needy families supplied through the welfare bureau.

Bids on milk delivered in bulk to the county hospital, county jail, detention home, and Oak Forest infirmary ranged from the lowest of 20 and 23 cents per gallon by Wagner Dairy company to 28 and 33 cents by the Capital dairy.

A flat bid of 12 cents per quart was made by six firms for the welfare distribution in quart bottles. Frank Chambers, county superintendent of public service, said the total milk supply for the quarter would cost about $236,000.

CERMAK STARTS JOB OF FITTING JIGSAW BUDGET

Single Set of Estimates to Be Worked Out.

Mayor Cermak yesterday started a series of conferences with his department and bureau heads on 1932 budget estimates. Controller Szymczak and J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert for the city, both of whom have drawn up a set of budget estimates, were present.

It is planned to evolve a single set of estimates which will be presented to the council finance committee as the administration budget. The committee starts its budget meetings tomorrow.

Protest Against Discharges.

The most frequent objections of department heads to the Jacobs estimates, which were more than $9,000,000 below their own, have been that they eliminated necessary revenue producing jobs. One department head, the mayor said, protested that Jacobs eliminated nineteen inspectors, with annual salaries totaling $50,000, who, this year, produced $300,000 in city revenue.

The finance committee will hold a series of public hearings, after which the members may go to some point out of town and out of the "zone of pressure" by jobholders, where the final work on the budget will be done.

Mayor Cermak said he would go with the finance committee and take part in its deliberations until the budget is completed. No mayor has done this for many years.

Reassures City Employes.

Prof. Leonard D. White, civil service commissioner, at a conference yesterday with leaders among the city employes, assured them that there will be no demotions merely for the sake of economy. The conference was called because the employes say some of the tentative 1932 budget proposals would force the demotion of about 600 employes and the ouster of nearly 2,500, some of whom have civil service and pension rights.

"If any employe who has been reclassified to a lower grade can show that he should remain in the higher grade or should be promoted to a still higher rank, the commission will investigate and rectify any wrongs," said Prof. White.

It was decided that a committee will be appointed to continue the discussion with Prof. White and a representative of Jacobs, the efficiency expert. The aim will be to prevent those with seniority from being ousted while juniors are kept in the service.

WEST PARK BOARD'S EMPLOYES ARE PUT ON FIVE DAY WEEK

Employes of the west parks board, who have been unpaid since July 1, have been placed on a five day week schedule, it was announced yesterday by President W. R. James. The saving is computed at $30,000 a month, and additional economies now under consideration are expected to prevent the entry of a similar sum on the red side of the ledger. All except the absolutely essential work has been stopped, according to Mr. James. The drastic retrenchment was made necessary by a lack of funds. Economies resulting from the survey of personnel now in progress added to the savings from the five day week plan will bring the west parks' pay roll to its lowest point in 15 years, Mr. James said.

Aluminum Alloy Car Is Shown by Alton Railroad

The first railroad car constructed almost entirely of aluminum alloy was exhibited yesterday on the Chicago and Alton tracks at Harrison street and the river. The car, built by the Aluminum Company of America, is to be placed in the service of the Alcoa Ore company of East St. Louis, and is one of ten to be used for hauling ore. It is known as a hopper car and is said to be approximately 22,000 pounds lighter than a steel car.

State Street Fables by Stevens

The better its moral, the better the fable. And the morals in the following five fables all boil down to this fact: Christmas gifts from Stevens provide everything—Smartness, Utility, Quality, and Prestige.

King Buzzledorf's Butler

got tired of passing more cigarettes and finding more ash trays, so he up and quit his job. Moral: the living room should have had a Christmas present of this capable and good-looking smoking set of white metal—large tray, 4 small trays, cigarette and match jar. Complete, mind you, at $1.25.

GIFTS, MEZZANINE

was the giraffe who became unbearably proud over his long neck. Moral: If you luckily receive a new "clip" handbag from Stevens, be very proud, but be cagey about it. These are all Paris copies, in velvet, brocade, antelope. Double clips with simulated or real stones. Upper bag, $11.50. Lower bag, $15.

HANDBAGS, FIRST FLOOR

who lights the lamp with his cigar doesn't smile at home, it's rumored, because of no parking place for his smoking things. Moral: Every well-run home is simply crying for Santa to bring it this artistic little smoking table, 20½ inches high, maple finish. Its cedar-lined humidor drawer has four compartments. Complete, $5.

GIFTS, MEZZANINE

Derby Dan,

the pole sitter, goes on polesitting for ages, but to what avail? Moral: People who want to do a real champion stunt will give these new bangle bracelets for Christmas. They're irresistible—simulated pearls on antique gold finish metal. The wide style, $5.95. The other, $3.95.

JEWELRY, FIRST FLOOR

the two circus strong men worked up a much better act when they combined forces. Moral: de Raymond's popular "Mimzy" perfume and his new "Appel d'Amour" in a velvet jewel case now do a combination gift act that's a "pay-off." ¼ oz. each. Set, complete, $3.

STATE SPEEDS UP GRAFT EVIDENCE IN CANAL TRIAL

Story by Witness Causes His Arrest.

The prosecution speeded up its case yesterday by calling six major witnesses to the stand in Chief Justice Harry Fisher's Criminal court to give testimony against Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board during the whoopee era of 1927-28, and seven other trustees, former trustees and officials of the district. They are charged with graft conspiracy.

CHAS. SHURTLEFF.

The case is being heard without a jury. Judges John Prystalski and James J. Kelly are sitting with Judge Fisher in an advisory capacity.

Some of the important witnesses had to be pressed by the prosecutors, defense attorneys, and the judges to tell some of the strange methods by which they obtained money from the public treasury without work. One of the witnesses was taken into custody during the noon recess and another was put under a direct court subpoena to return later to give additional testimony. One woman said she did not discover that she was on the pay roll until notified that she was "fired." Her name was used by some one else.

Important Witnesses Heard.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, in charge of the prosecution, continued to present the "mine run" witnesses, as they were designated in court, but he dropped in the more important witnesses with more regularity than he had done previously. He personally questioned the important witnesses, while Assistants Jo Calvin Webb, Harold Keele, and Henry Seyfarth put through the minor payrollers. As court adjourned the prosecutor again refused a defense suggestion that he curtail his list of small fry payrollers. The outstanding witnesses yesterday were:

Charles J. Shurtleff, 5426 Potomac avenue, who was taken into custody for two hours after he had told a story considered improbable by the judges and lawyers. He was later released, but was directed by Judge Fisher to return tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The judge did not announce the purpose of the return. Shurtleff testified that he was placed in a lucrative job by a man he did not know, even though he was not in any way connected with politics.

Mrs. May Chapman, 1844 Mohawk street, who testified that she did not know she was a pay roller until she received a letter signed by John T. Miller, one of the defendants, telling her she was discharged. She said she went to the district office to inquire about the situation and that attaches there tried to take her letter from her, but she retrieved it. Somebody worked under her name for nearly one year. She said she was once offered a job, but refused to work with the Republican faction then in power in the city hall.

James E. Dempsey, 3241 North Hoyne avenue, brother of Jack Dempsey, assistant attorney general, according to the prosecutors. He was apparently unfriendly to the prosecution, and after some quibbling was called as a court's witness and questioned by Judge Fisher. He was first told to take the gum out of his mouth. He obtained large sums by fake expense accounts and also sold paint to the sanitary district from a mythical concern, the prosecutors said. He is to return later and give testimony on the paint sales.

Edward Brown Jr., 1642 North Austin avenue, who went on the pay roll at $150 a month while only 16 years old. His father is a secretary in Crowe's ward organization and holds a political job in the jury commission offices. He was employed to get samples of the water from the Kankakee river at Wilmington, he testified. Dr. Mohlman, the district chemist, told him to hire a man named Keith at $25 a month to get the samples, he said. Young Brown then pocketed the difference. His employment did not interrupt his studies at St. Ignatius High school, he said, and during summer vacations he was employed in a department store at $13 a week while still on the whoopee pay roll.

Edward F. Barnes, 122 North Kilpatrick avenue, said he was given a job through James Cullen, Deneen committeeman. He said he told Cullen he didn't want the job because he was busy and that he was told to take it—that no work would be expected from him. He spent money to pay precinct workers in 13 precincts in behalf of State's Attorney Swanson and Gov. Emmerson, he said.

Alexander Katz, 910 Eastwood avenue, who runs a barber shop at 1036 Leland avenue and is known as Crowe's personal barber, was the other outstanding witness. He told of jaunting around the west with Crowe and other Democratic leaders. He acted as their barber while collecting pay from the sanitary district. Among those on the trip to the Democratic national convention at Houston and then to the west coast, the barber said, were Crowe, State Representative Michael L. Igoe, Judge John J. Sullivan, Judge Frank Padden, Harry Wallace, and Harry Cole. Katz said that although Crowe lived on the far west side, he came regularly to his north side barber shop for attention.

Lawyer Is a Witness.

Among the other witnesses was Attorney Philip P. Bregstone, former assistant to the probate judge. He said he got several weeks' pay for doing publicity work with the foreign language newspapers for the Democratic national campaign.

"Judge, did you think it the right thing to do to take money from the sanitary district when you were doing no work for the district?" Attorney Fink asked Bregstone. The witness evaded a direct answer for a time, but finally said: "I was broke and needed the money."

Joseph Honan, 5230 Drexel avenue, now a real estate valuator for the city, told of getting part of the lucrative expense accounts given out by the district for Illinois Valley claims investigators. He was sponsored for his job by Representative Igoe, he testified. He collected a total of $8,175 in expenses in addition to $400 a month salary.

THE MORNING SESSION

Charles J. Shurtleff, 5426 Potomac avenue, an electric refrigerator salesman, was taken into custody over the noon hour on the order of Judge Fisher after he had told what the judges and attorneys considered an improbable story.

"If this man is telling the truth we should start a lunacy inquiry," said Judge Fisher.

"Lunacy, or perhaps it is criminality that is amazing," replied Prosecutor Northup. "It is so well covered up that it is hard to get at, but there is an outcropping here and there that points the way. We will show who is responsible for the system."

"Do you mean remotely or directly?" asked Attorney Fink.

"I am not saying," replied Northup, "but it will be effectively."

$2,712 Fake Expense Accounts.

Shurtleff, who formerly lived at 1056 North Mayfield avenue, calmly admitted that he had taken $2,712 from the public treasury in fake expense accounts for trips to Peoria which he never made, and had collected $300 monthly salary for work he never performed. He said that he did not know who got him his job. He asserted that it was a man who he believed was a committeeman in the 37th ward, Crowe's home ward. He met the man only twice and did not know his name, he said. His testimony was as follows:

Q.—How did you get your job? A.—I was out of work at the time and this man I talked to told me to go to Bob Crowe's (former state's attorney) office and I would get a letter there which would take care of me for a job. I went to his office and some man—it wasn't Crowe—gave me the letter.

Q.—Whom was the letter addressed to? A.—To Al Brodie, chief clerk of the sanitary law department. I gave him the letter and he told me he would call me when I was wanted. I reported once a week, but got no assignments.

Q.—What about the expense accounts? A.—When I was there about 10 days Brodie asked me if I had made out an expense account. I told him that I had not and he called in a tall, slender man and he showed me how to make them out. He told me what to put down for railroad fare, hotel, meals and taxicabs.

Q.—Did you divide your money with anybody? A.—No, I was not asked to.

Q.—Had you taken an active part in politics? A.—No, I never did any political work.

Attorney Fink cross-examined the witness. First he asked him to tell whom he was protecting, so that the defendants would not be blamed. The witness refused to recant his story. Further sharp questioning by the defense attorney had no effect. Some of Attorney Fink's questions were as follows:

Q.—Don't you think it was peculiar that you were not asked to give up some of this money? A.—Yes, it was, but nobody asked me.

Q.—Then why were you taking money—stealing it—that did not belong to you? A.—To protect my job.

Judge Joins in Quiz.

Judge Fisher tried his hand at shaking the story of the witness.

Q.—What do you mean, protecting your job? A.—Well, I thought I might lose my job if I didn't do what I was told.

Q.—I can't understand why all this favor should be showered on your. A.—I can't either. It was all like a beautiful dream to me.

The witness was examined about his grand jury appearance. He denied he was before a grand jury. Then Prosecutor Northup disclosed that he had been before a jury and had claimed his constitutional rights. He finally said he was advised by a lawyer friend to do this, but insisted that he did not know it was a grand jury before which he had appeared.

"Take this man into custody," said Judge Fisher as court adjourned for the noon recess.

Gets Job from Crowe.

Samuel H. Reed, 5742 West North avenue, now a photographer for the county, was also the recipient of a large sum through the medium of fake expense accounts, he testified. He got his job directly through application to Timothy Crowe. He is a precinct committeeman in Crowe's ward.

Reed said he charged for trips to Beardstown, a place which he admitted he had never seen.

CUPID BRIDGES YEARS TO UNITE GOTHAM COUPLE

Mrs. Olin, 70, and Howland Spencer Wed.

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Emeline Harriman Olin, widow of Stephen H. Olin and daughter of the late Oliver Harriman of this city, was married to Howland Spencer of New York this afternoon. The ceremony was at the apartment of the bride, 440 Park avenue. The bride is about 70 years of age, while Mr. Spencer is in the forties.

The marriage will come as a surprise to the friends of the couple, for no formal announcement had been made of their engagement. Only the bride's sister, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who was matron of honor, and Capt. R. Drace White, U. S. N., supervisor of the port of New York, who was best man, witnessed the ceremony, performed by Commander John W. Moore, senior naval chaplain of New York.

South for Honeymoon.

Mr. Spencer and his bride will motor south on their wedding trip and on their return will live in New York.

This is the third marriage for both the bride and bridegroom. The bride's first husband was William Earl Dodge, son of the philanthropist. After the death of Mr. Dodge his widow was married to Stephen H. Olin, who was a widower. Mr. Olin died several years ago.

In addition to Mrs. Vanderbilt, the present Mrs. Spencer is the sister of Mrs. Harriman Havemeyer and Oliver Harriman of this city and the sister-in-law of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of Washington, D. C.

Spencer a Divorcé.

Mr. Spencer is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Manford Spencer. His marriage to Miss Olivia Wyndham, daughter of Col. Guy Wyndham of Ramsbury, Wiltshire, England, who was his second wife, ended recently in divorce. That marriage took place in the spring of 1930. The former Miss Wyndham, who is a niece of the dowager marchioness of Queensberry and of Lady Grey of Folloden, sailed alone after her marriage for England. The divorce followed.

FLIGHT OF DEVOL FROM RAPE CHARGE IS TOLD IN LETTER

Carl B. Devol, Evanston insurance broker, accused of raping a 16 year old girl and of paying a Negro to attack her in his presence, has fled the jurisdiction of the Illinois courts and has no intention of returning, according to evidence presented yesterday at a hearing called before Judge Eberhardt in Felony court to determine his whereabouts.

W. W. Gillespie, business associate of Devol, who posted $3,000 bail for Devol upon his arrest on Nov. 25, read a letter received from Devol last Saturday and postmarked Chicago. The letter read as follows:

"Dear Bill: This is the last time I will bother you for some time. I'm going where there are no postoffices or anything else. Tell Marie (Devol's wife) to open all my mail, take out and indorse all checks, and pay the nets on whatever they may represent. Give your letter to her and she will have it mailed to me."

Mrs. Devol was also summoned to testify. Under questioning of Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin she insisted, despite the implication in Gillespie's letter, that she did not know her husband's whereabouts. When the prosecutor sought to press her Judge Eberhardt ruled that a wife could not be compelled to testify against her husband. Devol's attorney, Elliott Evans, admitted having received two letters from the fugitive, but insisted the missives were privileged.

CONTINUES McERLANE CASE.

The case of Frank McErlane, gunman and public enemy, charged with slaying his wife, Elfrieda McErlane, who was found shot to death in an automobile at 8129 Phillips avenue on Oct. 8, was continued until Jan. 7 by Judge Eberhardt in the Felony court yesterday.

SCHOOL BATTLE WITH DOWNSTATE FARM BLOC SEEN

Metropolitan Area to Put Plea to Assembly.

Marshalling of political forces of the Chicago metropolitan area to fight the downstate farm bloc in the state legislature was seen yesterday when 25 school board presidents, the executive committee of 100 school boards in Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page counties, left for Springfield to demand school tax aid through the passage of house bills 72 and 15.

House bill 72, especially framed to aid the school districts of Lake, Du Page, and Cook counties, was the direct cause for contention between the metropolitan area and the farm bloc. Officials of the Illinois Agricultural association refused even to consider the legislation. The bill provides for the combining of the present educational and building fund taxes into one tax known as the operating fund tax, with a rate of $1.62½ in maximum taxing districts, increasable to $2 by referendum, and the creation of a special tax of 37½ cents for the retirement of bonds and the payment of interest.

Demands Legislative Aid.

Howell Murray, president of the Highland Park school board, district 108, said that unless this remedial legislation was adopted by the legislature there would be a serious curtailment of education in Highland Park schools.

"At present we are faced with a deficit of $1,000 at the end of the school year, in addition to the spending of $10,000 in borrowed money, which was loaned by citizens for the purchase of needed supplies," Mr. Murray said.

"In round figures, our income is $140,000. We have $23,000 in bond and interest payments coming due in April. We will not default on those. Other fixed items are insurance, $4,000; heat and light, $8,000, and teachers' and other pay rolls, $109,000. That alone makes a $1,000 deficit. In addition, our chalk and needed supply items last year ran to $10,000, which we borrowed. The only item we can cut is the teacher appropriation, which means impaired education."

Opposed to Downstaters.

Representatives of the suburban school boards yesterday emphasized that the problem was of equal importance to all. They particularly stressed the fact that all suburbs are rapidly finding themselves allied with Chicago against the downstate rural interests.

"The legislation proposed by the Illinois Agricultural association," Mr. Murray said, "figuring on the average expense of the last four years and abolishing the state distributive fund, would mean a still further cut in our income."

MRS. GRACE CARRUTHERS.

MRS. CARRUTHERS TELLS OF RAID ON HUSBAND'S RANCH

Offers More Evidence in Divorce Suit.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Grace Carruthers of 441 St. James place, raised her lorgnette on the witness stand in Superior Judge Harry B. Miller's court yesterday and examined bits of torn paper pieced together on glass. She identified them as letters which are part of her exhibits in her divorce suit against Arthur S. Carruthers, wealthy sportsman.

Mrs. Carruthers charges that her husband deserted her three years ago and ran away to his ranch near Nogales, Ariz., with his secretary, Mrs. Pauline Dwyer. The letters and a diary, alleged to have been written jointly by Carruthers and Mrs. Dwyer, were identified yesterday but have not yet been introduced as evidence.

Tells of Raid on Ranch.

Mrs. Carruthers told of raiding the ranch and finding letters and the diary.

"I got this at the ranch," she said, pointing at the rearranged bits of one letter. "That was in August, 1929. I went there with my attorney, Edgar Cook; a policeman from Chicago, and a sheriff. We had a search warrant. I saw my car.

"I saw a woman ironing. She said she was Polly's mother. 'What are you doing here?' she asked me. 'I've come for my husband,' I said. 'You won't find him here,' she said. I looked around. Outside, in a trailer fastened to my car, was a bed and a lot of clothes, and I pulled the sheet off the bed and found this letter. It's in my husband's handwriting, to Pauline.

Takes Back Her Lingerie.

"I recognized some of my own lingerie in trunks we broke into in the house and we took that. I got a photograph album and the diary from a trunk in the house."

The following day, Mrs. Carruthers said, she and her attorney, accompanied by a deputy sheriff and policeman, arrested Mrs. Dwyer in a hotel room in Tucson. They did not find Carruthers, she testified.

The hearing will be resumed at 2:30 p. m. today.

OHIO GANG BACK IN WASHINGTON? 6 HOUSES STOLEN

Vanish After U. S. Contracts to Raze Them.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—"My God," said the vice president of the Heckinger Engineering corporation today, "the Ohio gang is back in town."

The corporation had contracted to raze 14 two story brick houses for the government, but government red tape had prevented start of the actual work.

Washington police today served notice on the corporation that its houses were a menace to public safety. The vice president of the company investigated and found six houses had been stolen completely and that the remaining eight were bare walls. Windows, doors, sills, floors, ceilings, roofs, fireplaces, and all plumbing and wiring had been purloined.

Low Bid Is Accepted.

The houses had been purchased by the municipal government so that the grounds might be converted into a playground. The government advertised for bids for razing them and the Heckinger corporation was low with $93 plus the material it could salvage.

The bid was accepted but the Hechinger people, having done business with the federal bureaucracy before, waited while the contract, bound with wider red tape, bounced hither and yon from one office to another, from one bureau to a second or third, and from one desk to another in each office and each bureau.

Then Comes Police Complaint.

Then came the police complaint and discovery of the vanished houses. Six men were arrested charged with stealing government property.

The Hechinger company put in a claim for its $93, asserting it was not its fault the houses it contracted to raze had been razed illegally and feloniously.

The company expects to wait patiently for some time to come while official red tape is carefully unwound until the $93 comes to light.

ALICE LONGWORTH IS SUGGESTED FOR JOB AS PHILIPPINE GOVERNOR

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 15.—(AP)—"Why not Alice?" asks the Philippine Free Press, a weekly publication, in suggesting that Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth might make a good governor general of the Philippines should Dwight F. Davis fail to return from his leave of absence.

"Frequent rumors that Theodore Roosevelt Jr., would be sent to Manila from Porto Rico," the paper says, "Give every indication that Malacanan functionaries are in danger of listening to that rollicking laugh and witnessing that dental smile which characterizes a Roosevelt, especially of the 'Teddy' branch.

"If some Roosevelt must be sent to Manila, why not the famous 'Princess Alice,' the wife of the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth? She made a great hit when she came out here as a girl. She might be able to do it again. Her executive ability is on a par with her brother's, and she seems to have inherited the political acumen of her presidential father. By all means, if we must have a Roosevelt, let it be Alice."

PARKING PROBLEM NO LONGER WORRY TO CONGRESSMEN

They Park Where and as Long as They Please.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Congressional and governmental members of the capital "I Gotta Drag" club have added "official" parking permits to their list of special privileges.

Fourteen hundred little white cards which the last congress authorized for itself have been distributed thus far, it was learned today. They have been allotted to every member of congress and to more than 800 federal officials as well.

The cards read "official parking permit," and are to be displayed on the windshield of the official's car while parked. And they are backed up by a little brown card signed by the secretary to the district commissioners which says the holder is on government business and therefore not to be disturbed.

The cards entitle the holder to park in restricted areas which the traffic bureau has designated in choice positions near government buildings. The restricted areas are designated by large signs reading: "Reserved for members of congress and government officials" or by white curbstones.

They are usually occupied by three or four cars, although in most cases they can accommodate a dozen or more.

Congressional bearers of the cards are also entitled under the provisions of the act which they formulated to park anywhere they choose in Washington any time they choose. The only restriction upon their choice of a parking place is that they stay fifteen feet away from fire plugs.

RAILROADS CALL ALL PRESIDENTS TO PAY PARLEY

Western Lines Approve Meeting with Union.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The railroad presidents of the United States will meet in New York on Friday to consider plans for entering into negotiations with railway union executives on wage and unemployment problems.

J. W. HIGGINS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

This was decided in Chicago yesterday at a meeting in the Union League club of the executives of lines in the western group. After this meeting the following statement was issued on behalf of the western presidents:

"After full discussion at today's meeting of the western lines it was decided that in the interest of reaching an agreement as promptly as possible with the employés in the matter of wage adjustments it was desirable that a joint meeting of eastern, southern and western lines be held at New York on Friday of this week and arrangements to that end will be made at once."

Willing to Join Conference.

Later it was announced at the office of John W. Higgins, chairman of the Association of Western Railways, that arrangements for the meeting on Friday had been completed through W. B. Cole, president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and chairman of the southern railway group, and Leander F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad and chairman of the eastern group.

Although the public statement of the western presidents gave no indication that they would agree to participate in the proposed joint conference with the labor representatives, it was learned that the group is willing to join in the conference.

Presidents of the eastern roads, in a meeting on Monday at New York, agreed to meet the union men and named three of their number to membership on a committee to represent them in the negotiations. It was expected that the western and southern groups would take the same action, but developments at yesterday's meeting in Chicago prompted the decision to hold a joint meeting of the three railway groups.

Some of the western presidents, it was learned, insisted that, although they were willing to try out the plan for negotiations which was submitted by the union men in their meetings here last week, they were of the opinion that they should serve formal notice on the unions at once demanding a 15 per cent cut.

Under the law as set down in the railway labor act, the roads must give 30 days' notice to the employés of any intention to lower wages. Some of the rail executives felt they should guard against a failure in the proposed negotiations and serve the 30 day notice immediately so that a month's time would not be lost should the conference fail to solve the wage problem.

The railroad managements would accept a 10 per cent cut if it were voluntarily and promptly accepted by the unions, but unless this is done they will institute proceedings to obtain a 15 per cent reduction, adding the 5 per cent, it was said, for the purposes of bargaining.

A few executives at yesterday's meeting, including W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, were strongly of a mind to issue the notice at once, even if their colleagues were inclined to temporize. These presidents, who were in the minority, were finally prevailed upon by the other heads to await at least the result of the New York meeting on Friday. It is considered possible that some of the railroad managements will serve notice on their employés, even if the majority is opposed to such procedure. The older heads in the group advised against such action, which might be taken by the labor organizations as an affront, and as an indication that the rail executives were not entering into the negotiations with open minds.

If the 30 day notices were served, the procedure to be followed under the law would be for the unions to object, for mediation and arbitration to be interposed, and if these fail, to have President Hoover appoint a commission to investigate both sides of the controversy and make recommendations.

Green Sees Work for All with 7 Hour Day, 5 Day Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—A shorter week and a restricted working day should be adopted by industry as one means of improving economic conditions and alleviating unemployment, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor asserted tonight. Speaking on the relationship of buying power to economic recovery, Mr. Green said that all workers could be employed if the number of hours worked per day were reduced to seven and the number of days worked per week by each employé were reduced to five.

Buying Power Weakened.

Mr. Green said that the buying power of wage earners has been reduced $11,000,000 since 1929.

"The number of totally unemployed," he said, "has fluctuated between five and seven million. At the present time approximately six million workers are continuously idle. There should be added to this number several million more who are working part time. This means that the total purchasing power of more than seven million people has been destroyed.

Savings Are Depleted.

"While many of these unfortunate idle workers may have drawn upon savings which they had accumulated during the early period of the depression, owing to its continuation, these savings have been exhausted until now a large percentage of these idle workers are totally dependent upon community and national assistance. Continuation of our national distress will serve to aggravate further the seriousness of the situation which now prevails.

"Work opportunities can be created, adjustments in the number of hours worked per day and the days worked per week can be made so that the slack of unemployment can be very largely taken up. There is enough work available to employ all workers who are able and willing to work if the number of hours worked per day was reduced to seven and the number of days worked per week was reduced to five in all the manufacturing and industrial plants throughout the nation."

Youth Shot in Burglary, Bullet Tests Disclose

Ballistics tests yesterday indicated that William Boranjo Jr., 17 year old newsboy, who is in a critical condition at St. Bernard's hospital with a bullet wound in his abdomen, was shot while fleeing from the burglary of an antique store at 2132 North Cicero avenue, Magnus Peterson, who lives over the store, told police that he wounded one of the gang of burglars who fled from the store early Monday. The tests showed that the bullet taken from Boranjo's body was fired from Peterson's gun.

244 TAKE PART IN FINALS OF GOLDEN CARDS

Winners to Be Announced Friday Morning.

It was early apparent, in the red lacquer room of the Palmer house last night, that the finals of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Card bridge tournament were a huge success. Almost overwhelmingly so. It wasn't nearly so quickly apparent which teams would ultimately carry off the grand championship of the event, for at a late hour the entire sixty-one tables were still going strong and the play was highly competitive.

Due to the unexpectedly large number of acceptances received in comparison with the invitations extended, the work of supervising the scoring was considerably more complicated than had been anticipated. For that reason, the brace of scorers, Frank and Herbert Tobin, decided that it would be necessary to make a careful survey of the tallies and that it would not be possible to announce the winners until Friday morning.

244 Players in Finals.

Out of 250 players whose high scores in the preliminaries of Dec. 7 entitled them to the privilege of entering the finals to compete for the trophies offered, a total of 243 were on hand last night. Two extra players filled out the necessary number, and there were therefore sixty-one tables in play in the spacious room, which made a most attractive setting for the event.

A number of recognized first rank Chicago contract players were among the contestants. These included L. J. Haddad, president of the Auction Bridge Club of Chicago; Edward J. Tobin, a veteran of forty years' experience, president of the Chicago Whist club, and father of Frank and Herbert Tobin, tournament officials. Mrs. Trudy Pennish and Robert W. Hainin, both outstanding players, who were paired in the preliminaries; Mrs. Ottilie Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Goldsmith, Mrs. Charles True Adams, and a score of others.

Any of these players was considered a likely candidate for high honors, as most of them have captured numerous prizes in strong competition, in some instances of national importance. But the identity of the winners will remain undecided until Thursday afternoon, when a check has been made of all scores and there is no chance of errors going undetected in the scoring.

Adams Directs Event.

Charles True Adams, TRIBUNE bridge editor, was in charge of the event last night and inaugurated the games with an address in which the rules and regulations were detailed and the trophies displayed. Edward J. Tobin, one of those who filled in the extra table, then designated the manner of scoring and the method of changing tables. Duplicate contract was played at all tables.

The names of the grand prize winners and of the winners in each of the sections will be announced in Friday morning's paper. The trophies will then be awarded at the Tribune Tower and pictures will be taken of the triumphant teams.

NEW ZEALAND'S ECONOMIES FAIL TO ERASE DEFICIT

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 15.—(AP)—New Zealand's chances of "making ends meet" in the current financial year are rapidly disappearing, despite increased taxation and governamental economies, Finance Minister Downie Stewart said yesterday.

He urged further economies, saying he thought prospects for the next financial year would be still more difficult. While a considerable falling off in revenue had been allowed for in the current year, his statement said, the actual drop during the eight months ending Nov. 30 had been nearly $15,000,000.

Expenditures were $5,000,000 below the budget estimate for the period, but owing to the fluctuations in sterling this figure was not so favorable as it might appear, Mr. Stewart stated.

Robber Enters Home, Beats Victim, Escapes with $200

A robber who wore the gray uniform of a delivery boy yesterday gained admittance to the home of Mrs. Joseph Wadzinski, 4041 Kummerling avenue, and beat Wadzinski's son, Adam, 24 years old, into unconsciousness. He took the family savings, $200, from a box in a dresser.

LUNCHES A BOON TO THINLY CLAD PUPILS IN COLD

Warm Food Helps Combat Lack of Clothing.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4123 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

It's wonderful what a cup of hot chocolate will do to reconcile a fellow to the lack of an overcoat. Cold weather has a depressing effect on chilly clad children who struggle to school these wintry days.

These youngsters appreciate the warm lunch served each noon through the Hungry School Children's fund. They can tell you how grateful it is to file into a penny lunchroom, from the doors of which tantalising odors have been drifting down the halls, and to grasp that cup of hot chocolate and the warm dishes that go with it to make up the meal.

Health authorities are outspoken in commendation of these regular daily lunches, for their value in maintaining a normal physical condition in the children of families affected by the economic slump.

At the McClurg shops at 218 South Wabash avenue the world's smallest book is being exhibited free to the public. This tiny volume, smaller than a postage stamp, is a complete book, printed in type so small that powerful magnifying lenses are necessary to read it at all, yet the printing is a work of art. There is no admission to view the curiosity, but part of the proceeds from the sale of souvenir booklets has been promised to the fund.

Contributions yesterday were:

$20—Chicago Dodgeville club.

ROBBER HOLDS UP GIRL CASHIER IN HILLMAN'S CAFE

After eating a leisurely meal yesterday in Hillman's cafeteria, 24 West Washington street, a slim bandit, with a partially concealed pistol, held up the cashier, Miss Rebecca Zuckermann, 5525 Glenwood avenue, and escaped with between $150 and $200. None of the diners was aware the robbery had taken place. The bandit spoke in a quiet voice and, after scooping up the money, he walked slowly down the stairs and into the street. Miss Zuckermann signaled Miss Grace Bolan, 1402 Carmen avenue, the manager, who followed him into the street, but he vanished in the crowd. Last January two guards were killed by three gunmen in a robbery of the Hillman food store. The robbers were later captured.

BRIDGE SESSION GIVES 410 LEAD TO CULBERTSONS

New York, Dec. 16 [Wednesday.]—[Special.]—After a night in which the lead had swung back and forth repeatedly, Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson were 410 points ahead of Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby at the close of play in their contract bridge match at the Hotel Chatham early this morning.

The Culbertsons won five of the eight rubbers playing during the night.

When play began on the last rubber of the night the Culbertsons were as much as 1,550 ahead, but 13 hands of whittling play left them with a margin of only 410 when a recess was taken until Thursday evening.

With the Lenz team leading by 15 points at the start, the progress of the play by rubbers was as follows:

Rubber.
41—Four hands, won by Culbertsons; Culbertsons now + 895.
42—Eleven hands, won by Lenz; Lenz now + 475.
43—Five hands, won by Culbertsons; Culbertsons + 390.
44—Six hands, won by Lenz; Lenz + 490.
45—Five hands, won by Culbertsons; Culbertsons now + 135.
46—Six hands, won by Culbertsons; Culbertsons now + 620.

48—Thirteen hands, won by Lenz; Culbertsons now + 410.

Here's Two Draw Systems.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Two rival systems of draw poker will undergo a scientific test here starting tomorrow.

Jack Peters, old time Alaska sourdough, follows the Klondike system, in which "you play 'em when you have 'em, and at such other times as may confuse your opponent."

George Brown, veteran sailmaker and rigger, who will compete against Peters, learned his poker in the seagoing school. He plays them "close to the chest and under no circumstances draws to an inside straight."

One hundred and fifty hands will be played.

LAWRENCE TIBBETT TO WED DIVORCEE EARLY IN JANUARY, SHE SAYS

Reno, Nev., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—A few hours after she obtained a divorce here, her second experience of the same sort in Reno, Mrs. Jennie Marston Burgard today announced to friends that early in January she will be married to Lawrence Tibbett, screen star and singer.

The ceremony, she said, will take place in New York.

Mrs. Burgard's first divorce was from Robert Adams, son of the multi-millionaire chewing gum manufacturer, about twelve years ago. Tibbett, following repeated denials of a marital rift, was divorced by Mrs. Tibbett on Sept. 15, last, on the ground that his temperament caused her great mental distress.

PHILADELPHIA TO PAY EMPLOYES WITH WARRANTS

First Instance Since City Was Chartered.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—For the first time since the creation of the city charter, Philadelphia is compelled to pay its 28,000 city and county workers with individual warrants instead of cash.

With this month's current and delinquent tax receipts falling off and the total return "earmarked" for sinking fund obligations on capital borrowing due Dec. 31, fiscal authorities had no money today for the $1,525,000 Dec. 15 payroll.

Philadelphia banks declined to make a short term payroll loan, which would have been the third in recent months. The mayor, city solicitor, and city controller adopted the expedient of paying by warrant, certified by the controller and stamped negotiable by the city treasurer.

Issuance of warrants will get under way before the end of the week, it is expected. There are not sufficient engraved forms to meet the requirements of 28,000 employes, so most of the documents will be printed merely when tendered.

May Prove Collateral.

It may be possible for the workers to tender the warrants individually for banking credit, or to present them to merchants as collateral for purchases.

City Solicitor Ashton conferred all afternoon with attorneys for the banking syndicate headed by the Philadelphia National bank, the city's fiscal agent, in an endeavor to obtain $3,250,000 cash to meet both Dec. 15 and Dec. 31 pay rolls.

The city's law department is drafting an ordinance which will be considered by the city council Thursday, providing for a borrowing, up to a 12 month limit, by the legislative branch, on about $7,000,000 of city bonds still unsold in the city treasurer's "across the counter" sale of a $15,000,000 issue.

If enacted, and the proposal is accepted by the banking syndicate, a like amount of bonds will be pledged as collateral for the $3,250,000 borrowing, with arrangement for progressive repayment as the bonds are sold.

Mr. Mackey said he would personally cash the $2,000 payroll of attaches of his office and bank their warrants in his name for future payment.

Paying for Old Splurge.

Philadelphia's financial plight is due largely to enormous expenditures in recent years, beginning with the Sesquicentennial fiasco of 1926, which saddled a debt of some $15,000,000 on the taxpayers. This was followed by such huge projects as subways, an art museum, a public library, boulevards, and city railway improvements on the banks of the Schuylkill. Of every dollar now paid into the city treasury approximately one-third must go into the sinking fund to retire bonds when due.

The city tax rate for 1931 is $1.515. That, with the .95 of a cent levy for school purposes, makes a combined rate of $2.775 on each $100. City council announced ten days ago that the city rate would be increased .355. That brought about a public revolt unprecedented in the history of the city. Huge massmeetings were held and thousands marched upon the city hall in protest.

Council quickly surrendered and decided there would be no increase. Leaders now face the necessity of cutting $12,000,000 from a budget of $100,000,000. The first recuperative decision was to reduce the pay of every city employe, including police and firemen, one-third. Then public resentment flared again in behalf of the city's guardians.

"Drive out the city hall drones!" was the cry.

Council again capitulated and is now frantically seeking other means.

Germany Holds Up Wages; Cuts Off Xmas Shopping

NOISY RAIDERS CAUSE GUNMEN TO FREE GUARD

Seize Huge Still at Old Varnish Plant.

Five men were in the custody of police and federal authorities last night following a raid on one of the largest and most complete outlaw distilling plants in prohibition history here. The stills, vats and drums of finished alcohol were housed in a plant of the defunct Wheeler Varnish company at 2256-74 Elston avenue.

The noise of shattering glass as the raiders attacked the still equipment with axes probably saved the life of Robert Wolf, a caretaker, who was in the hands of a gang of five gunmen in another part of the plant.

Threaten Life of Caretaker.

The gang had threatened to kill Wolf, accusing him of informing the federal agents, and were about to take him away in their car when the noise from the distilling plant revealed to them that the raiders had already arrived. The gunmen fled without Wolf.

Wolf had been placed in the abandoned varnish plant on Friday by the Chicago Title and Trust company, receivers. The varnish company sold the plant to Paul Ginsberg & Co., auctioneers, on Oct. 15.

Ginsberg said last night that he had resold the building and knew nothing about the action on Dec. 8 when the Chicago Title and Trust company was named receiver.

Refused Admittance, Charge.

When Wolf went into the plant he found Louis Goldman, who claimed to be a representative of the Ginsberg interests, also employed as a caretaker. Goldman is one of the men held by the government. Wolf told prohibition agents that Goldman would not let him go into the boiling plant of the company, nor would he allow any other representatives of the receivers to enter it.

It was in the boiling plant that government agents found a 3,000 gallon still, a 1,500 gallon finishing still, six vats of mash, each one 12 feet high and 20 feet in diameter, one 10,000 gallon vat for mixing purposes, and 800 gallons of finished alcohol ready for shipment.

Three Workers Arrested.

The raiders found three men working in the place. They identified themselves as Joseph Moran, 24 years old, 1638 Mohawk street, Charles Darrow, 25 years old, 1848 North Lockwood avenue, and Lawrence Conti, 26 years old, 1332 Cleveland avenue. All were held in bonds of $5,000 by Commissioner Walker on charges of violating the prohibition law.

The fifth prisoner was Joseph Biafari, who was seized in the Vel Mar hotel at 2121 Washington boulevard

MOSLEMS REJECT LEAGUE'S EDICT ON WAILING WALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Dec. 15.—The Pan-Islamic conference closed today. Resolutions which were passed include the support of the idea of a Moslem university, rejection of the league of nations' decision allowing Jews the right to pray at the Wailing Wall, and the refusal to sell land to the Jews and a boycott on British products.

Discussing the British mandate over Palestine, an Indian delegate urged the adoption of India's passive resistance and no-tax campaign. The conference fixed the next congress two years hence.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The name of Mahatma Gandhi appears for the first time in the British "Who's Who" for 1932. The Indian leader, who has a total space of ten lines, is described as a "barrister."

Three prominent Americans were also included for the first time. One of these is the late Senator Dwight Morrow, who died after the volume had gone to press.

The others are Bobby Jones and "Bill" Tilden, who is described as "journalist and author, also actor; three times world champion of tennis."

9 BANKS SHUT IN MASSACHUSETTS BUT MAY REOPEN

Depositors' 60 Million Is Reported Protected.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—A feeling of optimism pervaded Boston's financial district today following the first shock of the closing of the Federal National bank, its five branches in Boston, and eight affiliated banks in other parts of the state.

With the closing of the eight affiliated banks in Lowell, Lynn, Gloucester, Brockton, Worcester, Lawrence, and Cambridge Gov. Joseph P. Ely, following a conference with bank officials, assured the public that no banks except those affiliated with the closed Federal National were affected and that prompt use of the new Federal Credit corporation should result in a speedy reopening of all the banks.

Named as Receiver.

The Boston Clearing House association, from which the Federal National withdrew in May, 1930, and Bank Commissioner Arthur Guy issued optimistic statements, while President Daniel C. Mullooney of the Federal National reiterated the statement made shortly before last midnight in his announcement of the closing that, with proper handling of the assets, depositors would be paid in full.

From Washington Controller of the Currency J. W. Pole announced that Herbert Pearson of his staff had been appointed receiver of the Federal National.

Closings of the affiliated banks, it was announced by officials, was to protect the depositors, because runs might develop due to their connection with the closed Boston bank. While many depositors and the usual curious throngs visited all banks affected, there was no semblance of disorder.

Three Are National Banks.

Deposits in closed banks, including the Federal National and its five branches in Boston, amounted to $80,496,000. Three of the banks closed were national banks—the Middlesex National of Lowell, the Gloucester National and the State National bank of Lynn. The other five are trust companies, the Lawrence Trust company, Brockton Trust company, Inman Trust company of Cambridge, Bancroft Trust company of Worcester, and Salem Trust company.

At the last statement of condition of the bank on Sept. 29, deposits were given as $28,236,288.10, and assets at $32,841,062.80. On Nov. 30, the bank paid $390,000 in Christmas club funds. The bank formerly was a Massachusetts trust company, organized as the Federal Trust company in 1899.

Two Momence Banks Close.

Momence, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The only two banks in town closed today by agreement "to conserve the interests of depositors." They are the Farish State bank and the First National bank.

Blame Cashier for Closing.

Marion, O., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Henry B. Hane, president of the Marion National bank, said that apparent irregularities in the accounts of his son, H. W. Hane, former cashier, caused the closing of the bank today.

Iowa Bank Fails to Open.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The First Trust and Savings bank of Sioux City closed today. Capitalized at $100,000, the bank had deposits of about $700,000. It was said the depositors would be paid in full.

Cashier Kills Self; Bank Shut.

Corinth, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Corinth National bank was closed by the directors today following the suicide of its cashier, E. Eldred Pruyn.

A WOMAN ASKS: WHY BUY 1932 AUTO TAG IF OLD IS GOOD AS NEW?

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Why should an automobile owner buy a new license plate by Jan. 1 when the 1931 tag is as good as new?

The North Carolina highway department today revealed it had received such an inquiry from a woman motorist of the state.

The woman wrote that the license plate for 1931, which she bought just two months ago, had been well taken care of, had not been scratched or otherwise marred, and she failed to understand why it would not serve after Dec. 31.

The department did not make public its reply.

MERCHANTS THAW OUT DES PLAINES' FROZEN DEPOSITS

$250,000 Supplied for Christmas Funds.

The merchants of Des Plaines have evolved a plan by which the depositors of the Des Plaines State bank, which was closed last June, may make purchases up to 20 per cent of their deposits. This will mean about $250,000 for Christmas holiday expenditures. The arrangements have been completed by the business men of the suburb in cooperation with William Busse Jr., receiver for the bank.

Fred A. Fulle, president of the Merchants' Relief committee, which is sponsoring the credit plan, said yesterday that there are about 3,000 depositors. The bank had about $1,200,000 in deposits when it closed, Mr. Fulle said, and no payments have been made to depositors.

Clearing House Formed.

In carrying out the plan the merchants have organized a clearing house through which each depositor will assign 20 per cent of his deposit and receive a card showing the amount of his credit. When he makes a purchase the depositor will take his credit card to the clearing house, where a record of the purchase will be kept and the amount deducted on his card.

Mr. Fulle said that the bank is expected to make a first payment to depositors of between 20 to 25 per cent within 60 days and when that is done any credit not used by a depositor in the merchants' plan will be given to him in cash.

Purchases Are Started.

"We feel that the plan will help to lift the depression from Des Plaines," Mr. Fulle stated. "I have received word that already three automobiles will be purchased because of the prospect of getting the 20 per cent credit cards. There have been many smaller purchases.

"So far 41 of our merchants have endorsed the plan and I feel sure that many others will follow. The depositors, many of them in straitened circumstances, will not only have funds for Christmas shopping but they can pay their bills, some of which are long past due."

The merchants relief committee was formed at a meeting of the business men of the suburb last week. Another meeting will be held at 2 o'clock today in the Masonic temple.

ELMORE IS FREED AFTER ARREST IN BAIN BANK QUIZ

May Charge Canal Trustee with Embezzlement.

After spending six hours in the custody of a policeman yesterday, Howard W. Elmore, sanitary district trustee, was released late yesterday afternoon after habeas corpus proceedings had been instituted before Superior Judge Michael McKinley. Elmore was permitted to go free on a bond of $1,000 and the hearing was continued until Dec. 21, at which time the state's attorney's office will decide whether to prosecute Elmore on charges of embezzlement.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Lounsbery told the judge that he had not had time to consider the evidence gathered by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg against Elmore and asked for more time to study the case.

May Be Prosecuted.

Judge Feinberg ordered Elmore's arrest and instructed Prosecutor Lounsbery to examine the record with a view to prosecuting the sanitary district trustee for embezzlement of $31,000 from a trust fund. Elmore was associated with John Bain, head of the ill-fated Bain banks, in the organization of two trusts in the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, one of the Bain chain. Elmore was collecting agent for the trusts. The money was to be turned over to the bank.

Elmore admitted some weeks ago that he was short $31,000 in payments to the trusts and asked for time in which to raise the money. Yesterday he appeared with his attorney, Franklin Hinckley, and said he had not been able to raise the money.

Judge Calls Prosecutor.

Judge Feinberg sent for Prosecutor Lounsbery and remarked:

"About five weeks ago Mr. Elmore appeared here and testified that he was away a good deal of the time when the money was collected. The money was used for his private business purposes. His absence when the money was collected does not excuse him from legal responsibility when the money so collected was not applied and paid over as required by the trust agreement.

"I have given Mr. Elmore a total of five weeks in which to raise this money. There has been no offer made to the court of even a part of that money. This court, in view of these circumstances, has a painful duty to perform. There is only one thing I can do, and that is to charge the state's attorney to take Mr. Elmore into custody and see that a complaint is filed. If not a complaint, then an indictment for embezzlement."

Elmore was technically taken into custody, but was allowed to sit in the office of his attorney while the lawyer filed a writ of habeas corpus, which was issued by Judge McKinley and made returnable at 3 p. m.

Elmore Makes Explanation.

"I don't want any one to think I'm trying to evade my moral responsibilities," Elmore declared. "The only reason I didn't turn over the money is because it was collected by Howard W. Elmore & Co., and I am advised by my attorney that if I paid it now I might be required to pay it a second time. It's a question of law and I don't want to take a chance of having to pay twice."

Judge Feinberg continued the hearing concerning John Bain, Inc., a Bain holding company, until Dec. 29. He announced that the four physicians who examined Bain in the Evangelical hospital of Chicago last week had agreed to report to him in person this week and explain the result of their findings. The judge has expressed a desire to examine Bain in the hospital when the condition of the banker will permit.

Names Attorneys for Inquiry.

Judge Feinberg announced that three attorneys would assist him in the future in discovering hidden assets of the sixty closed banks which are scheduled for hearing before him. They are Angus Roy Shannon, former counsel for the school board; Elwood G. Godman, and Edward R. Johnston. All three will assist the judge in an investigation of the affairs of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, the next institution to be examined.

The first of a series of public hearings in an effort to induce debtors to settle their obligations to more than seventy closed banks in the county will be opened today in the Criminal court building under the direction of Prosecutor Henry Ayers. Following instructions from State's Attorney Swanson, detectives were sent out last night with twenty-eight subpenas to serve on debtors of the Citizens Trust and Savings bank, South State street and Garfield boulevard, one of the closed banks.

Debtors who refuse to answer the prosecutor's questions will face grand jury action, Mr. Ayers said.

Seeks to Speed Nelson Trial.

Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff yesterday advised State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county that he wished to start the trial of State Auditor Oscar Nelson on charges of misfeasance in office on Dec. 21 instead of Jan. 18 as originally scheduled.

"I am very much inclined to start the misfeasance trial of State Auditor Nelson on Dec. 21," the judge wrote to the state's attorney. "I believe the defense attorneys will be agreeable to this. My decision next Saturday will probably be to that effect unless you can convince me that some legal obstacle exists."

Prosecutor Smith said he would oppose the earlier trial, because he had not been allowed enough time to examine the voluminous record in the case. The alleged misfeasance was in connection with the failure of the Waukegan State bank last June. Mr. Nelson was also indicted on charges of conspiracy together with Norman O. Geyer and George Woodruff as a result of the bank crash, and the trial on these charges would be heard Jan. 18, the date first set.

Mr. Smith also pointed out that the trial of four members of the "42" gang on charges of robbing the William H. Mitchell home in Lake Forest is scheduled for trial Dec. 21 in Lake county and that his presence in court will be necessary in this case.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA CONTINUES IN GRIP OF COLD WEATHER

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Unusually cold weather continued to grip southern California last night, the streets and lots of Los Angeles and the meadows and orchard areas about the city being visited by a blanket of frost. Snow continued falling steadily in the uplands and portions of the foothill district ringing the city, although there was no return of yesterday's snowfall in the city limits. The city's official minimum weather reading in the last 24 hours was 40; the maximum was 48.

POOR RAID FOOD SHOPS IN ITALY; DISTRESS GROWS

Workers and Employers Help Jobless.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 15.—If Fascism so far has apparently withstood the shock of the depression, largely because Italy is agricultural and under-industrialized, there are, nevertheless, growing signs of hardship and distress in both rural and urban centers.

In Rome, despite the public works and building campaign, there are whole sections in the Ghetto, the San Lorenzo and the Trastevere districts where families are living in one room. Many families are without fuel. Food consists chiefly of spaghetti or bread dipped in oil. Many are clothed in rags. Some men and women even tie felt around their feet in lieu of shoes.

In Rome street beggars are becoming more numerous. Outside the city are wooden barracks, unfit for human habitation, where these destitute people take shelter.

The hill towns back of Rome are painful examples of squalor and poverty. Many live in old, thatched huts. In some of the villages donkeys and other animals are quartered in the owner's room.

Police are coping with food raids by the hungry. Several days ago 30 workmen in the Grabatello section of Rome fled with bread. At the Victor Emmanuel market small groups raided food carts and were driven off by police.

Similar incidents have been reported at Girgenti, Sicily, and Catanzaro and Foggia. The archbishop of Genoa, on his arrival in Rome, reported growing difficulty in dealing with unemployment in Genoa.

Vatican City has announced that 2,000 men are on the public work pay rolls.

Duce Sees Strange Contrast.

Premier Mussolini recently inspected the progress of the public works program in Rome. The picture he saw presented a strange contrast. Thousands of men were hard at work on new public buildings, houses, and road-making, but in the streets beside them stood ragged women and children with pinched faces.

Throughout Italy the practice of workmen's syndicates and employers' federations of contributing the equivalent of a half day's wages each month to unemployment funds is being extended. All members of the San Carlo opera at Naples give one day's pay each month.

At Padua the agriculture works will contribute five days' pay between now and March 1. Thirty thousand destitute in Turin are receiving assistance from the Fascist Benefit association. At Treviso and Grosseto workers have voted to give the poor one per cent of their monthly pay. Employers are adding a similar amount.

Pay Rents in Advance.

The same arrangement has been effected by commercial workers and employers at Avellino. Newspapers have started a campaign to thaw out funds tied up through peculiar local customs in Rome. One paper estimated that millions of lire are tied up here through the three months' advance rent deposits demanded by landlords.

Similar guarantee deposits are exacted for nearly every other form of contract, such as telephone, telegraph, electricity and water.

Another paper charged that there are 20,000 new and empty apartments in Rome representing 200,000,000 lire [about $11,000,000] capital, which yield nothing to the state nor to their proprietors. The edition of the newspaper which contained these charges was suppressed by the censor.

Italy's unemployed total was announced as 878,000 on Nov. 30, or an increase of 73,000 during November. Of these 240,000 are living on the dole.

PLAN STATE BODY TO URGE WORK IN BUILDING TRADES

Governor to Be Asked to Call Meeting.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Gov. Emmerson is to be asked soon to call a mass meeting of statewide representation for the purpose of starting a permanent movement toward unemployment relief, particularly in the building industries.

This proposal, which was made yesterday by Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the National Association of Building Trades Employers, the Illinois Builders' league, the Construction Investment Trust, and other organizations, may take the form of a modified Rochester plan, with greatest stress laid upon the home modernizing programs, on which the building industries in several states are now at work.

Indiana Offers Example.

Illinois, according to Mr. Rosenthal, is to be asked to follow the example of Indiana, which has just organized a statewide building trades section of its state commission for unemployment relief. Steps toward approaching the governor have already been taken by the Allied Construction council, and it is planned to ask the cooperation of Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, in this new method of approach to the unemployment problem.

A number of Illinois cities have already started work on home building and modernization campaigns, and it is pointed out by C. G. Ferris, executive vice president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, that the record of these cities may equal that of Rochester. Decatur is one example. Muncie, Ind., through the work of its building trades section of the chamber of commerce, has found whole or part time employment for 1,000 men during the last nine months.

Seeks National Movement.

Gov. Leslie of Indiana, however, considered this time ripe for a state movement along this line and now Mr. Rosenthal has begun a similar work in Illinois. Gov. Roosevelt of New York is also said to be considering such action.

"If this could be made a national movement," said Mr. Rosenthal, "it would overcome the economic unbalance and pave the way toward putting business on its feet. The building industry is the barometer of business. There are twenty-one million buildings in this country. If $200 was spent in improving each one it would start the biggest building program this country has ever known. The release of the immense purchasing power of the building laborers would react upon general business in a permanent way. This is the corner around which prosperity lies. There is no other way.

"I would have the people receivers rather than givers. I would have them makers of men. This is the great spiritual-economic opportunity this country has. We must make the hammers ring again and put our neighbor to work.

Repairs Give Big Returns.

"I do not say that we need new office buildings at once or new apartments on the drive. These will have to wait a few years. But we do need today thousands of small apartments and small homes. Men are neglecting their properties. The expenditure of a few dollars will bring property back to beauty and usefulness. Every dollar spent in alteration or repair means the saving of several dollars in depreciation. Every dollar spent in modernizing will produce several dollars in added values.

"Eighty to ninety per cent of every dollar spent in modernizing and construction is immediately translated into wages—wages on the job, in the office, in the field and in transportation."

The Construction Investment Trust, to which union labor has been a large subscriber, is ready to stand back of the new program, Mr. Rosenthal said. His plan embraces a lien on the property to be improved.

Whether the Rochester pledge card system would be well adapted to Illinois at this time, the extension of the creation of employment to other lines, and the method of organizing and campaigning would all be left to the meeting which the governor is to be asked to call, and out of which, it is expected, a committee of strength would emerge.

WARNS PAL; KILLED HIMSELF.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Warning his companion as they rode on top of a North Western freight train to be careful lest he be jolted off, Harry Wallace, 38, of Storm Lake, Ia., a moment later was jostled from the top of one car and ground to death under another late last night near Salix, Ia.

SPEAKER GARNER IS SENT A GAVEL, TOLD WHAT TO DO WITH IT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The mail today brought Speaker Garner one gavel he isn't likely to break.

It was from George Rohleder of Eagle Pass, Tex., and bore this card: "Friend John: This gavel is good for anybody that raises new issues or wants to send our money across the sea. We need our dollars here. Make those rowdy boys behave."

The new gavel is a steel headed hammer with a hickory handle.

JUST IN CASE THE WHOOPEE IS FADING OUT

New Service Brings You the "Mixers."

A home delivery setup service, to fill in that gap between the running out of the ginger ale and cracked ice supply and the breaking up of the party, has timed its debut in Chicago with the approach of the holiday season.

The business is founded upon the theory that a sober man can never anticipate the volume of drinking a party can do after it gets under way and lay in an adequate supply. It is introduced to Chicagoans by a little booklet, distributed by the thousands, entitled "Here's How," and containing the recipes for twenty-six mixed drinks—"a little booklet of big ideas."

Just Go to the Phone.

If the guests are leaving in disgust and the corner drug store is closed or won't make a delivery, just call a certain telephone number, the prospective customer is told, and right away the party will be humming again. Not only cracked ice and ginger ale, charged water and soda, but the cordials, fruit juices, sugar syrup, etc., necessary for the various cocktails and highballs, will be delivered in ten minutes, according to the prospectus.

The booklet gives directions for making such drinks as John and Tom Collins, Tom and Jerry, Rum Royal, Bronx Cheer, whisky sour, old fashioned, martini, manhattan, sazarac and hong chow cocktails, and contributes two additions to the cocktail family. These are the depression and the Swiss itch. The recipe for the depression cocktail is:

For the Swiss itch, "Fill small cocktail glass with ice cold gin. Add one-fourth teaspoon of salt and leave forwarding address."

But Here's a Drawback.

A business like young woman, pleasant of voice, answered the telephone when the number was called and explained that the service, under no circumstances, could supply the gin, rum, bourbon or Scotch called for in the recipes, but would be glad to send the bitters or cordials. "You will find the service very convenient and I shall look forward to your call," she said.

The booklet cautions its readers not to use any of the recipes "for illegal purposes," specifies that they are for use "with non-alcoholic cordials." All night service, from 6 until 8, is promised.

HUNT TRUSTED EMPLOYE AS $52,000 THIEF

The police are searching for Vincent E. Cieslewicz, 42 years old, on the charge of embezzling $52,000 from Paddleford & Lamy, who until Saturday were in the stock and grain brokerage business at 208 South La Salle street.

Cieslewicz, who lived at 5234 South Paulina street, had been a trusted employe of the concern for 17 years, and held the post of office manager. He disappeared three weeks ago, and an audit of the concern's books disclosed the shortage, it was said.

Fred A. Paddleford and Joe F. Lamy, partners in the concern, announced Saturday that they had suspended business and would join other brokerage houses.

This will be the first time President von Hindenburg has appealed to Germans directly.

POLITICAL "WAR" FLARES IN SPAIN OVER CABINET

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Dec. 15.—Premier Manuel Azana tonight formed the first constitutional cabinet of the republic and the first under the presidency of Alcala Zamora. The cabinet, as announced by the premier, is as follows:

Premier Azana—War.
Luis de Zulueta—State.
Jaime Carner—Treasury.
José Giral—Marine.
Santiago Casares Quiroga—Interior.
Fernando de Los Rios—Public instruction.
Francisco Largo Caballero—Labor.
Indalecio Prieto—Public works.
Marcelino Domingo—Agriculture.

Only Two New Faces.

There are two new faces in the government, Jaime Carner, rich Catalan lawyer and economist, who has been given the tough job of handling the finances, and Zulueta, the classicist, whom the pope refused to accept as the republic's ambassador last spring, who becomes head of the ministry of foreign affairs.

Missing is Nicolau Dolwer, the Catalan minister of economy who made way for his compatriot Garner, Alejandro Lerroux, who had been foreign minister since the establishment of the republic and who has served as president of the council of the league o. nations and his chief aid, Barrios, minister of transportation, whose successor has yet to be named. Their departure will leave a big gap.

Ninety-four votes in the cortes, to be exact, is the size of the gap. Other consequences may be more serious.

Lerroux and his party of so-called radicals, in whom many brands of demoralized Spanish conservatism and clericalism put its hope, walked out of parliament, bitterly disappointed to find themselves condemned to go on playing second fiddle to the Socialists.

Expected More from Azana.

They expected more from Premier Azana, who until today had been their ally, but found that although the Socialists had been pried from the finance ministry they still clung to the key ministry of labor and had moved into the ministries of public works and education. They are also incensed at the acquisition of finance by the very Catalan, who drafted the most fiscal clauses in the Catalan statutes which this government will bring before the deputies.

They also saw themselves condemned backing agrarian reforms, largely Socialist in inspiration and of which they disapprove.

By entering the opposition ranks, Lerroux counts on agitating an earlier dissolution of the cortes and reaping conservative sympathies in an election.

The new ministry will appear in the cortes Thursday and is expected to muster 266 votes against the disorganized opposition of 211.

BIGGEST BREWER IN WORLD IS ACCUSED OF $15,000,000 FRAUD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—Ludwig Katzenellenbogen and four other directors of Schultheis and Patzenhofer, the world's biggest brewery concern, are facing trial on charges of falsifying their firm's balance sheet. Katzenellenbogen and Penalla, one of the directors, are further charged with issuing a prospectus containing misleading information.

Katzenellenbogen juggled the funds of the brewery, with its yearly output of 66,000,000 gallons of beer, and a dozen other companies, it is charged, draining most of their resources until he ruined them, while he himself accumulated reserves in foreign countries.

Schultheiss and Patzenhofer lost $15,000,000 through him, it is alleged. Before his arrest Katzenellenbogen transferred all his cash held in Germany, amounting to $180,000, to his wife, Tilla Durieux, who formerly was one of Berlin's most prominent actresses. The rest of his private property had been sent out of the country. Millions of marks' worth of art treasures have disappeared from his home. They are suspected to be in Zurich, Switzerland.

DUKE OBTAINS LICENSE TO WED IN CONNECTICUT

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The duke of Manchester and Miss Kathleen Ethel Dawes, who were refused a marriage license in New York because the duke's recent divorce from his first wife is not yet legal in New York state, have obtained a Connecticut license at Greenwich, it was learned today.

The license was taken out Saturday, according to Town Clerk Crawford of Greenwich. It becomes effective on next Thursday, it being necessary, under Connecticut law, for five days to elapse between issuance of the license and performance of the marriage ceremony. The duke described himself in the license as William Angus Drogo Montagu, 55, privy councillor, of London, England. Miss Dawes gave her age as 34 and her home as London.

SEIZED AS KILLER OF ONE AND PLOT TO KILL 4 OTHERS

NEW GERMANY, N. S., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Naaman Smith, 21 year old lumberman, sought as the slayer of one man and who is alleged to have marked four others for death, was caught by police tonight.

Driven by hunger, Smith sought refuge in the home of a farmer in the hills near Nineveh. The farmer gave him food, then slipped out and notified the authorities who had been scouring the woods for Smith since noon yesterday.

Smith is accused of killing his cousin, Lemuel Smith, a middle aged farmer, as the latter chopped logs yesterday. Nearby, the police found a raincoat with a note in the pocket signed by Naaman. Though they would not disclose its contents, they said it gave a motive for the killing and announced that four others would be slain—Fay Smith, Lem's brother; Milford Venoitt, Lloyd Venoitt, and Glenn Lowe.

Tuscola Citizens Build a Home for Aged Negro

Tuscola, Ill., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—About eighty citizens of this city donated one dollar each to rebuild the home of Billy Buck, a Negro about 80 years old. He lived in a shack for years, and refused to go to the county farm. Local carpenters donated the labor and they built him an eight by ten one room cottage. The old Negro has made his own living on the lot and refused to leave his home even when it was almost flat on the ground.

THOUSANDS RIOT IN CHINA CAPITAL; PRESIDENT QUITS

Mob Wrecks Government Office; Demands War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 15.—Amid a tumultuous scenes of disorder, in which the foreign office at Nanking was wrecked by a mob of angry students, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek today resigned as president of China and as commander in chief of the army. His resignation was followed by those of T. V. Soong, finance minister, and Wellington Koo, foreign minister. The retiring president fled to a fortified villa as the student riots continued far into the night.

Chiang was succeeded as president by Lin Sen, a veteran member of the nationalist party. Chen Ming-shu, prominent Nationalist military leader, was chosen as chairman of the executive yuan. Lin Sen is 67 years old. He was educated in the United States. He lived for a number of years in California and was a senator in China's first parliament following the revolution of 1911. He became an official of the Kuomintang seven years ago.

Chiang Explains Resignation.

Chiang Kai-shek explained his resignation tonight in the following statement:

"I have tried to fulfill my obligations ever since I was made chairman of the National government in 1928. My comrades at Canton said they would come to Nanking only on condition that I resign. This means that I must retire before peace and unity are restored."

The retiring executive was referring here to the split in the Nanking government last year, when a faction which opposed Gen. Chiang bolted and formed an independent government at Canton. This faction, led by Wang Ching-wei, has since conducted a vigorous campaign against Chiang's regime, and they are credited with having been mainly responsible for his resignation today.

Will Continue "Duties."

"My original desire to carry on, at least until my friends of Canton returned, proved to be a stumbling block in the path of the nation's welfare," the statement went on.

"We also have been criticized as lacking a responsible body for dealing with foreign relations. Since our unification has a strong bearing on our foreign relations, I decided to tender my resignation.

"My future actions will be governed by the demands of national welfare. I have resigned, but I will continue to fulfill my duties as a member of the Kuomintang and as a citizen of China."

Mob Wrecks Foreign Office.

The events preceding the resignation of Gen. Chiang were dramatic. While he and members of his government were meeting at the Kuomintang headquarters, discussing what course to follow, thousands of students paraded through the streets of the capital, shouting denunciations of the government and demanding war on Japan.

One group of students marched to the foreign office, which they invaded. They wrecked furniture and smashed windows and then marched on to the Kuomintang headquarters. Here they demanded that Chiang come out. The president refused, whereupon the students began hurling rocks through the windows.

Mob Disarms Police.

The mob then attacked the police guard which surrounded the building and seized their rifles, with which they opened fire on the building.

Chen Ming-shu, the new chairman of the executive yuan, then appeared on the steps and tried to address the students. They howled him down and manhandled him. Tsai Yuan-pei, former minister of education, was also reported to have been mauled by the mob.

By this time, however, troops had been called. Armed with machine guns, they rescued the government leaders from the mob.

Inukai Adopts Old Budget.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Dec. 15.—Premier Inukai today intimated that his new government will adopt most of the budget of former Finance Minister Inouye. This will release the Minseito party, which controlled the old government, from the necessity of voting against the new cabinet and probably will avert a general election.

The deficit will be met by borrowing instead of by fresh taxation and economies. Inouye's retrenchment plan, hitherto launched with salary slashes last May, will be abandoned. The Seiyukai, as always, will be a spending government.

4 BATTLES RAGE IN MANCHURIAN RAILWAY ZONE

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 15.—Three Japanese soldiers, including one warrant officer, one noncommissioned officer, and one first class private, were killed and many were wounded today in a battle at the village of Machiatzi on the South Manchuria railway, a few miles north of Mukden.

According to an official report received tonight by Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in chief, 70 Chinese irregulars attacked the town of Tungabangkuo, near Tiehling. The Japanesee first dispatched 50 Chinese soldiers from the so-called "public safety force," which is functioning under the Japanese administration at Tiehling. This force was overwhelmed and 100 Japanese troops under Capt. Nakayama were sent to the scene.

Battle Still Raging.

When the Japanese force reached Machiatzu the Chinese irregular force had increased to 600 and the battle developed. The Japanese rushed further reinforcements, consisting of detachments from both Tiehling and Kaiyuan. The Japanese also dispatched scouting planes carrying bombs, but it is not known whether they were used. Japanese reports said 16 Chinese had been killed and that fighting was continuing at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

A second engagement was reported today between Chinese and Japanese forces operating on the Chinese branch line connecting Yingkow and Kowpangtzi. The clash followed an alleged advance of 1,000 Chinese irregulars in the direction of Yingkow, where a Japanese garrison is stationed. The Japanese claim that the Chinese troops were repulsed.

Two Other Battles.

A third engagement was also reported at Wangchiatun, near Taitsihar, yesterday afternoon. One Japanese sergeant was wounded and several Chinese were killed.

A fourth encounter occurred at the two villages of Sutaitzu and Santaizu, about 18 miles northwest of Mukden, following the alleged advance of 200 irregular troops in the direction of Mukden. The Japanese sent a company of railway guards to the scene of action this afternoon, but no information has come through as to the result of the encounter.

New Mukden Ruler Set Up.

MUKDEN, Dec. 15. — (AP) — Gen. Tsang Shih-yi, whom many believe will be the first head of a new autonomous Manchuria, was quietly installed today as governor of Fengtien province, of which this is the capital.

He replaced Yuan Chin-Kai, who was installed after the Japanese captured Mukden last September. Yuan never was considered anything more than a temporary figurehead, but apparently it took some time to win over Gen. Tsang.

When the Japanese took over they made the general a prisoner and he has been living ever since, a closely guarded captive in a comfortable house in the international settlement here.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE FLOOD TIDE OF GOVERNMENT.

Estimates of expenses under the budget for 1933 have been made by the federal government, showing a total of $4,113,000,000. The items, although not fully revealing, present a picture of government activities which could be pruned down to the benefit of the government itself, the relief of costs and the rescue of taxable wealth. The federal administration of justice, with regulatory and law enforcement commissions, has been run up to $101,000,000. This represents to a large extent the extension of federal police powers over personal habit. Uncle Sam used to be concerned with protecting his coinage, mails and customs, to protect his revenue. Now he is throwing away his excise taxes and spending his revenue to keep citizens from using their own judgment in choosing their beverages.

The "service agencies of the departments," whatever they are, take $37,000,000. Group 3 in the estimate is up from $485,407,000 to $722,160,000, and here is one spot where reduction of extraneous federal activities would wade in with an ax. It contains the "aids," the aids to public health, education, labor, agriculture, the merchant marine and public works. These are the enterprises which have found their way into the functions of the federal government through enthusiasms for causes and at the insistence of high pressure groups aided by the natural willingness of bureaucracy to take in more territory.

It is in these expenditures that tendency of the federal government to get away from the original conception of it can be observed and it is upon these items that restrictions will be placed when it is conceded to be desirable if not imperative to chop the Washington control of public and private affairs down to a minimum, releasing the country from too much central government and the productive wealth of the country from the costs of such central control.

THE LESSON OF MANCHURIA FOR CHINESE PATRIOTISM.

The fall of the group hitherto in control of the so-called Nanking government seems imminent at this writing. Its strongest pillar, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, provisional president and leader of its armies, has resigned the former office, if not the latter, and has been followed by his brother-in-law, T. V. Soong, able finance minister, and other leaders of the Nanking faction. Their control had been shaken some time ago by the secession of several members of the faction, notably Mr. Sun Fo, only son of the late Sun Yat-Sen and stepson of his widow, who long ago declared her hostility to the Nanking leaders. Thus, the noteworthy "Soong dynasty," which had been the central power in the later nationalist movement and whose armies had swept from Canton to Peking, had been gravely weakened from within before the aggression of Japan in Manchuria brought it to the ground.

No group in China could have done better, probably, in this emergency than the Nanking officials, for it could not have procured any more effectual aid from the league of nations and the Washington government than they have been ready to give, and, on the other hand, it could not have developed any more formidable resistance. China's plight is not the result of the special errors or weaknesses of the fallen government, except as they are characteristic of Chinese politics generally. The rise of another faction is not likely to improve her situation and may, not improbably, make it worse. We must wait upon events to know that.

The best that may reasonably be hoped for China from the Manchurian experience is that it may mitigate the factional conflict, abate the selfish and mischievous ambition of individual politicians and military leaders, and teach the Chinese ruling classes that they must hang together or, figuratively, hang separately.

The development of sound political judgment in the Chinese national movement has seemed, to the foreign view, slow. But the problem of self-government in a nation spread over a vast territory, with no common vernacular, inadequate communications and publicity, staggering problems of finance and production, and widespread disorder, is not one to be solved in a few years. All we may reasonably hope is that the slow and complicated process of organization and pacification, of material and political development will not be hopelessly demoralized by external influences or attacks.

What Manchuria ought to teach Chinese leadership, and especially the misguided youth which has added considerably to the difficulties of the outgoing control, is that China's first and overwhelming need is internal peace. It is natural that youth should be passionate and heedless of practical conditions, but if in China it is to serve the cause of its devotion, to create a nation capable of protecting itself from aggression and of advancing the prosperity of its people, Chinese youth must learn from Manchuria that China must conquer her own weakness before she can be strong against others. The vital problems of China are within her own borders, political and social problems, the solution of which is more urgent and essential than resistance to any present foreign aggressions. The way to end the latter is to make an end of the former, and to this Chinese youth, as well as Chinese statesmanship, should direct their main energies.

We venture to say that Mr. Yen—Jimmy Yen, as he is called among his many friends and admirers in America—who is simplifying the written language of China and working practically and devotedly for popular education, is doing more than all the politicians, diplomats, and organizers of popular protest to hasten the day when China will be the strong nation which her great resources and the basic virtues of her people insure her being in due time, though after many tribulations.

PROBATION OFFICE SPOILS.

Nine new probation officers to serve in the Municipal courts were selected last week by a vote of the judges of the court. Chief Justice Sonsteby wished to have the probation officers chosen by competitive examination to determine their fitness. His proposal was overruled by the Republican majority of the court, which forced the selection of its nine candidates.

Several of the new probation officers have held political jobs of one sort or another in the past. One was a deputy bailiff and another a deputy clerk of the Municipal court. Another once had a job in the prohibition bureau and still another was on the pay roll of the internal revenue department. Among the rest are a salesman of sausage casings, a real estate salesman, and an advertising solicitor.

The position of probation officer is an important one. The officers are expectd to give counsel and guidance, particularly to first offenders who have been given suspended sentences. Good probation officers can accomplish much in preventing these offenders, most of them young, from becoming habitual criminals. Conscientious probation officers, who make an honest effort to keep in touch with their wards, can save the community the cost of future trials and imprisonments, to put the matter in terms which even a judge should be able to understand.

A mere glance at the previous employments of those selected for the positions can leave no doubt that these persons, for the most part, have no special training and no special aptitude for the work. They are simply cogs in the factional political machines. As such they will give inferior service and there is some danger that they may do positive injury. The coöperation between crime and politics in this community has been interrupted somewhat of late; the selecting of petty politicians for positions of responsibility in the supervision of lawbreakers may well serve to provide a new set of liaison officers to restore the old relationships. This is said without any reflection upon any individual selected and only because the probability of misuse of the office is distinctly a public menace.

Under the circumstances, the city council would be entirely justified in refusing to vote appropriations for probation officers poorly qualified for their work. There is not enough money to go around anyway, and it would be sheer waste to pay any of it to political job holders whose services will be of doubtful value to the community. If the Republican judges have an adequate sense of responsibility to the community, perhaps the Democratic city government can bring them to time.

THE MINCEMEAT RULING.

[The Peoria Transcript.]

The ruling of Federal Judge FitzHenry that the use of liquor in foodstuffs is illegal and cannot be justified even if the concern making the foodstuffs has permission from the government to withdraw liquor from bond for that purpose, presents a number of interesting problems.

Whether the ruling will be upheld by higher courts, assuming an appeal is made, is a matter for speculation. Nor would it be profitable to discuss the reasoning of the court in arriving at the decision. It appears to be entirely logical, although permits which have been issued by federal dry administrators in the past have been granted on the theory that a certain amount of liquor is needed in the manufacture of certain products, notably fruit cakes, mincemeat, and other bakery confections. Thus, it appears, the federal prohibition enforcement bureau has, itself, been guilty of aiding and abetting violation of the law, if Judge FitzHenry's ruling is to be upheld.

In the larger sense, however, Judge FitzHenry has rendered a valuable public service in calling attention to the fact that the granting of such permits is, as a matter of fact, nothing more or less than a ruling by the prohibition department and is entirely without authority in law.

One of the most dangerous aspects of prohibition—and of certain other federal laws—is the delegation of what amounts to legislative authority to executive bureaus and commissions. Similarly, the government sins in extending executive authority to the judicial department of the government. Thus, on the one hand, rules and regulations of the prohibition bureau have come to have all the force of statutory law; while, on the other hand, the federal judiciary is given executive control of federal prisons with the result that, aside from the pardoning power reserved to the President, a citizen of the United States who runs counter to the federal law finds himself utterly at the mercy of the judiciary with no check on its conduct except that which is self-imposed or that which is possible through presidential interference.

Manifestly, both of these tendencies of the federal government should be checked. Rule by bureaus and commissions is un-American and dangerous. Judge FitzHenry, in holding that the prohibition enforcement bureau has no right to legislate exceptions to the dry laws, is establishing such a check. Now, if some court will make a ruling regarding the management of prisons by the judicial branch of the government, another step toward realization of the American theory will have been taken.

In theory, this government is a combination of three independent but coördinate branches. The tendency to scramble them which has been manifest in our national evolution within the last few years must be checked.

We can do without liquor in our mincemeat if checks on bureaucracy are made effective.

GENEROSITY ITSELF.

Doctor—This is a very sad case; very sad, indeed. I much regret to tell you that your wife's mind is gone—completely gone.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. R. H. L.

NOW COMES GOOD MR. HOUGHTON, sometime American ambassador to Great Britain, who says that we should have a constitutional amendment (it would be a constitutional amendment) giving the people the right through the ballot to decide whether the country should go to war any time the question comes up. In that case it would be like this: Let us suppose that Hooglevitchia gets mad at us and launches its army on our shores. We send out a commission and meet the invading army and our American commissioners say: "Listen, fellers, we can't go to war with you until the thing has been submitted to a referendum, and the voting can't take place for three months yet. So, if you boys don't mind, please go back home and we'll let you know after the election whether or not to give you a battle."

Then the commanding general of the invading army will naturally say: "But we were sent over here to have a fight and we've brought this big army along and all these guns and airplanes and everything and we hate to be disappointed this way. Of course, if you can't have a war until you vote on the thing, that's just too bad. But we'll tell you what we'll do. We'll hang around here until after the election and then if you vote no war we'll return home, but if you vote for a fight we'll go to it. But, meanwhile, do you mind if we bomb a few cities and march across your country on a little sightseeing jaunt?"

"Oh, indeed," the American commissioners will say, "you really shouldn't do that. Wait until we take a vote, and if the people want war we'll sail in and knock the socks off your army."

"Sez you!" replies the invading general.

"Anyhow," say the American commission, "we can't fight until we have the referendum. No matter what you do, we absolutely and positively decline to quarrel with you until the people have a chance to vote on the subject."

"Will you put that in writing?" asks the invading general.

The Americans put it in writing and wait for the election, and the sullen foes turn in and fly airplanes all over the place and bomb every town they see, and the invading army marches up and down and back and forth in the country and captures everything it takes a fancy to, including grocery stores, oil stations, and our army, navy, and all our policemen.

Then the American commission calls on the invading general and says: "We've had the election and we've decided to fight."

"What with?" asks the invading general.

"Goodness!" says the American commission, "that's true; we've got nothing left. The only way to save our national honor is to have another referendum and vote not to have a war."

"Referendums," said the invading general, "are hell!"

FIRELIGHT DREAM.

How costly this dream that I build,
This ephemeral spire
Of beauty I breathlessly raise
From the tremulous gold of the fire.

I have squandered the rich green years
Of this pine, now the log agleam,
To pillar the glamorous towers
Of a frail and fugitive dream!

ADELAIDE LOVE.

TWO INCHES of snow yesterday in Loz Onglaise, while the weather here in Chicago was like a day in June. Let us hasten to invite Southern California to spend the winter in lovely, sun kissed Chicago. Ah, what a climate, migosh, what a climate!

THE CULBERTSONS, according to the latest news from the ringside, have wiped out all but fifteen of the Lenz-Jacoby lead. We would understand it better if the report was not so technical. It would be much better to say "Lenz-Jacoby go to low low." Then we'd know what they were talking about.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON ended again last Saturday. It won't end again now until next Saturday, and then it ends until it ends once more on New Year's day.

NOT CALEB SUMMONS? THEN WHO IS THAT MAN?

Sir: I may be able to throw some light on the Caleb Summons mystery. For one thing, I am not at all convinced that the man in the sixth row of the crowd on the 1931 Linebook cover is Caleb Summons. In fact, I have reason for believing that Caleb Summons died some five years ago at Mkubwasanya, Tanganyika Territory, Central Africa. . . . I knew Caleb Summons rather well at one time. It was prior to the strange death of Angel Swei—the fourth murder in which he was implicated, I believe; at least, it was the one where the lawyers haggled for days vainly trying to prove whether the beautiful Angel had died of acute arsenical poisoning or chronic arsenical poisoning. At any rate, I visited Summons several times in his cell in San Francisco, and as a result a friendship sprang up between us. In the years following his mysterious disappearance on July 17, 1922, I received two postcards, unsigned, but in Summons' handwriting. Then in January, 1928, I received a letter from an English doctor at Mkubwasanya, saying that an unidentified man had died there the previous month of typhus fever, and in his effects had been found a note asking that I be notified. I have no conclusive proof, of course, but I have always believed implicitly that this man was Caleb Summons, and, if so, it would argue that he could not be alive today, and thus a member of the crowd shown on the 1931 Linebook cover. If, however, you are able to unearth any information to the contrary, I shall be among your most interested readers, as I was sincerely attached to this strange and persecuted man. E. BIRON BAYLEY.

ACIDOSIS VS. ALKALOSIS.

THE custom of taking bicarbonate of soda is a harmful one. If any one questions the propriety of calling this a custom let him inquire of his friends, or watch the sales of the drug store. As a household remedy it ranks in frequency of use above headache remedies and not far below the laxative group, standing above salts or any other single member of the group.

If the symptoms suggest acidosis, the average sufferer reaches for the soda box. If there is headache, a cold, or rheumatism soda is the stock remedy. Men who have sour stomach or belching spells have soda from the pantry put on the dining table. If an attack of indigestion comes on in the night soda is the stock remedy.

In some conditions the remedy gives relief; in others it diverts attention from what should be done and causes loss of valuable time. In still others it does harm rather than good. Many conditions that are regarded as acidosis are really alkalosis, a condition of the system that is fundamentally opposite to acidosis but in which the symptoms are much the same.

There is a considerable tendency on the part of physicians to promote the use of acids and especially of dilute muriatic acid. Many of the people who are using soda would be better off if they took a proper dose of dilute muriatic acid. Perhaps one way to kill off the soda fad is to develop an acid fad. By the time that is accomplished the people would be ready to drop all medicine-taking fads.

A correspondent, who is not a physician but a bacteriologist, working all his professional life in health problems, writes his experience. He developed rheumatism and neuralgia in his shoulders, neck, and arms. His physician advised him to have some teeth extracted, to take a rheumatism specific, and also to take soda. He followed orders and lost most of the pain in his shoulders. But he developed headache of a type which, in his experience, was caused by taking soda. He stopped taking the alkali and took dilute muriatic acid instead. In a short while his headaches had disappeared and he had no further arm pains.

In previous experiences when he had taken soda he developed headaches. When he stopped soda and took dilute acid instead, his headaches disappeared. After this last experience he became somewhat of a propagandist against soda and for acid.

He found one of his assistants subject to headache. When he was having one of his spells he gave him a dose of acid. The headache disappeared in an hour. This assistant had noticed that he could not drink milk without feeling uncomfortable. Probably milk contained too much alkaline lime for him, and he could have eaten it had he soured it, or had he added some orange or lemon juice to it.

The bacteriologist found that his daughter was subject to headaches. Considering them to be due to alkalosis he gave her dilute acid, relieving the headache in one hour in each instance.

ALIAS FOR A BOIL.

R. E. J. writes: Kindly tell something of furuncle, its cause and cure. The person I have in mind has had a severe attack on the hands. The second attack has been less severe.

REPLY.

A furuncle is another name for a boil. It is caused by an infection. Boils on the hands are generally caused by something connected with occupation. Since you speak of previous attacks it is probable that occupation is responsible in this case. Protection of the hands against the harmful exposure is the best preventive treatment.

JOINT TENANCY.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A father and son, both single, have a joint deed for property. If the son should marry a divorcee who has a son, in the event of the mother's death, could this son claim one-third of his stepfather's property? E. D. G.

To create a joint tenancy in real estate the conveyance should expressly declare that title is to pass not in tenancy in common but in joint tenancy. (Ill. Revised Statutes, Chap. 76, Sec. 1.) If title is already in one of the parties, it should be deeded to a third person who should then deed back to the two, using a joint tenancy form, which can be secured from a stationer. To create a joint tenancy in personal property the "Will or other instrument in writing" should express "an intention to create a joint tenancy . . . with the right of survivorship" [Sec. 2]. Under the statute we consider it advisable not to rely on the wording of a stock certificate nor on the fact that the parties have joint access to a safety box. The intention should be expressed in a writing by the owner or owners. On the death of a joint tenant the property passes to the survivor without necessity for probate and to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first. The one-half that thus passes by survivorship is subject to inheritance tax.

ACTION UNDETERMINED.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—I notice through your column that there are still 280 on the police eligibility list. Will this list be used or discarded when the new list is posted? G. M. L.

The present list of patrolmen is more than two years old. The commission has not yet determined what action will be taken in regard to this list.

DIVORCE PROCEDURE.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—On Aug. 10, 1930, I left my husband for various reasons and have since supported myself. I have seen him only once since, which was in court when I was granted separate maintenance with an allowance for the support of our three year old child. 1. Will it be possible for me to obtain a divorce on the grounds of desertion? 2. Would he be compelled to continue to support our child? 3. Would he be allowed to contest the suit? 4. Who would have to pay the charges? M. L.

1. Yes, after one year.
2. Yes.
3. Of course he could contest it.
4. The court would order him to pay.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 16, 1915.

LONDON.—The Austrian reply to the note from the United States regarding the Ancona case has been delivered to Frederick C. Penfield, United States ambassador at Vienna. It is announced in a dispatch. The note says that from the sharpness with which the government of the United States believed it ought to censure the commander of the submarine and from the firmness with which the demands addressed to the Austro-Hungarian government appear to have been brought forward it could be expected that the American government would clearly give the actual circumstances upon which it relies. The Austro-Hungarian admiralty is opposed to any disavowal of the course of the submarine commander who was responsible for the sinking of the Ancona.

LONDON.—Field Marshal Sir John French, who at his own request has been relieved of the command of the British forces in France and Flanders, has been succeeded by Gen. Sir Douglas Haig.

AMSTERDAM.—The Koelnische Zeitung says: "The Bulgarian government has informed Greece that the neutral zone on the Bulgarian-Greek frontier will no longer be maintained now that the allies are on Greek territory." Greece has concluded a military agreement by which it will give the allies a free hand in the large area which the Anglo-French commanders mapped out as being necessary for the defense of Saloniki, and with the freedom of movement required by the allies energetic measures are being inaugurated with a view to expelling the pro-German element and the spies.

MEXICO CITY.—Gen. Pablo Gonzales, commander of Mexico City for the de facto government, received a telegram saying that the head of Gen. Juan B. Hernandez, former intimate friend of President Porfirio Diaz and relative of Gen. Huerta, was being shipped to him from Esperanza, state of Vera Cruz, as a Christmas present. Gen. Hernandez was more than 80 years old. According to the message, the head was severed from the body while it lay on a battlefield.

CHICAGO.—The garment workers' strike—the bloodiest struggle of recent years in Chicago—will end within ten days, according to predictions made by both sides last night.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 16, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Fires, due indirectly to the intense cold, drove nearly 100 persons into the street half dressed at various places in the city and caused a loss of nearly $220,000. The greatest suffering was at the Olinger flat building, 35th street and Indiana avenue, where 60 persons were forced to flee down fire escapes and ladders in their nightgowns when the flames cut off the escape from the stairways. The greatest loss was at the Lincoln avenue car barn, where fire destroyed the barns and cars with a loss of $165,000. The thermometer reached 12 degrees below zero in the morning and was 3 below at 7 p. m.

ROCKFORD, Ill.—Nine persons were killed and many were injured in a head-on collision between an Illinois Central passenger and a freight train, 8 miles east of this city. The trains came together on a sharp curve. The wrecked cars caught fire and those not killed instantly were roasted to death. Passengers stood by in the bitter cold and watched the agony of the dying men, unable to help them. Disobedience of orders by the crew of the freight train is given as the cause of the wreck.

CHICAGO.—Despite the fact that the thermometer was below zero and there was a cutting wind from the west to add to the other discomforts of the day, there was a good attendance at the snow racing speedway on Grand boulevard. The stable of John R. Thompson rather had the call on the rest of them in the fast sleighing. Others whose horses showed speed were M. E. Sanford, I. J. Mix, and Rob Laverty.

CHICAGO.—Charles T. Yerkes arrived in Chicago from London where for 9 months he has been directing his traction plans. He was high in his praise of the business methods of the British capital.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 16, 1881.

CHICAGO.—Gov. Cullom has appointed Mayor Harrison, J. V. Farwell, M. W. Fuller, Murry Nelson, Prof. Swing, and A. A. Sprague a committee to receive subscriptions in Chicago for the Garfield monument to be erected over the late President's remains. Illinois is expected to raise $20,000 to the fund. Chicago probably will contribute one-third of that amount.

WASHINGTON.—It is stated that President Arthur and his private secretary will keep bachelor's hall at the executive mansion this winter and that there will be no ladies there except those who may be invited to preside on social occasions.

LONDON.—Mrs. Langtry, "the Jersey Lily," made her debut at the London Haymarket theater as Mrs. Hardcastle in "She Stoops to Conquer." The Times says: "The presentation was eminently successful. The oldest playgoers were astonished at the ease with which Mrs. Langtry glided into her part and the felicity of her execution throughout."

CHICAGO.—Joseph S. Harris, one of the best known and most popular insurance men of Chicago, died in Cincinnati of consumption. He was the general agent of the Metropole Insurance company of Paris and was 41 years old. He came to Chicago in 1874.

WASHINGTON.—The most important witness in the Guiteau case was Gen. Joseph S. Reynolds of Chicago, in whose office the assassin studied law. The evidence of Gen. Reynolds went to show that Guiteau never thought of the theory that he was inspired to kill President Garfield until July 14 and not then until he was informed by Gen. Reynolds that Gen. Grant, Senator Conkling and the Stalwarts had severely condemned his crime. Gen. Reynolds' evidence had a marked effect on the assassin, whose anger found vent in the foulest abuse of the witness and District Attorney Corkhill.

HELP, BUT FOR EUROPE.

Highland Park, Ill., Dec. 10.—How solicitous our officials at Washington are for the people of Europe. I wonder if it has ever occurred to them that Americans, too, would like a moratorium. Has any one extended a helping hand to the small home owner, floundering in a morass of taxes, special assessments, and mortgage charges? Nay, nay, Pauline!

One thing has been thoroughly defiated and that is our faith in the so-called big minds of the country. What a sniveling, cowardly, nonintelligent bunch they have shown themselves to be!

JOHN T. ARNOLD.

PAYMENT IN REAL ESTATE.

Riverside, Ill., Dec. 14.—In regard to the administration's fond hope of slicing the allied debts in half, permit me to ask why the dearly beloved British cousins cannot be induced to exchange British Honduras, the Bahamas, and sundry other Caribbean possessions for the half of the debt that they bellyache about so rampantly. Why should France be excused from any payments might well be questioned, inasmuch as she possesses a sufficient gold reserve to pay her debts now and still have enough metal to back up her coinage.

C. G. SMITH.

FOR AMERICAN EXPORTERS.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—It is my opinion that an article might be written along the lines of a recommendation that the United States do not eliminate reparations and do not create any more moratoriums, but that they buy properties with the money that the other countries owe them. These may be in the form of harbors and territories where the shipping of the United States could be unloaded in a port and kept there, to be sold by United States agents without paying any tariff in that particular district immediately.

As a manufacturer, this appeals to me a little more than to the average person, because in order to sell commodities abroad you must have the material there and carry a stock of goods so that delivery can be made promptly. If the United States owned a city or a port where the manufacturers in this country could carry stocks very close to the point of destination the foreign business of this country would be improved materially. It would not entail a lot of tariff on merchandise long before it was sold abroad.

The secondary motive is that while it is true the other countries haven't the gold available to pay the United States, they surely have plenty of property and territory that is valuable in oil, metals, etc., that could be sold to the United States for the amount they owe.

WILLIAM E. BELKE.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC TRADE.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—According to Arthur Sears Henning, your very reliable Washington correspondent, it has been authoritatively learned at Washington that Hoover is in favor of a 50 per cent reduction of the British debt to the United States. The Hoover argument is said to be that it will pay the United States to make such reduction for the reason that Great Britain, being our best customer, will not be able to maintain its purchasing power unless such reduction is granted.

Our total exports for the last year reported were valued at three billion 800 million dollars, of which one billion 660 millions represent exports to Great Britain and her possessions. Under the Hoover administration the purchasing power of the majority of the people of the United States has been reduced at the very lowest estimate to the extent of 10 billion dollars a year. If Hoover is really sincere in his desire to do something for the United States he should be thinking of plans to maintain the purchasing power of the American people. It would have been much better for labor and the manufacturing interests for our country to have lost our total foreign trade than to have lost 10 billion dollars a year in domestic commerce.

ERNEST BRADSHAW.

THE DEBTS.

Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 11.—As a daily reader of your paper for nearly a quarter of a century I have come to look upon it as a tremendous power and force for any cause it espouses. You are right on the prohibition question, and I hope you will be right on the question of further scaling down foreign debts as hinted in the President's latest message to congress. Hoover has all but done now, and his latest move will place him up very nicely. A President who dares to scale down foreign debts for the ungrateful nations of people of Europe and saddle the load onto the good old people of the U. S. A. can expect nothing but decisive defeat in '32.

R. E. HOCKETT.

QUESTION FOR LAWYERS.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 11.—Can any of your legal subscribers tell me where I can find the citation of a case [I believe in Michigan] which held that the feudal system had never been part of the law of Michigan? JOHN WHARTON.

THE BRIDGE CONTEST.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—I cannot understand how the Culbertson-Lenz contest in New York can decide the merits of either system, since each is supposed to convey definite information to his partner, and with perfect bidding and playing and an even break in distribution of high cards the difference in score should be negligible. MYRA M. GUNLEE.

AGAINST CANCELLATION.

Gibson City, Ill., Dec. 13.—I see by this morning's TRIBUNE that our President favors a cut of 50 per cent of the debt the British owe us on account of the depreciation of their power to pay. I have not heard of any cut in our land mortgages or interest, and we have a depreciation of not less than 75 per cent of the valuation of our property from what it was when most of this money was loaned to the British government; and I read in yesterday's TRIBUNE that England has no shortage in her yearly budget, while we have millions of shortage.

Would you ask the loan companies that have mortgages on our farms and city property to cut the loans in half? Our homes in both country and city are heavily mortgaged; in fact, many of the owners cannot pay the interest and plenty of the properties would not sell for the debt, while some of them would not bring enough to pay taxes.

It seems to me that it is about time we let up on helping the foreign countries; if we continue to help them they will soon become strong enough to put us out of business. My observation is that the more the United States does for the foreign countries the worse they will hate us when we quit helping them.

POLICE FAVORED N. Y. BOOTLEGGER BANKS A MILLION

But He Refuses to Sign Waiver in Seabury Quiz.

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Profits of prohibition took the foreground in Counsel Samuel Seabury's public hearing before the Hofstadter legislative committee today when he showed that Murray E. Birnbaum banked $1,217,000 in his personal and business accounts from 1922 to date. Birnbaum is a "big time" bootlegger and ex-convict, who was shown by testimony today and last week to have enjoyed the friendship and protection of members of the Eight division police in the Bronx.

Mr. Seabury tried to put Birnbaum on the witness stand but he refused to sign a waiver of immunity after it was explained to him that it would mean he could be prosecuted for any incriminating testimony he might give. His associate in various ventures, including the Morehen Inn in the Bronx, Henry Schmidt, also refused to sign a waiver of immunity and was not asked to testify. Mr. Seabury had planned to question another Birnbaum associate, James F. Herold, but Herold didn't show up.

Raided by U. S. Agents.

Birnbaum's bank accounts went into the record through the testimony of an accountant. Previously, through police records and testimony of witnesses, Mr. Seabury showed that all the time Birnbaum operated the Morehen Inn, the Eighth division police made no arrests there, although the federal authorities raided it and made arrests both for possession and sale of liquor. Lieut. Albert J. Stroh was in command of plain clothes men in the Eighth division and on one occasion he reprimanded two of his men who looked over Birbaum's property on their own authority.

Counsel Seabury presented police records which showed that while Lieut. Stroh was in command of the plain clothes squad the speakeasies of four members of the Liberty league were hardly molested, or if they were raided, arrests were made only for "possession" and extremely small quantities of liquor were seized. Federal authorities, on the other hand, and members of other police divisions made arrests and seized large quantities of liquor in the same speakeasies.

Then he called Patrolman Richard A. Frederick back to the stand. Frederick used to be attached to the Eighth division, and he testified last week that new men in that division were instructed to "lay off" speakeasies operated by members of the Liberty league.

Woman Asks Their Business.

Frederick said today that in the fall of 1927 he and Officer Ryan got a tip that a "big alky dealer" was operating in West 26lst street. They investigated. While they were "just woozing around" the premises a woman, who, Frederick said, was Mrs. Birnbaum, asked them what they were doing.

"We said we were just woozing around," said Frederick. "Woozing" seemed to mean "walking."

Birnbaum himself arrived in a few minutes. "You are Stroh's boys, aren't you?" he asked, and they admitted they were. "Oh," he said, as Frederick quoted him, "you must be a couple of new men. I know Al up there. You better wooze out of here."

So they woozed out and when they got to the police station Lieut. Stroh asked them what they were doing in Birnbaum's place, even before they could report.

Ordered to Keep Out Rum Places.

"You have no right going into that place or anybody else's place," Frederick quoted Stroh. "You keep out of those places."

Fourteen lawyers who practiced in Women's court, most of whom had offices in the rookeries north of Jefferson Market court in West 10th street, were exonerated today of charges that they bribed John C. Weston, one time prosecutor in that court and star witness in the Seabury magistrates' inquiry into vice conditions.

Two of the fourtene drew punishment at the hands of former Justice Clarence J. Shearn, who, as referee, examined Weston's charges for the Appellate division.

For Imposing on Clients.

But they—former Alderman William J. McAuliffe and Mark Alter, were condemned for imposing on clients instead of bribery. Justice Shearn recommended disbarment of McAuliffe and censure of Alter.

In the case of several of the remainder Justice Shearn's report, made public today, rendered a Scotch verdict of "not proven."

CHRIS PASCHEN DENIES CHARGES OF BANKRUPTCY

Christian P. Paschen, who was building commissioner under the former city administration, appeared before Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday to deny that he is bankrupt. Paschen, who was indicted on a charge of federal income tax evasion last week, was named defendant in a petition in involuntary bankruptcy filed on Monday.

The claims of three creditors who began the bankruptcy action against Paschen amount to $2,000, but the petition charges liabilities in excess of $900,000. Attorney Henry S. Blum, representing Paschen, told Judge Carpenter that his client possessed assets of $1,000,000 in excess of his liabilities, and that Paschen was prepared to go before a jury to prove that he is not insolvent. Attorney Blum was given until this morning to file his answer to the petition.

The petition for bankruptcy also charges that Paschen recently "removed, concealed or caused to be concealed" a part of his property. The creditors claim that Paschen's assets are frozen, consisting mostly of real estate. Paschen is in the contracting business with an office at 1414 Clybourn avenue.

DRUGGIST SHOT IN GUN BATTLE WITH ROBBER

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Spino, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Grace Richmond, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Christopher Brocker, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge George Fred Rush.

Abraham Anscher, 52 years old, fought a gun battle with a bandit in his drugstore at 3700 Armitage avenue yesterday. When the revolvers were emptied the bandit fled without loot. Anscher called the police and calmly bandaged up a slight bullet wound on the middle finger of his left hand.

The robber entered the store, purchased a package of cigarets, and then pulled a revolver. Anscher and a colored porter, James Kolly, were driven into a rear room and made to lie on the floor.

The gunman walked to the cash register and began taking out the contents. Creeping into the main part of the store on his hands and feet, Anscher grabbed a pistol from a drawer and began firing. At the first shot the bandit dropped about $15 in bills and silver, and slipped behind a counter. Shots from both guns shattered the glass of the showcases behind which the men were crouching and bit into the woodwork.

200 LB. HUSBAND PUTS ON 50 MORE; WIFE SUES HIM

Cecil Jory, 3849 Armitage avenue, promised before he married in 1918 to reduce, Mrs. Isobel Jory, 4600 Beacon street, told Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday in the Superior court. She is suing him for divorce.

"But instead of reducing," she complained, "he got fatter than ever. He weighed 200 pounds when we married, and look at him now, 250 pounds. Once he came home when I was having a bridge party, chased all of my women friends out of the house, and ate all the refreshments."

Judge Miller told Harry X. Cole, Mrs. Jory's attorney, to draft an order awarding her $12 a week for her support and that of her son, Walter, 11 years old, pending disposition of the suit.

HOLD UP INDIANA BANK; SUSPECT 4 JAILBREAKERS

Minister Helps Organize Posse at Highland.

Four bandits who cut their way out of the Kankakee county jail on Monday with saw blades smuggled in to them by the 15 year old brother of one of them, are believed to have committed a bank robbery yesterday, little more than 24 hours after the jailbreak.

The four bank robbers took $3,000 in a holdup of the Farmers and Merchants' Savings bank at Highland, Ind., south of Hammond. They escaped under the fire of a posse of citizens, hastily gathered by a minister who saw the robbers draw their guns as they entered the bank.

The Kankakee jail breakers suspected of the holdup are Leslie Wakat, 22 years old; Thomas Mann, 23 years old; Frank Laurix, 25 years old, and Walter Wulff, 21 years old. Wakat's 15 year old brother, Marshall, a student at Kankakee High school, confessed yesterday to Sheriff Albert Goodknecht in that city that he smuggled half a dozen hacksaw blades in to the prisoners.

Slips Saws Through Keyhole.

He slipped the blades through the keyhole while visiting his brother, he said. Frank Klemzak, also 15, one of his high school classmates, was arrested as a result of the confession. In addition to the four bank robbery suspects, "Red" Jacobs and J. Clark Bennett, charged with rape and the theft of an automobile, also escaped. All six were awaiting grand jury action.

Wakat and his three companions had confessed the robbery of twenty oil stations about Kankakee.

Three Bandits Enter Bank.

Three of the gang entered the bank and forced Henry Van Til, the president, and three employes to face a wall while they scooped up their loot.

The Rev. William B. Young saw their revolvers as they entered the bank. He hurried to a nearby garage, and after telling the men working there of the robbery, called the Hammond police. Two of the garage workers, Aloysius Bremer and Harold Koedyker, took a rifle and shotgun and took up positions behind posts.

Bremer sent a rifle shot through a bank window and the three robbers inside hurried to their car in which the fourth member of the gang waited. Under the fire of the two garage men, the bandit car fled. Other citizens leaped into their automobiles and followed. They were joined by the Hammond police, but the trail was lost shortly after the bandit car passed into Cook county at Lansing.

Koedyker, a few hours after the robbery, was seriously hurt when his truck was struck by a Michigan Central railroad train at Kennedy street in Hammond.

ORDERS 10 LASHES AT WHIPPING POST FOR MAN WHO BEAT WIFE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—John C. Carlton, a carpenter, was sentenced to ten lashes at the whipping post and ten days in jail for wife beating last night by Judge A. L. Wilson in Takoma Park, Md., a suburb of the capital. It was the first whipping post sentence to be imposed in Montgomery county, which adjoins Washington, in more than five years, although the Maryland law permits such punishment in cases of wife beating.

The lashes will be administered by Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale at the Rockville, Md., jail. A blacksnake or cat o' nine tails whip is used, it was said.

Carlton was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his wife, Rosa N. Carlton. Mrs. Carlton testified at the trial that she had been beaten "black and blue" by her husband and declared that this was the second time he had struck her with his fists.

START SUIT TO BREAK EVANSTON LIGHT CONTRACT

A group of 20 Evanston taxpayers, headed by Frederick E. Gridley, 712 Michigan avenue, yesterday filed in the Superior court a petition for an injunction to restrain the suburb's board of local improvements from carrying out its contract with the Contracting and Material company to build an ornamental street lighting system in Orrington avenue.

The petition, filed by Attorney George A. Mason, charges that the contract was illegally let to the fifth lowest bidder in a group of ten. The law provides, according to the petition, that the contract shall be given to the lowest bidder. The bill charges that the Donovan Construction company should have won the contract with a bid of $1,017,109. The Contracting and Material company bid was $1,067,359.

Again Chevrolet strikes a popular new note in motor car styling

THE NEW SPECIAL SEDAN

Finer Fisher Bodies

New modern lines

Greater vision

Enriched interiors

Attractive new colors

Distinctive new front-end appearance

CHEVROLET and Fisher designed the new Chevrolet Six to be the finest-looking automobile the low-price field has ever seen. Just how well they have succeeded is a matter that Chevrolet leaves, with confidence, to your own good taste. And the enthusiastic response which has greeted this new car everywhere, proves it is everything its builders planned it to be.

Your first glimpse of the new Chevrolet will probably bring to mind the styling of today's leading custom-car creations. There is that same smart feeling of length, fleetness and solidity about Chevrolet's new lines. That same rich simplicity of design—that careful attention to the smallest details of craftsmanship. The whole impression is one of individuality and charm which strike a sparkling new note in automobile styling.

The front end of the new Chevrolet is unusually imposing in appearance. The radiator shell is deeper and more gracefully curved. A distinctive ensemble is formed by a new arched double tie-bar, a new built-in radiator grille, projectile-shaped headlamps and trumpet-type horn—all plated in gleaming chromium.

From a side-view—you find such striking features as stylish new hood-ports (chrome-plated on all sport and de luxe models) and a streamline treatment of the front body-pillars which brings about an ultra-modern silhouette.

Inside the car—you are greeted with several especially valuable new features: A "finger-touch" adjustable front seat, which permits the occupant to do the adjusting without leaning over or getting out of the car; a new "inside-type" visor that may be set at any angle; and a deeper windshield which provides greater vision for both driver and passengers. Moreover, Fisher craftsmen have added many structural improvements to Chevrolet's famous wood-and-steel bodies. The new strength of the bodies—their new quietness and solidity—are especially noticeable when you slam the doors. Instead of a metallic noise, you get the solid sound that identifies the finest coachwork.

No one interested in automobiles should postpone seeing the new Chevrolet Six. You will find a type of Fisher coachwork that simply cannot be compared with anything but the coachwork of expensive cars. You will find performance that is absolutely new in Chevrolet's price field: The driving thrills of Synchro-Mesh combined with Free Wheeling to assure quick, quiet, positive gear-shifting under all conditions! 65 to 70 miles-an-hour speed! 60 horsepower! Matchless economy! Remarkable smoothness and quietness! And finally, you will find prices so low that any person able to buy any new car can own the Great American Value for 1932.

'IMPEACHMENT' HEARD IN DEBT HOLIDAY DEBATE

Grave Charges Hurled at Hoover.

sional support and so had consulted members of congress and obtained their pledges of support.

"Mr. Hoover is not running a coal mine here; he is not a dictator," Representative McFadden said of the President's methods.

He had not replied to the President's wire, he said, but even if he had, he would not now feel bound because of disclosures that have since been made.

Charges Plot by Bankers.

"After completing his underhanded arrangements by telegraph and telephone, arrangements which savored more of the ways of an oriental potentate drunk with power than of conduct proper for a President of the United States to pursue, Mr. Hoover with a dramatic flourish made his proposal, linking it as usual with a lot of false and insincere humanitarianisms," Mr. McFadden went on.

Instead of being a sudden move, inspired by imminent necessity, the Hoover plan was a matter of long negotiation and secret conspiracy, the Pennsylvanian charged.

"Behind the Hoover announcement, there were many months of hurried and furtive preparation both in Germany and in the Wall street offices of Germany's bankers," he claimed. "The ground work had to be prepared. The German budget had to be doctored and left unbalanced. Germany, like a sponge, had to be saturated with American money. Mr. Hoover himself had to be elected, because this scheme began before he became President. If the German international bankers of Wall street, that is Kuhn, Loeb & Co., J. and W. Seligman, Paul Warburg, and their satellites, had not had this job waiting to be done, Herbert Hoover would never have been elected President of the United States. They helped select him. They helped elect him."

Cites "Circumstantial Evidence."

Mr. McFadden recalled the recent speech of Minister of Communications Treviranus of Germany in which, Mr. McFadden declared, the German official said that as early as last December President Hoover had begun secret negotiations with Germany in an effort to get her reparations obligations lightened.

"He worked on his plan under the guidance and at the direction of the German international bankers," said Mr. McFadden, "and he thought he had his secret so closely guarded that the people of the United States would never be able to find out his part in the plot that was being concocted against them."

The speaker reviewed what he called circumstances indicative of the plan—the visit of Otto Kahn to Italy in June at the time of Italy's offer to forego part of her reparations; misleading statements given out by the state and treasury departments; Secretary Mellon's talks with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, Norman's visits to the United States, his influence on the American federal reserve policy, and the recent visit to George L. Harrison, governor of the New York federal reserve bank, to Canada to see Norman; the visits of Henry M. Robinson, "the Col. House of the administration, and a secret emissary of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.," to the White House.

Robinson Is "Bankers' Tool."

Robinson, supposedly a California friend of the President's, is really an intimate of Paul Warburg, "the man who caused the depression," said Mr. McFadden, and he wanted to know "whether Herbert Hoover was acting as a legal agent of Germany or as the President of the United States when he made his proposal.

Of the President's "humiliation" in having—so Mr. McFadden put it—to beg Premier Laval that France maintain its credits in this country, Mr. McFadden said:

"One hardly knows which is worse, the revolting dishonesty or the shocking bad taste."

The "German international bankers" controlled Germany, the speaker charged. The federal reserve system, he declared, was stuffed full of worthless foreign securities. Germany was trading, arming, assisting Russia with borrowed ammunition money. The fall of the stock market, following the rise after the moratorium announcement, he claimed, was engineered, and the President's proposal to establish a government financed credit corporation is part of the bankers' plan.

The country, Mr. McFadden declared, was under Mr. Hoover's guidance being hurried to a dictatorship run by the international bankers.

Fight in Senate Also.

It was the "international bankers" all over Capitol hill today as—scarcely less startling than the scene in the house—Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] regarded as the friend and often considered the spokesman of Secretary Mellon, rose in the senate to denounce propaganda by international bankers to force cancellation for their own selfish interests.

And he flatly opposed a revival of the world war debt funding commission as proposed by President Hoover.

"We have canceled," he said, "all we are going to cancel; it is within the capacity of most of the nations of Europe to pay us the amounts they owe us, and as long as that fact stares us in the face it is sheer imbecility for us to be any more generous than we have been in the past."

He flayed the efforts of the banking houses to bring about cancellation, especially, he said, when they knew the American government had "prior rights" for its own loans to the foreign nations.

Oppose Any Reductions.

Great Britain and the United States, Senator Reed said, "got very much the worst" of the bargain and it is now found that France's capacity to pay is "greater than our capacity to cancel." He said there should be no readjustment of the French debt, and added that no taxation of Britain went to pay the American debt because for each cent she paid here she received a cent from Europe.

Both Mr. Reed and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, asserted that it would be unfair to assume that the foreign nations would not settle their obligations with this country. Both said the allies will pay.

The debate was precipitated when Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] inveighed at length against even the one year moratorium, also attacking the bankers' influence, and ended with Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], who burst out: "You can talk until you are black in the face about refusing to cancel, but the moratorium is the opening wedge.

"If I am the only man in the chamber I will oppose the moratorium because it puts on the backs of the already burdened American taxpayers that which is due them from foreign governments."

While the debate was going on, before the house ways and means committee, where the moratorium legislation now is pending, Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills was explaining at length the train of events which led the President to propose the debt holiday.

Had Germany not been granted a respite, he said, she would have been forced off the gold standard, her whole economic structure and the economic structure of central Europe would have collapsed.

"To say that the rest of the world wasn't vitally concerned in preventing such a catastrophe to 60 million people situated in the heart of Europe is a proposition that no sane man can entertain," he declared. "It has been said that action was taken in the interest of American bankers. I don't admit it. It is not so. But if it were —what of it? The American banks are our institutions, where the American people confide their funds and their savings. If necessary to save the deposits of the American people I would not have hesitated to take similar action."

Has Faith in Ratification.

It was John W. McCormack [Dem., Mass.] who finally brought the long hearing down to the point. He asked whether a vote for the moratorium would be interpreted by the administration as indication of willingness to support revision or cancellation of the war debts.

"The war debts and the moratorium are as completely separated as any two things can be," Mr. Mills promised. "The stories that the treasury intends to couple them are not so."

And he concluded with this observation:

"Not to ratify the moratorium agreement would be an everlasting disgrace to the government and people of the United States. But such a thing would be impossible, for 276 representatives and 68 senators have pledged their approval, and I have faith in their patriotism and good sense."

Tomorrow Secretary of State Stimson is scheduled for an appearance before the committee.

HEAD OF CHURCH OF ENGLAND ASKS WORLD TO DISARM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Great Britain is spending about $690 for armaments each minute, Cosmo Gordon Lang, archbishop of Canterbury, said today in a service in St. Paul's dedicated to the success of next year's international disarmament conference. The service was attended by Prime Minister MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, and a host of other distinguished persons.

The world is spending $10,000,000 a day on armaments, the archbishop said, adding:

"The conference on disarmament which meets at Geneva in February will be the most momentous assembly since the peace conference. More than 10 years have passed, yet in spite of all the reductions achieved at the naval conferences in Washington and London, the level of armaments remains as high as ever. Our country will enter the conference in a position of strong moral authority. She has already made more substantial reductions than any other country. Many think she has already reached the lowest point consistent with her safety and obligations."

FINLAND FORBIDS STATE FINANCING IN DRY LAW VOTE

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 15. —(AP)—The use of the state's money either for or against prohibition in the campaign preceding the referendum scheduled to be held on Dec. 30 was forbidden in a cabinet proclamation issued today.

Government officials were prohibited from taking part in the campaign. Prohibitionists complained that the latter regulation will cost them the services of some of their leaders.

The home minister decided to investigate a meeting of temperance enthusiasts Sunday at which Prof. Voionmaa, socialist member of the diet, criticized the government on charges that it was favoring the anti-prohibitionists.

NATIONS SCRAP PLAN TO PUT END TO REPARATIONS

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 15.—The Young plan advisory committee, which today cloaked its deliberations in deeper secrecy than ever, has abandoned its intentions of making strong recommendations for the complete abolition of reparations payments by Germany, it was learned tonight from reliable authority.

The committee will rely on the private explanations of its members to reveal Germany's capacity to pay before their respective foreign offices.

The firm stand by the United States against the scaling down of war debts has diverted the committee from its original intentions, it is learned. The European hope is that the American congress may soften its attitude by January or February, thus bolstering France's hopes of a total or partial erasure of her war debts to America and making it easier for her to swallow a drastic treatment of reparations.

Even the German state railways, upon which the Young plan relies as a guarantee for an unconditional part of Germany's payments in reparations, are about to fail in their duty, the German railway director told the committee today. They reported that 1931 will close with a considerable deficit, which it probably will be impossible to cover even by drawing on reserves. But the committee will permit the respective governments to learn all of this through their delegates and after this meeting is over and everybody has gone home, it is stated.

A committee, composed of Sir Walter Layton of Great Britain, Prof. Charles Rist of France, and Dr. Carl Melchoir of Germany, is drafting a final report. It is being assisted by Walter W. Stewart, American delegate. The report, which will embody a summary of Germany's capacity to pay, is expected to be completed by Christmas.

Big Meeting in January.

After it is distributed to the various governments, conferences between the advisory committee's members and their foreign offices will follow.

Next, according to the procedure planned, the governments will communicate with each other for the purpose of learning one another's attitude. These nations will also decide on the time and place for the final reparations conference which will probably be held the latter part of January.

BRITISH NEWSPAPER UPBRAIDS U. S. SENATE FOR STAYING ALOOF

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Manchester Guardian today upbraided the isolation senators of the United States for still being "under the sway of certain stone age conceptions about the desirability of letting other nations go to the devil in their own way.

"It is not exactly the time for fiddling," the Guardian said, "and that, with all due respect, is what the American senate does not seem quite to realize."

If the American President could control foreign policy like the British prime minister, the world would be better, in the Guardian's opinion.

SENATE TO MAKE WIDE INQUIRY ON NAVAL SITUATION

Considers Bill to Build to Parity.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The navy's warship replacement needs as well as the actual terms of the league of nations' one year armament construction truce entered into by the Hoover administration a few weeks ago will be the subject of investigation by the senate naval committee immediately after the holidays.

That the inquiries will be made was made known by Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] immediately after the committee had held a protracted executive session this morning. At this meeting a decision was reached to begin open hearings early in January on the Hale bill carrying a blanket authorization for all cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, and submarines needed to bring the United States up from a second or third rate position to a navy "second to none."

Doubts Scope of Truce.

Chairman Hale's decision to look into the arms holiday was prompted by a special report obtained from naval officers indicating that if the truce terms were carefully investigated they would show that the agreement was so general and so hampered with reservations that it was largely a farce. It is Mr. Hale's belief that if the truce is looked into it will be found that its terms will not prohibit the laying down of a substantial warship construction program at once.

The navy report submitted to Hale showed that most of the large powers had made reservations which permitted them to go ahead with all programmed ships. The American acceptances of the proposal bound this government not to lay down ships which would increase American total tonnages, thus restricting building of aircraft carriers and cruisers. The acceptance stipulated, however, that this country would have the same privileges reserved by other powers.

U. S. Nears Third Position.

The Hale bill would permit this country to build three aircraft carriers, seven 10,000 ton 8 inch gun cruisers, eighty-nine destroyers, and approximately eighteen submarines, vessels needed to bring the American fleet up to parity. A report read to the naval committee today disclosed that the United States will be a poor third in under age combat ships in 1936 if a new program is not adopted. Great Britain, Japan and France all have laid down and built many more ships than the United States during the last ten years.

The plan is to call Secretary of the Navy Adams, Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, and members of the navy general board. Rear Admiral Frank H. Upham, chief of the bureau of navigation, who recently charged that Hoover economy was impairing the fleet, is slated to be a witness.

As open hearings also will be held by the house naval affairs committee, it is apparent that the full details of the American naval situation will be threshed out in congress prior to the departure for Geneva of the American delegation to the league arms conference. At the house hearings evidence will be introduced to support the passage of an authorization bill carrying close to a billion dollars' worth of new ships, covering a ten or fifteen year construction program designed to give this country a London treaty navy.

Bandit Swaps Headgear to Deceive the Police

A bandit who depended on a quick change of headdress to mislead police held up two west side hotels yesterday. Wearing a cap and carrying two revolvers, the bandit forced Percy Henry, a clerk, into a back office and fled with $50 from the Westlane hotel at 4508 Washington boulevard. A few minutes later he appeared with a brown fedora in the Paradise Arms hotel. In the second holdup he took $38 from Clayton Buckley, a clerk.

U. S. CAN'T BUY PEACE BY CANCELLING WAR DEBTS, M'ADOO SAYS

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The United States is simply deceiving itself, William G. McAdoo said in an address tonight, if it believes a reduction in armaments, unless accompanied by profound economic adjustment, would end wars.

WM. G. McADOO. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Speaking before students of the Southern Methodist university, the son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson observed that 12 years after the signing of the Versailles treaty "the obligations of this treaty not only remain unfulfilled, but the leading nations of Europe are maintaining greater armaments and a more staggering burden of waste and taxation than that which preceded the world war."

He predicted that any effort on the part of the United States to purchase world peace by cancellation of world war debts with the promise that the nations of Europe abolish their armies and navies would result in failure.

"To abolish war effectively we must contrive to lessen the intense economic tension which is, in this era, one of the outstanding characteristics of our civilization.

"And reduction in armaments is desirable on the ground of national economy, but, if we believe that such a reduction would put an end to great and disastrous wars—unless the movement is accompanied by profound economic adjustments—we are simply deceiving ourselves."

SHEARER UNDER U. S. EYE AS SEA PARLEY NEARS

Tax Sleuths Examine His 1929 Income.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—William B. Shearer, whose activities in behalf of American shipbuilders at the 1927 Geneva arms conference drew fire from President Hoover in 1929, is again receiving attention from the Hoover administration, this time for alleged nonpayment of income tax.

Just as in 1929, when Shearer was assailed as a navy propagandist by President Hoover on the eve of the London naval conference, this latest move against the naval writer comes seven weeks prior to the league of nations scheduled armanents limitation conference at Geneva.

Although no details were available today regarding whether Shearer actually has been charged with violating the income tax laws, it was learned that federal operatives of the internal revenue intelligence unit have been active recently in checking over the naval expert's income during 1929, when he was in the shipbuilders' employ.

He Sued for Salary.

Back in 1929, Shearer brought suit against the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, the New York Shipbuilding company and the Newport News Shipping and Drydock company, charging they had withheld part of the salary he was to have been paid for representing them at the Geneva parley, a conference which failed because the American delegation declined to surrender its position on 8 inch gun cruisers. Shearer's suit indicated he had been paid $51,000.

Shortly after the suit was filed, President Hoover caused a sensation by terming Shearer a paid naval propagandist and ordering a department of justice investigation into his activities. This was followed by a senate naval affairs committee investigation, which brought out the fact that Shearer had been paid several thousand dollars by the companies.

At this hearing, Henry C. Hunter, New York attorney and counsel for the national council of American shipbuilders, testified he had paid Shearer a check for $25,000.

Tracing $54,000 Payments.

It was the Hunter check and other checks, amounting in all to $54,000 that the federal agents sought today. Their investigations disclosed also that Shearer had admitted in 1929 that he had not paid any income tax.

Considerable comment was caused in congressional circles by the fact that the administration had waited to move against Shearer until just on the eve of the Geneva league conference.

U. S. JUDGE GIVES CHANGE OF VENUE FOR LIQUOR TRIAL

Barnes' Action Rare in Federal Courts.

In one of the few instances where a change of venue has been granted by a federal judge in Chicago Adolph Krejewski, a defendant in a liquor case, obtained a transfer of his trial from the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday.

Meanwhile, efforts to obtain a pardon for Boleslaw Lidikiewicz, the "home brew janitor" sentenced to 60 days' imprisonment by Judge Barnes, were renewed following a refusal by the department of justice to recommend executive action to the President.

Krejewski and his wife, Victoria, were accused of selling liquor in their saloon in Phoenix, Ill., and, after asserting that Judge Barnes was prejudiced and that the judge had prejudged the case, they were put on trial before Judge Walter C. Lindley without a jury. Judge Lindley found them guilty and sentenced the husband to 60 days' imprisonment and fined him $200 and the wife was granted probation on a suspended sentence of 60 days.

Changes of Venue Rare.

At the federal building it was said not more than seven or eight changes of venue had been asked there in the dozen years of the Volstead law. Lawyers hesitate because of a fear of censure from the court. It was explained. The petition of Krejewski asserted that Judge Barnes had expressed an opinion as to guilt when an investigator reported to him on the contention of the defense on Monday that Krejewski was ill.

Judge Barnes granted the petition without comment. In regard to the refusal of a pardon for Lidikewicz, Judge Barnes said he made no recommendation to the department of justice at Washington, for or against the granting of clemency to the prisoner. He sent no communication, he said.

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson said he did not make any recommendation for or against a pardon for Lidikewicz, either. In reply to the request from Washington he sent a statement of the facts, Mr. Johnson said, together with a transcript of the testimony taken before Judge Barnes on the petition for a vacation of the sentence. As United States attorney he has the option of making a recommendation or not making one, he explained.

"As district attorney I feel that my responsibility ends when a case is presented to the court," he explained.

Plan Appeal to Hoover.

The report from Washington was that the pardon was denied because the judge and the prosecuting attorney did not recommend a pardon. Congressman Leonard Schuetz, however, sent a telegram to Louis Pinderski, chairman of committee of foreign born citizens formed to aid Lidikewicz, that he and Congressman Adolph J. Sabath would try to reopen the case and get a hearing from President Hoover.

"The petition we sent to President Hoover, signed by myself and three other representatives of foreign born citizens, apparently did not reach Mr. Hoover," Attorney Pinderski said. "We are hopeful the two Chicago congressmen can get an answer 'Yes' or 'No' from President Hoover himself and not from some departmental attorney.

"It appears to us that the Lidikewicz pardon request was prejudiced by the subsequent arrest of Mrs. Lidikewicz, wife of the prisoner. Agents went into her home, apparently without complaint and certainly without right or justice, and made excuses to arrest her as a bootlegger merely to influence unfavorable action against her husband."

Reeves Abandons Hope.

Col. Ira L. Reeves, district chairman of the Crusaders, an anti-prohibition organization, said he had abandoned hope for any clemency for Lidikewicz, but that the organization intended to concentrate on aiding C. W. Wiley, a business man and member of the American Legion who was held to the federal grand jury when he tried to aid Lidikewicz.

"I see the hand of the Anti-Saloon league and Clarence True Wilson in the refusal of a pardon to Lidikewicz," said Col. Reeves. "They put pressure on the government at all times and, inasmuch as the administration is dry, we can expect just such a refusal as this when the Dinwiddies, Cannons, Carringtons, and Wilsons rule Washington."

DECLARES SHE SHOT TO DEATH MOTHER, 60, IN SELF-DEFENSE

Prestonburg, Ky., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Belle Thompson, 60 years old and almost blind and deaf, was shot to death here today and Sheriff B. L. Sturgill stated the woman's daughter, Mrs. Bertha Burchett, 38, claimed she killed her mother in self-defense.

Mrs. Burchett came to town from her home and surrendered, showing knife cuts on her dress and scratches on her face. The sheriff said she told him that in a quarrel her mother slashed at her with a knife and she snatched a pistol from the mantel and fired.

The killing occurred at the Burchett farm home. Mrs. Thompson, since the death of her husband, had made her home with her daughter and her son-in-law, Larce Burchett, a farmer, near here.

Larce Burchett was arrested later on a murder warrant sworn out by Police Judge E. F. Arnold and ordered held for investigation.

YOUTH SHOT BY DRY REFORMER QUITS HOSPITAL

Herman Knol, 17 years old, 6938 South May street, who was shot three weeks ago by Daniel Gilday, south side dry reformer, left the Englewood hospital yesterday, almost completely recovered. His mother, Mrs. Alberdin Knol, who has been at his bedside continuously, took the boy home in a taxicab. He had expressed a wish that he might spend Christmas at home.

A. E. Paul, superintendent of the hospital, said that Herman's recovery and courage were remarkable. When he was taken to the hospital with a bullet in his abdomen, little hope was held for his life. His fighting spirit helped the doctors to stave off peritonitis, which would have proved fatal, the superintendent said.

Meanwhile, Gilday is awaiting trial on charges of assault to murder and carrying concealed weapons.

$131,500 BONDS DEFAULTED BY FOREST DISTRICT

The county forest preserve district yesterday defaulted on $100,000 worth of bonds and $31,500 in interest. A last minute appeal to County Treasurer McDonough met with the answer that all his available funds had been contributed to the pay roll aggregate.

The Chicago Zoological society which is operating on county revenue, refused to lend the necessary sum and a committee of bankers declined to buy 1931 tax warrants. Superintendent Charles G. Sauers of the preserves said that even if the indebtedness had been met yesterday the district probably would have defaulted upon the $653,000 in bond principal and interest due Jan. 1.

The default, coupled with the inability to sell any more bonds, practically brings to an end the $300,000 improvement program, he added.

STATE MAY COME AND COLLECT, EMMERSON HINTS

eral assembly giving power to the state of Illinois to immediately enforce by or through its own agencies and independent of local authorities the payment of all taxes due to the state of Illinois.

"Such legislation to include the necessary provisions to enforce, without delay, the payment of any such taxes levied and assessed against any property in the state."

Denies Interview.

Efforts by the reporters to question Gov. Emmerson were cut short. "I think the statement speaks for itself," he said, terminating the interview.

Questions directed to other of the conferees met with the consistent reply that there was nothing to add to the statement, that it was the governor's emphatic request that secrecy be observed.

But it was only a short time later that one of the participants in the meeting was heard explaining the proposal to a member of the assembly.

"Why," he said, "take the blank hotel that is delinquent in its taxes. The representative of the state will walk in there and demand the money. If it isn't forthcoming the state will take a deed to the hotel and proceed to sell it in order to get the state tax rate of 39 cents per $100 of valuation."

Students of the constitution immediately pointed to section 4 of article IX, the revenue article, which they said prohibits the sale of real estate for taxes except by a general county officer.

Various Comments.

But the comments of the legislators showed that they saw the Emmerson proposal ran a much wider range than merely that of the law. Perhaps the most pithy comment was from Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe of Chicago:

"Are they going to call out the militia?"

"I noticed something in the statement about economy," said Representative Arthur Roe [Dem., Vandalia]. "Perhaps they should keep that thought in mind if they are considering setting up a duplicate set of tax machinery in Cook county, a mighty expensive piece of equipment for the collection of a tax rate of 39 cents."

Others whispered opinions that the move of the governor had back of it some political motive which probably would be disclosed later.

The situation in reference to the Cook county tax boards, the news that Mr. Traylor was on his way for a final talk or two, brought proceedings in both houses almost to a standstill for the day.

Proceedings in House.

In the house of representatives the principle business transacted was the passage of the three Adamowski bills to authorize insurance companies to invest surplus funds in tax anticipation warrants, a form of security not on their permissible list now. But they were not passed with the emergency clause for immediate effectiveness—which would require a two-thirds vote—which was stricken after the first roll call in each case, each bill then being passed by a mere majority vote, which—if the senate follows suit and the governor approves—will put the new laws into effect next July.

The argument against the bills which, it was contended, would provide a wider market for tax warrants, was that they were dangerous to the solidity of insurance companies whose use of surplus funds is closely regulated by law.

Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago] presented a new bill to prohibit the execution of minors convicted of murder. It was held on Speaker Shanahan's desk and probably will remain there as being outside the governor's call for the special session.

CHICAGO PHYSICIAN GRANTED NEW TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Dr. Thomas J. Ney, Chicago physician under a 15 year sentence for murder by abortion, was granted a new trial today by the Illinois Supreme court. Dr. Ney was sentenced July 23 by Judge Joseph B. David after a jury had convicted him of causing the death of Miss Emma Bromps, 20 years old, of Angora, Minn.

PLAN TO UNITE CITY BUREAUS HITS STATE SNAG

The proposed consolidation of several city bureaus ran into a snag yesterday when the council finance committee discovered a conflict between the state laws and provisions of an ordinance creating a new department of service and regulatory inspections.

Three of the units to be combined in the new department are the city sealer's office and the bureaus of plumbing and electrical inspections. A perusal of the state statutes by Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th], disclosed that the office of city sealer was created by statute and that the state code provides that the plumbing inspection shall be under the direction of the city board of health and the electrical inspection under the commissioner of gas and electricity.

Although it had been planned to recommend the ordinance for passage at today's council session, the committee decided to recess the council meeting until Friday. Further consideration will be given tomorrow to the ordinance, which was prepared by J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert.

COUNTY TO PAY 5,300 EMPLOYES, ALSO PENSIONS

Christmas pay checks for the last half of October will be given to 4,600 county employés tomorrow and Friday. Seven hundred extra employés also will be given $70,000 in checks for the first half of September. Pensions for 1,800 mothers and 6,000 children, due for the first half of November, will be mailed out on the same days.

Announcement of the payday was made yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough. Funds accruing from the various fee offices and collected from half a dozen other departments of the county furnished the necessary $446,000 in cash, it was explained.

Italy Hunts $50,000 Gems Stolen from Marchioness

NAPLES, Italy, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A widespread search was conducted by police today for the thieves who stole $50,000 worth of jewels from the bedchamber of the Marchioness Carignani, who formerly was Miss Mary Denman of New York. The marchioness left the jewelry in two silver boxes when she stepped out of the room Saturday night. Upon her return she found one box gone and the other lying empty near an open window.

SEE WILKERSON AS G. O. P. HOPE IN GOVERNOR RACE

Judge's Announcement on Candidacy Awaited.

Republican leaders in Chicago and downstate were seeking a definite announcement yesterday regarding the prospective candidacy of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for governor. Judge Wilkerson, who was urged to run by President Hoover, according to reports from Washington, had no announcement for the present. Those close to him, however, said he might be induced to become a candidate if not confronted with a serious primary fight.

From all camps came the word that Judge Wilkerson's possible candidacy held an important place in discussions of gubernatorial timber. The general talk was that he might be the life saver needed in the coming year, when the Republican party has much at stake.

Drafting Move Discussed.

"Judge Wilkerson may be induced to be a candidate, and he would be a credit and a help to the ticket," said Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general and one of the party's leaders in the state. "His wonderful record would be a guaranty to the voters, and he could lead the party to success."

There have been several discussions among the various factions regarding the drafting of Judge Wilkerson as a candidate, Mr. Brundage said, and there are to be more. To date, he said, there is no agreement, but the judge's friends and advocates are hopeful that other contenders might be induced to withdraw in favor of Wilkerson. Gov. Emmerson is reported to have been "sounded out" on the idea of not seeking reelection and giving his aid to Wilkerson, but has not committed himself, it was said.

The impression of other Republicans is that former Gov. Len Small would not care to oppose Judge Wilkerson in a Republican primary. Small, Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, William H. Malone, former head of the state tax commission, and Congressman Frank R. Reid of Aurora are the only ones so far who have signified the intention of being candidates for the Republican nomination for governor.

Judge Wilkerson, as a practicing lawyer, was called upon to assist in the prosecution of Gov. Small in the trial in which Small was accused of having withheld interest on state money while he was state treasurer. He was also chairman of the Illinois commerce commission before becoming a federal judge, and he is now in line for a promotion to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Think Others May Quit Race.

Because of the judge's record, politicians say, Carlstrom, Malone, and Reid might withdraw in his favor. Under such circumstances, Judge Wilkerson might agree to be a candidate, they say.

"Judge Wilkerson understands politics and has engaged in practical politics, but he has never been identified with any of the factions and he is the kind on whom the factions could all agree," said Mr. Brundage. "He is also a great administrator."

Judge Wilkerson's boom took form after he presided at the trial of Al Capone. When in Washington at the Gridiron dinner he was introduced as the man "who has found a home for Capone." The President was said to have advised the jurist to run for governor of Illinois. This was considered here as giving a considerable impetus to Judge Wilkerson's possible candidacy.

"Lovely looking stockings are important to me," says dainty Jean Harlow, whose exquisite platinum-blonde beauty has shot her to stardom. "I'm specially fussy about the way mine fit. that's why it makes stockings fit and wear

DO YOU KNOW why Lux is so wonderful for stockings? Here's the reason . . .

New stockings are elastic. Made so each silk thread gives under strain. Stretches and springs right back again.

If elasticity is destroyed, the threads break, starting runs. Or they sag. You get wrinkles, crooked seams.

Lux is especially made to preserve this precious elasticity. That's why the Lux way of washing makes stockings fit with such flattering snugness . . . why it makes even the sheer ones wear.

Works of Two Dead Authors Are New Books

They're Arnold Bennett's and Donn Byrne's.

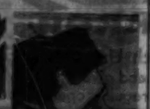
BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Night Visitor and Other Stories," by Arnold Bennett. [Doubleday-Doran.]

"Rivers of Damascus," by Donn Byrne. [Century.]

TWO posthumous volumes of short stories were published this fall from the pens of two writers who were vastly—and deservedly—popular. Their deaths were an untimely end to careers which seemed only in their full flower, certainly not in their fading cycle. Except for the fact that they are the last literary efforts of two important men, the two volumes have little in common, for one of them is intentionally gay and jaunty in tone and the other ironic.

JOHN BYRNE.



ARNOLD BENNETT.

Arnold Bennett's was one of the most versatile pens in the English literary group of writers of fiction. He could, and did at least once, write one of the greatest novels of English literary history ("The Old Wives' Tale"). He could write becomingly sedate and serious fiction, or he could turn a phrase and a tale into the gayest of molds, and he did with skill whatever he turned his hand to. His early stories of the "Five Towns" won him his early fame. There are no more delightful novels written in our day than "Helen With the High Hand" and "Denry the Audacious" and "The Grand Babylon Hotel" and "Buried Alive." He could turn from the serious to the gay with alluring speed. In fact, there were rumors during the last years of his life that he alternated consciously between the two.

One novel a serious (though never solemn) one, the next a frank "potboiler," not only to keep the financial pot a-steam, but to keep his hand in its cunning with frivolity.

His latest serious novel was "Imperial Palace." His short stories under the title of "The Night Visitor" belong very definitely to the author's section from "Imperial Palace." They are all bright in mood and manner with many a gay twirl of plot. Even the story of a murder has a

Former Chicagoan Wins Navy Cross; Made "Subs" Safer

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—His service in the work of developing the submarine escape "lung" and other safety devices has won the navy cross for Lieut. Norman S. Ives of Washington, D.C.

The award, made by Secretary Adams, acting for the President, was accompanied by a citation "for distinguished service" as commanding officer of the U. S. S. S-4 from October, 1925, to August, this year, in "the hazardous duty of developing and perfecting the devices experimented with to make submarines safe for the operating personnel."

NORMAN S. IVES.

Lieut. Ives was born in Chicago. He is officer in charge of the diving school at the Washington navy yard.

Parenthood Problems to Be Part of Course

De Paul university will introduce a course in "Problems of Catholic Parenthood" today in the downtown college of liberal arts and sciences. The Rev. Dr. John M. Nichols, C. M., recently appointed director of religious instruction, will conduct the course. The course will include double standard of morality as it affects parenthood, nature of relations between parents and child, birth control from the Catholic viewpoint, Catholic church and divorce, parents in the Catholic ideal of life, and the Catholic parent's duty to the state.

Rene Maison Will Sing Tital Role in "Parsifal"

Every seat for the performance of "Parsifal" by the Chicago Civic Opera company next Sunday afternoon has been sold. That was announced yesterday.

Rene Maison will sing the title role Sunday and Frieda Leider will be cast as Kundry. Amfortas will be sung by Hans Hermann Nissen, Gurnemanz by Alexander Kipnis, Klingsor by Arthur Habich and Titurel by Chase Baromeo. Egon Pollak will be the conductor.

THE STAGE

THE end of the Chicago run of "The Green Pastures" is now definitely in sight. This famous play by Marc Connelly will give its last performance at the Illinois theater Saturday night, Jan. 16.

"The Green Pastures" is the veteran of the contemporary playbills. It opened the Chicago theatrical season on Labor day, coming here immediately after its run of 640 performances on Broadway, and it has outlived all of its competitors. Its closing date will mark the end of its nineteenth week and its 160th performance in Chicago.

The company will go on tour, and its first engagement out of Chicago will be in Milwaukee, for two weeks. The "Ziegfeld Follies" will probably be the following attraction at the Illinois, opening Jan. 17 or 18.

THE OPERA

"MARTHA."

Opera in four acts and six scenes by Von Flotow. Given by the Chicago Civic Opera company Tuesday, Dec. 15. Conductor, Frank St. Leger.

THE CAST.

Lady Harriet	Louis Turner
Nancy	Ora Slade
Lionel	Tito Schipa
Plunkett	Virgilio Lazzari
Sir Tristan	Salvatore Baccaloni
Sheriff	Robert Ringling

BY EDWARD MOORE.

IT was an occasion for gladness. Give "Martha" a competent cast, and last night's cast was more than competent, and present it at an alert tempo, and Mr. St. Leger's tempi were more than alert, and it is one of the gayest operas in the whole repertoire.

There is one possibility by which it might get even more gayety. That is to give it in English, always supposing that it is kept in the same bright mood as that of last night. Perhaps in that happy time, a long ways yet from realization, when some of the operas are given in English, "Martha" may be one of the number. As the case stands now, it is a piece with a story about England, set to music by a German composer, and sung in Italian, all except "The Last Rose of Summer."

But it is something to be able to hear Mr. Schipa atop the show with "M'Apparl," a piece with which for years he has been in the habit of winning large quantities of applause, whether he sings it in concert or in its operatic location. It would seem as though he had found the secret of eternal vocal youth. At least his voice sounded fresher and more velvety than ever last night, as young as it was in the days when he came here to add the North American continent to his list of conquests.

Not that he was the only star of the evening. It was an all-star quartet when he, Miss Turner, Miss Glade, and Mr. Lazzari sang the song of the spinning wheel and afterwards addressed the hour of midnight during the second act. Ensemble numbers and solos were numerous for all except Miss Glade, whose fine solo of the third act was for some reason omitted, and this in the face of the fact that she was an extra-special star of uncommon luminosity in her own right.

But "Martha" has enough charming tunes in it to fit out half a dozen operas of later dating. Mr. St. Leger made a change in the customary routine by starting the first scene at once and delaying the overture to make it an entr'acte between the first and second scenes. This had a double advantage. It led up directly to the merrymaking of the market place scene and put the late comers of the audience into a position where they were obliged to listen to it and applaud it afterward. With the kind of performance given it by Mr. St. Leger and the orchestra the applause was as well deserved as it was when the vocal soloists added their contributions to a pleasant evening.

The Chicago Civic Opera company is performing a valuable service to the community, an especially valuable one this year, in projecting its own bright ray of cheer into a gloomy situation. Its service is never more important than when it presents a charming, tuneful comedy with such deftness as it did last night.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In yesterday's TRIBUNE, in a list of closed banks from which payments are being made to depositors, one bank was erroneously called the Northwest Steiskal and another the Noval bank. The correct names, together with the amounts to be paid and the number of depositors, are the Northwestern bank, $2,000,000 to 20,000 depositors, and the Novak & Steiskal bank, $93,700 to 4,200 depositors.

Through a confusion in names the state's attorney's office announced and it was printed in THE TRIBUNE last Sunday that Judge Thomas A. Green of the Municipal court would be called as a witness in the sanitary district graft trial. Judge Green said that he never sponsored anybody on the district pay roll.

Good Morning!

KIND: Mystery melodrama.
QUALITY: Good.
ACTING: Praiseworthy.
DIRECTION: Competent.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Not hot.
DIALOGUE: Fair.
STORY: Interesting and well worked out. If you are able to guess the murderer of the matinée star, who is quite as much hated as he is idolized, before the time comes FOR you to learn his identity, I'll be surprised. Action is fast and credible and the characters seldom if ever overplay. You may consider De Witt Jennings, portraying Detective Dunn, an offender in this respect.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Considerable—for the person who likes to shiver and surmise.

See you tomorrow.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

When a neophyte attempts to learn a game he first finds an endless number of rules. He masters these rules and before him loom limitless exceptions until finally he is at a loss to know whether it is the exceptions that prove the rules or the rules that prove the exceptions. In yesterday's play-a-problem we find North and South each with a type of distribution that almost invariably plays better at a suit declaration than at no-trump and yet the final and winning declaration is no-trumps and six at that. Here is the hand:

NORTH
♥—6,5
♣—4,3

WEST
♠—K,Q,8,7,6,5
♥—K,10,8
♦—6,5,4
♣—10

EAST
♠—10
♥—Q,4,7,4
♦—7,2

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—J,4,3
♥—A,9,3,2

South opened the bidding with two clubs, holding 7 probable and far more than the required 3 high card tricks. West overcalled with two spades and North yielded to temptation and bid three spades. Now North should really have had 3½ high card tricks for this bid, as a bid of the adversaries' suit has the same effect as a jump shift bid. That is, it demands that a game declaration be reached. In addition, it shows the ability to win the first trick of the adverse suit. North held 2 high card tricks in diamonds, 1 in spades, and so was ½ trick short of the necessary requirements. He had, however, solid diamonds to the 8 and it was this plus, plus his partner's two bid, that encouraged him to make a slightly optimistic declaration.

East passed, South bid four clubs, and West passed. North bid four diamonds and East passed. South felt sure of 7 tricks in his own hand. Moreover, he held four first or second round high card tricks and believed his partner to hold 2½. This made a total of 7½ between the two hands, which should produce at least a small slam. He placed his partner's strength either in solid diamonds, plus the ♠ A, plus something in hearts (which North lacked, due to his slight overbid), or with top diamonds and top hearts. Either combination looked sure and so South bid six no-trumps. All passed.

West opened with the ♣ K. North played the A, East the 10, and South the J. Dummy then led the ♦ 9, which South took with the A. South led back the ♣ 4, and West took the trick with the Q, dummy playing the 7, and East discarding the ♣ 5. West then led the ♥ K, which South took with the A. South then led the ♠ 3, West played the 5, and dummy took with the 9. Dummy then led out the ♠ K-Q-J-10, on which South discarded all but the club A-K-Q-J. To the tenth trick dummy led the ♣ 4, which was taken by South's J, whereupon South proceeded to cash the ♣ A-K-Q for six odd—the game and small slam.

While North's bid of three spades can be justified in view of South's strong holding as shown by the initial bid of two clubs, such a shading of the required 3½ high card tricks should not be made under any circumstances in response to partner's opening bid of one.

In the latter case the full 3½ high card tricks are needed for either a bid of the adversaries' suit or a jump shift bid.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. When the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. Record by each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square. As S, E, N, W, etc. in the lead column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Letters Ask Santa Claus to Bring Help

Postal Official Acts as Receiver of Pleas.

Being Uncle Sam's official Santa Claus for Chicago is a big order this year for Assistant Postmaster John T. McGrath, who for weeks has been the recipient of Santa Claus letters. More than 1,000 letters from needy families requesting aid during the Christmas season have been received at the postoffice.

"There is an unusual number of grown people asking for help rather than children asking Santa Claus for Christmas toys," Mr. McGrath said yesterday. "The letters from every one are classified into neighborhoods so that neighborhood organizations can apply and get the names of the needy families in their own district."

Many of the letters are written in childish hand, addressed to "Dear Santa Claus," and often on the envelope is an official notice: "Due 2 cents." Lack of postage does not worry Mr. McGrath, who digs into his pocket and pays the postage a child could not pay.

Among the letters to Santa Claus that arrived yesterday was one from Mrs. P. on West 27th street. "Just a few lines asking if you would kindly help me out for Christmas," she wrote. "I have three small children and my husband is out of work. I have nothing for the children. If you help me out I will appreciate it very much and thank you for your kindness."

From Ann Pickard, a little girl somewhere in Chicago, came a letter in a round, childish hand addressed to "Dear Santa." In addition to the letter she enclosed a portrait of herself by herself, a pencil drawing of a little girl with black bobbed hair. She asked for a doll 16 inches tall and a trunk for the doll, and said she had been a very good girl.

Henrietta, on Auburn avenue, remembered that "last year we never had any toys or candy or a fire on Christmas. Could you please help out my mamma on Christmas?" she wrote.

Plans for a huge Christmas party for every child in Chicago under 12 years old were announced yesterday by the Showman's League of America. At the Coliseum this organization is conducting a Christmas fiesta and carnival. The party is to be held on Cermak day, which is to be Dec. 24. In addition to free admission to the show, each child will receive a Christmas present and a bag of candy.

Although he has already accepted his part in the sponsorship of the day, the league said, Mayor Cermak will be given a formal invitation tomorrow afternoon. Then the Albany Park Moose and their ladies' auxiliary will hold a ceremony in the city hall with the aid of a 125 piece boys' band and an adult band. The ceremony will open Moose day at the fiesta tomorrow, at which the Moose will entertain their children.

Christmas carol practice started last evening for the Universal Atlas Cement Choral society when they met at 208 South La Salle street. At Christmas time this chorus goes about among the hospitals and children's and old people's homes to sing Christmas music.

The M. H. Samson company reassembled a top shop yesterday, as toys were collected preliminary to Christmas delivery. Mr. and Mrs. Samson expect to provide close to 1,000 poor children with toys.

Bachelor and Sorority Girls as Good Fellows

Get Names of Families Needing Cheer.

A young man stopped into THE TRIBUNE Public Service bureau, 1 South Dearborn street, yesterday, and inquired for the Good Fellow department. He wanted to know more about the duties of a Good Fellow.

At the counter devoted to Good Fellow enrollment the young man told the department head that he considered himself fortunate to have a job when many men were without work. As an appreciation of his good fortune he wanted to do what he could for the children of an unemployed man.

He went away with the name of a family of eight, and the names and ages of each child. Christmas eve he will take a basket of food, toys and clothing to this family. He will be a regular Good Fellow.

"It's a swell idea," the young man said. "There are lots of us who are unmarried and don't have many dependents. I'm glad to have the chance to take Christmas to those kids. Of course, I don't look much like a Santa Claus with white whiskers and a red suit, but I'll have the equivalent of a pack on my back."

There are a good many other young people who feel the same way, if those who enlisted yesterday as Good Fellows are an indication. Two more fraternities asked that their names be added to the Good Fellow list. These were Beta chapter of Sigma Tau Lambda, and Beta chapter of Alpha Omega Phi.

The Social Service club of Darwin school sent in a request for "a large family near Logan Square." The South Chicago Y. M. C. A. Good Fellow club wanted a "big family." And the Legomes Girls' club, which are old friends of the Good Fellow movement, sent an order for four families.

A group of up-and-coming students of the commerce and secretarial schools of De Paul university informed the Good Fellow department yesterday that the proceeds of the annual Christmas dance on Friday afternoon are to be used for the Good Fellows. With the proceeds of the dance which is to be held at the school at 64 East Lake street, the Amazon club, girl's organization, and the Wranglers, the boys' club, expect to play Good Fellow to at least ten needy families.

Those in charge of the arrangements are Mary Munday, 4421 Berkeley avenue, president of the Amazon club, Al MacDougall, 7714 South Shore drive, president of the Wranglers; and Marjorie Johnston, 6541 Woodlawn avenue, chairman of the secretarial school group. Marge Heins is general chairman of the dance.

The Good Fellow club in the sheriff's office is making progress toward their Christmas plans, by accumulating the toys they will distribute in their baskets. This club, of which Gertrude Frumveller is chairman, will bring cheer to ten families.

If you want to carry cheer to a needy family, telephone Superior 0100, and ask for the Good Fellow department. The staff will gladly explain the Good Fellow plan and supply you with the name of a family that has been investigated and found worthy of your sympathy. Or you may visit the Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street, and enroll in person.

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

Kit Lenoure, who had worked four years in a London family hotel, accepts a post in the Grand Africa hotel, Soydoret, Kenya. Theo Sable had gone there two years before when Kit had broken her engagement to him. But Kit still wanted him more than anything in the world. She sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jess North, her cabin mate, is going out to be married. Lal Crowhurst, the biggest landowner about Soydoret, and a most attractive bachelor, is on the boat. He is attentive to Kit. Jess tells Kit the scandal she hears about "the widow who owns him." Soydoret proves to be a paradise with many serpents and terrible powers of demoralization to weak natures. Jess is married on her arrival to Noel Graham, who manages Crowhurst's coffee plantations. Kit hears that Theo has taken up big game hunting. Crowhurst shows her through his place, "Moon Fields." She meets the widow, Ariel Grieve, who lives nearby. Then Theo Sable arrives in Soydoret, with a hunting party. They are both overjoyed to have found each other again. But there are unexplainable changes in Theo that Kit can't understand.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

OLD LOVES.

"Theo! Theo! It is Theo Sable, isn't it?"

He stopped, turned back.

A slight woman's figure came towards him. She glistened with silver, frostily, as she approached him. He saw a white, ghostlike face, and under it great pearls.

She was running. Her silver slippers twinkled. She panted, as they met.

"Theo! I thought I must be mad when I saw you standing in the road. But it is you! My darling, it is you! I have been waiting, longing, wondering—dying! Theo, speak to me! Darling, how could you have been so cruel—to go off like that and never send me word or sign? Oh, but what does it matter? You have come back! How did you know I was here?"

"You haven't forgotten, Theo!"

"Ariel!" the young man said.

Her hands clung to his arm. He looked and spoke as if he were stunned.

"Come back with me, Theo!" said the woman. "I live quite close. I must hear all about you. It is too wonderful."

Theo went with her to the car. He could not help himself. She dragged him by the hand.

"I had no idea you were here, Ariel," he said, dazedly.

They were on the steps of Snow View in a few minutes. She had held his hand in the car; the faint whiff of violets that he remembered so well—remembered too well—stole to his nostrils. He wanted to move away from it, from the light pressure of the wraithlike body. But he could not.

She had a grip on him that he could not escape. He could not forget that she had saved his life.

She led the way into the large living room and threw off her silver cloak. She wore white satin under it, very plain. Her ashen hair stood out from her head in waved disorder. There was electricity in the air. Her smoky eyes were turned into black diamonds, with the glint of fire in them, as they rested on the young man's face.

The doors were shut. She came up to him, lifting her head, her lips trembling.

"Darling!" she whispered. "Darling!"

Theo took her in his arms. What could he do?

She clung to him, close, long, greedy, starving.

"You haven't forgotten, Theo?" she breathed at last, as she dropped from his arms on to a couch. "Come, sit down beside me! Let me look at you! I've been pining for you for more than six months."

"Could I have a drink, Ariel?" he asked, with an uncomfortable laugh. "It's terribly close tonight. This has been such a—a delightful surprise for me."

"Then, you didn't know I was here? Why did you come, then?"

He told her, as he helped himself to a strong whisky peg, with plenty of ice.

"O, yes, the Nightlands!" she said, without interest. "I did not see them. They went off again immediately. Then, you are staying with Lal Crowhurst?"

"No, at the hotel. I don't think Crowhurst wanted me, although his secretary did give me a half hearted invitation to stay. I have to see to their kit. I was with them on safari. It is a coincidence, isn't it?" He smiled in his boyish way.

Her eyes glowed.

"A heavenly one, darling! You know, Lal Crowhurst is a very old and very dear friend of mine."

"I think you told me, but I had forgotten, as a matter of fact."

He had forgotten a great deal about that somewhat unconventional episode when she had found him, ill and shattered, all but broken, after the fearful Chaplet accident, of which the whole tragic and deplorable story had never been told to the world. He had not forgotten her, of course. It would be impossible for a man to forget Ariel Grieve after what had passed between them. But he had been glad it was over. When he had left the bungalow on the outskirts of Nairobi, where he had lain hidden during those strange, fever-ridden, brain-drugged weeks, he had wished it had never happened.

Of course, she had been incredibly good to him. She had saved his life, and probably his reason. And her husband was in India, and her servants were perfect, and she had managed everything so that nobody would ever know. But he wished she hadn't fallen in love with him. It made him feel such a cad.

He had been carried away, of course, at first. What young man of twenty-seven would not? She was over thirty, and one of the most remarkable women who had ever lived.

And now he had come across her again in this queer, fatal way; and she seemed as keen on him as ever. And there was Kit Lenoure at the hotel, the only girl he had ever loved in his life, really. It was awkward. It it should get about——

"I believe you've forgotten everything—even me," Ariel said, slowly, and held out her arms.

He went to them obediently. He was a good actor enough.

"How can you, Ariel? I'm just bowled over. Tell me what you have been doing, what you're going to do."

"You know, of course, that Joseph is dead?" she asked.

"I saw it in the papers."

"He went off suddenly, almost immediately after he came back from India. Lal Crowhurst wired and offered me this house to stay in, knowing Nairobi would be hateful to me. It is peaceful here."

"Lovely! And are you going back to England?"

"I'm not sure what I'm going to do." No need to mix this affair up with the other. Nobody knew that she and Crowhurst were going to marry so soon. "I have been through a terrible time, darling. After he was gone out of my life I felt more than ever the effects of the awful unhappiness he caused me. I broke up and was more dead than alive myself. Tonight is the first time I've been out to dinner, and that was only with Lal Crowhurst and one or two other people. But you, my darling, why did you never let me hear from you? Why did you just fade away? It was so cruel."

"I didn't think you would bother about me once I was gone," he said, awkwardly.

"O, Theo, how can you? When I gave you my whole heart and soul, my very life?"

He floundered deeper.

"Ariel, you were an angel to me. I could never forget it. I thought of you all the time. But—well, I simply couldn't be so conceited as to think that you would miss me when I was gone. You, so wonderful, with so many friends, with every man at your feet."

"Theo, you are breaking my heart all over again!" She put her hands over her face. "I have never thought of any one else as I have thought of you. You are my very own lover—the very heart of my heart."

See Skin Specialist for This Complexion Ill, Says Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There is a complaint frequently registered in the name of beauty which more rightly should come under the medical adviser's eye, I think. Though it is a skin disease and it does certainly affect the appearance for the worse, still I think a visit to the physician advisable in its event.

It is that blotched nose and cheek redness seen not infrequently and which the ordinary powder applications do not hide satisfactorily. It is a form of acne. I'm told by doctors. There aren't any eruptions to speak of, but the nose and cheeks take on an embarrassing hue. The coloring does not extend far over on the cheeks, but centers around the middle vertical third of the face. The nose seems to suffer, most often and most vividly.

Doctors assert that some poison in the blood is responsible. This poison, as a rule, comes from the intestines and, somehow, the toxin affects the tubes that carry the blood and affects the power of the blood vessels in carrying on in their normal way. The blood vessels become overstretched and more blood than is normal enters. The result is the excessive redness.

At first the redness comes only in fits and starts, or it will remain continuously but for a short time only. It may last for days only, or it may last for weeks, months or years.

Among the causes cited are long-continued habits of eating highly seasoned foods, of drinking excessive amounts of tea and coffee and of over indulgence in alcoholic beverages. Nervous excitement will provoke the condition. And it is said to appear rarely before the age of 30 and is a more common ailment in men than in women.

Regulation of the diet is the first step toward relief. Spices, hot drinks, alcohol, tea, coffee, excessive amounts of sweets, starchy and fried foods should be abandoned. The bowels must be kept freely active and digestive disorders cleared up. But for really successful treatment consultation with a skin specialist is strongly recommended because if it is not taken in hand early it may become a lifetime embarrassment.

Mother-in-Law Always Tags Along; Young Wife Grows Restive

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I've been married a couple of years. We are living at present with my husband's mother. She is separated from his father. At first I made an effort to include her in our plans as much as I could. Now, she has lost contact with all her friends and takes it for granted she goes along wherever we go. I hate to be selfish—but is it fair? YOUNG MATRON."

No. It's not fair of the older woman to expect to be toted along on every occasion! But what a common complaint you register, Y. M.! To this confidante of mother-daughter-in-law situations it seems almost axiomatic that the problem of the older woman tagging along or wanting to tag along appears.

Understand, of course, that it is the unhappy situations I hear about, not about women who respect the rights of the young couple under their roof to unchaperoned companionship. There are many among the older group who realize understandingly and sympathetically that youth is youth and there is a great gap in the amusement interests of a younger and older generation.

The fact is recognized without rancor by these bigger, wiser women of the older generation. They are women who can put themselves in others' shoes. They can transplant themselves back twenty years or twenty-five and visualize the dampening effect an omnipresent older woman would have been on their young spirits. And they accept only an occasional invitation to be of the party, or of the twosome expedition, or whatever the occasion may be.

But such successful mothers-in-law have built up defense reserves. They have created new interests to occupy their time, or have never let go their old ones. They have kept friends among their own contemporaries. They've built their lives so that they are not dependent upon their offspring and the latter's mates for their social needs.

The commonest mistakes women make is to let go all the old friend ties, all the old interests. They find themselves at middle-age completely adrift or ready to fasten a tenacious hold on sons and daughters in nearest propinquity. It isn't fair to make the young ones pay for one's own sins of ommission. And women might as well recognize that it is a sin of ommission not to build for that later day when, to put it as badly as the young ones' complaints imply, you're not wanted.

Make That Christmas Money Buy Practical Presents, This Year

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I don't know that you'd call me an economical soul!" said one of the most extravagant friends I have, with an apologetic smile, "but when I go visiting around between Christmas and New Year's I'm aghast at the amount of 'junk' in the form of Christmas gifts women have shopped for, and men have worked to pay for. And especially among the children. Trash! Wasted energy and expense!"

Haven't you noticed that, yourself?

A tremendous amount of money is spent on children at Christmas time. When you go about in the shops, big and little and see how much there is that is really fine and intelligently designed and made by the better manufacturers, it seems a pity that so much useless stuff is hastily or carelessly exchanged for "good money."

Toys and playthings, sport things and apparatus have been mentioned in this column, and booklets offered to help in making selections that are right for each age. Book lists have also been provided for those who buy books as present. Any of these will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There is one more sort of gift that represents money well-spent for a child, and that is either furniture or furnishings built for his size and comfort.

A sturdy, low, broad table, a solid, not easily-tipped, low chair are a necessity and a delight.

A low bookcase or shelves, or his own chest of drawers, a lovely little pottery animal lamp—a dozen things will suggest themselves to you, once your mind starts off on this track.

Among the dozen that will come popping into your head may be: a porringer or a cereal set, a tuck box, or a big toy box, a foot stool (which small children adore, but not for their feet!), a small gay bedstead rug for warm bare little feet, a jolly milk pitcher, or a bed tray for early suppers in bed. Make that Christmas money, whether its yours or the relatives' or friends', represent value received.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Chance to Help a Student.

"I wonder if you could help me get some books on mechanics, electricity, radio, or a carpenter's practical guide book. I am attending a public high school, studying acetylene welding, and want to become efficient along these lines. H. M."

Here's an ambitious young man who is making every effort to improve his education. Can you aid him in the good work by donating any helpful literature you have?

Society Busy with Debuts, Other Parties

STILL, they come, invitations for the holidays! Every day is so full now that it does not seem possible that there could be any more, but somehow or other those who want to entertain are finding time to give parties. Mrs. Edward T. Jeffery of 1344 Astor street is giving a breakfast for her granddaughter, Miss Virginia Doering, on Wednesday, Dec. 26, at 12 o'clock, at the Woman's Athletic club.

This is in the nature of a debut for Miss Doering, for if she had not gone to Sarah Lawrence college this winter she would have been a debutante. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering Jr. She preceded her schoolmates, who return Friday, some because she has had a bad cold, but she is all right now and ready to enjoy the gayety which falls to the lot of every schoolgirl and boy at home for the holidays.

Mrs. George Ives Haight of 1000 Lake Shore boulevard, Evanston, has planned a luncheon for her daughter, Gloria, on Monday, Dec. 28, at the Women's Athletic club. Miss Haight returns from Connecticut college Friday.

John Robert Leonard and his son and daughters, Daniel Leonard, Miss Harriet Leonard, Mrs. Hibbard Caseberry, and Mr. Caseelberry have sent out invitations for their annual tea on New Year's day from 4 o'clock at the Leonards' residence, Wildacre, in Winnetka. This attractive home on Bryant avenue is a popular rendezvous for society on the first day of each year.

Parties Won't Have Usual Rush New Year's Day.

Another place where members of the "pretty world" are accustomed to gathering on New Year's day is at Douglas Fairbanks' residence at 120 North State street, but this year the annual buffet luncheon will not be given because of the recent death of Mrs. Fairbank's intimate friend, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter.

The Contemporary club, which formerly was the Wednesday Fortnightly, of which Miss Martha Sarver is president, has sent out charming little Christmas cards to its members inviting them and their families, especially the children, to hear a program of Christmas music by the Chicago Bach chorus on Monday, Dec. 21, at 4:15 o'clock at the Fortnightly.

The boys of Miss Harris' fashion school in the Webster hotel have issued invitations for a benefit supper dance on Tuesday, Dec. 22, in the ballroom of the Webster, to aid the Junior Emergency Relief fund.

Junior Dance for Tonight; Mother Still to Lecture.

Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell are giving a dinner dance tonight at their residence in Hubbard Woods for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dounis, Mrs. Carleton Blunt, and Mr. Blunt, who have just returned from their wedding trip and are living in Evanston. The invitation list was composed of the younger married set on the north shore. Mrs. Dounis was Miss Rebecca Prentiss of Minneapolis, Minn., before her marriage in October.

The Town Hall lecture that Winston Churchill was to have given tonight in Orchestra hall and which has had to be postponed because of Mr. Churchill's injury and illness in New York, will be given soon after Christmas, but the exact date is not set yet.

Some of the more serious minded members of society will attend a debate on "Is Man a Mechanism?" Friday night before the ball, the debate to be staged in the Bendix galleries for the benefit of the Henry Booth settlement house. Mrs. George L. Dillard, Mrs. John C. Slade, Mrs. Harry C. Barlow, Mrs. John H. Gilbert, and Mrs. William S. Ennis are giving dinners before the debate. Dr. Horace J. Bridges will take the negative side of the question and Clarence Darrow will maintain the affirmative.

Residents of Highland Park are giving themselves a good time and at the same time helping the Highland Park branch of the Infant Welfare society by giving a ball Saturday evening at the Moraine hotel. "With Exmoor closed this winter and the Highland Park club out of existence, we felt the need of an excuse to be gay, as well as to add to the funds of our worthy work," writes Mrs. Bernard S. Newman, president of the society. Mrs. Lenora Hoyne Anderson is in charge of the sale of tickets.

Mrs. McCormick Makes Date at Housewarming.

A reception given yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick and her daughter, Miss Helen McCormick, at the Miss McCormick's formal presentation to Chicago society and also a housewarming in their new residence on the Astor street. The apartment is a beautiful one, of course, and the guest was very much interested in seeing it.

Miss "Patty" McCormick wore pale blue chiffon and her mother wore gray crepe de Chine a shade darker than her daughter's dress. Miss Helen McCormick, who was a debutante two years ago, received with her mother and sister and she wore white chiffon. Assisting were Miss Anne Roe, Miss Louise Clarke, Miss Jane Campbell, Miss Margaret Dixon, Miss Paula Uhlein, Miss Ann Christine, Miss Alice May Dickinson, Miss Polly Perry, and Miss Jane Evans.

Miss Prentice Porter, who is at the Blackstone for several weeks, returned from a trip abroad. She formerly lived in Chicago but resides in Manchester, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Martin of 210 East Delaware place will spend Christmas with Mrs. Martin's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gratiot, in St. Louis.

Miss Mary Porter is spending the holidays with her father, Henry H. Porter of 1520 State parkway.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Loves of Riverside will entertain as their guests for the holidays their daughter, Mrs. H. B. Keeler, of Chicago, and her three eldest children, Mrs. Love of New York, and Mrs. Love will join the family for Christmas.

Miss Eleanor Litsinger, daughter of Mrs. Robert R. Litsingers, will arrive tomorrow from the French school in New York.

Mrs. E. M. Biddle Plans Trip to Alaskan Interior

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 15.—(AP)—How long her money will last was the only worry for Mrs. Edward M. Biddle, society woman and wife of one of Philadelphia's wealthiest men, as she sailed today for Alaska on the steamship Admiral Evans. A six months' trip through the frozen interior as far as the Arctic circle, accompanied only by an Irish dog driver, Mike Cooney, and behind a team of 25 Siberian dogs, is her program. Mrs. Biddle said she refused money from her husband and is making the trip on borrowed funds, but she hopes to write a book, about the lives of white women of the far north, to pay expenses.

Pola Negri Ill After Her Favorite Bouillabaisse

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Pola Negri, vamp of the silent films, who recently returned to Hollywood from Paris to make a comeback in the talkies, was suffering from ptomaine poisoning, due to bouillabaisse, a French dish, today, at her cottage. Friends said the illness was not serious. She is expected to recover sufficiently by the end of the week to leave for New York. Denial was made that there was any romance involving John Loder, English actor. He said he is married and Miss Negri merely an old friend.

Food Talk

Many women feel apologetic when they serve any kind but fresh fruit for breakfast. It's all very well to pride yourself on such a point in the summer when fresh fruit is plentiful and low in price, but along toward Christmas time it becomes something of an extravagance. There is no longer the warm weather selection, even with our wonderful modern refrigerator cars and improved ways of packing. But there are, on your grocer's shelves, tinned, dried, preserved, and packaged fruits that are able to hold their own with fresh fruits.

As a matter of fact, some of these fruits are far on their way to becoming more popular prepared than fresh. An example of this sort of thing is the fig. It is, to say the least, an undependable fellow when we buy it fresh in this part of the country. The preserved figs, on the other hand, are uniformly good and less expensive by far than the fresh. Canned grapefruit and grapefruit juice are other commodities that are becoming familiar to us here. The canned sections do away with that tedious peeling and skinning process we used to go through, and the juice in tins brings us something that used to be exorbitant.

Canned apple sauce saves a great deal of bother. It is nice served with a sprinkling of powdered sugar and cinnamon to which a little allspice has been added.

A bit of exploring on your part will convince you that you are not limited to the standard fresh citrus fruits, even though they are the first thing that meets the eye or the produce counter. Shop around a little and you'll lose that inevitable fresh fruit complex that's so discouraging to the budget!

¾ tsp. granulated gelatin soaked in 2 tbsp. cold water
1 tsp. vanilla
½ dozen sponge cake fingers

Scald the milk in double boiler. Soak ½ teaspoon gelatin in water 5 minutes and add to milk. Stir till dissolved, then chill to under 50 Fahrenheit to whip. Melt the chocolate, add the hot water, milk, sugar and ¾ tablespoon gelatin soaked in water 5 minutes. Beat till thoroughly mixed, then cool and add the vanilla. When the second mixture begins to thicken beat the first until stiff and combine the two. Split the sponge fingers and line a mold with them. Pour the cream mixture over them and chill until firm.

Charity Ball to Have Scene of "Traviata"

THE dancers at the charity ball Friday night will dance in the garden in which Violetta and her lover wandered in "La Traviata" when that opera was given in the old Auditorium. For the garden setting for that opera is being used as the background for the stage at the ball. The rest of the theater is being transformed into a part of the garden with hedges and arches and trellises of green.

Awnings shutting from view the organ pipes at each side of the stage will cover the two orchestras, Paul Whiteman's and Ted Weems', which will alternate in providing the music. Paul Whiteman's entire galaxy of stars, the male chorus from "Marching By," and dancers from the Maurice Abbott School of Dancers will give a "show."

As has been published before, Mrs. Potter Palmer and Gov. Emmerson will lead the grand march, which will start at 11 o'clock, and when the march divides the left wing will be led by Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson and Mayor Cermak. Gov. and Mrs. Emmerson, Mayor Cermak, Admiral and Mrs. Crossley, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Bolles have been invited to occupy the distinguished guests' box. Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, publicity director, has asked us to stress the fact that tickets are on sale to the public at $10 in all the downtown hotels, theaters, and clubs.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter had completed her plans for the decorations before she died suddenly. So no one was asked to fill her place on the committee and the theater will look on Friday night just as she had wanted it to look. Apropos of the loss felt by the art and social worlds because of Mrs. Carpenter's death, there have been many tributes written. The New York Times recently printed a letter from Mary Hoyt Wiborg. The letter ended: "Had she been more selfish as a painter, developing her own talents, Rue Carpenter could have stood alone today as one of the best women artists in America.

"Because of her wideness of vision and perhaps overgenerosity to others, in her quick sympathy and support, every painter with new aims and ambitions for which he seeks recognition in this country has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of a patron of the arts such as Rue Carpenter."

LIVING CHRISTMAS TREES.

Suburban adornment during the holiday seasons has found a fashionable outlet in the increasing customs of lighting Christmas trees growing in front yards of homes, according to salesmen of lighting equipment. Each year there is a greater number of families which share the holiday spirit with neighbors, communities and persons on foot and in cars.

Spruces, firs, pines and cedars are the evergreens popular for outdoor plantings in the Chicago region. Those who adopt the idea shortly before a given holiday period can purchase the trees with a proper size ball of earth packed in a box, and then the trees may be set out later.

Beverly Hills, Blue Island, Oak Park, Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, Evanston, Winnetka, Hubbard Woods and Highland Park are among the suburbs which draw thousands of visitors between Christmas time and New Years to witness the glow of the colored lights on the fragrant and living evergreens. In Oak Park and Glen Ellyn the custom has become so universal that sectional and grand prizes are awarded each year for the most attractive decorations.

Good forestry principles, although not always practiced, provide five to ten million trees for cutting each year in the United States for Christmas decoration in homes, according to the United States department of agriculture. The fir is the most popular because of its long, springy branches with the deep green, fragrant needles. Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota forests furnish the middle west with its major supply each year.

Four Chicago Artists Unite to Give Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THERE is an interesting exhibit of paintings by four Chicago artists current at the Midland club. Each man was allowed five canvases and the distribution of the pictures gives a gay and animated atmosphere to the lounge in which they hang. C. Curry Bohm, Oscar B. Erickson, J. Jeffery Grant, and Othmar Hoffler are the men represented. All of them are members of the Palette and Chisel club, and Mr. Grant and Mr. Hoffler belong also to the Chicago Galleries' association.

Curry Bohm has been spending a great deal of time in the region of the Smoky mountains in North Carolina. It is only natural, then, that his landscapes should be flavored with the beauty of that countryside. Probably the most impressive and animated of these is "Smoky Mountain," though there is beauty in all of them and a subtle, quiet charm in the other four.

Mr. Erickson has gone to Brown county, Indiana, for his inspiration. He paints in a friendly fashion, with no pretension and no frills. His "Autumn Begins" is one of the finest landscapes that have yet come from his brush. "Across the Valley" is a painting with a great deal of quiet charm.

Mr. Hoffler has become well known as a portrait painter of children, with pastel as his medium. In this exhibit we find him doing some superb things in oil. One of the most delightful canvases you will find in a long day's search is his "Princess and the Fawn," a fairy idyll told with such sensitive delicacy that the wood where the child walks seems alive with fairy voices and the fawn is a symbol of all innocence and purity. His "Mimi" was awarded the Palette and Chisel club gold medal last year. The Brittainy paintings are well handled, warm in color and fine in texture.

Mr. Grant has two colorful compositions in his "Antiques" and "A Scotch Interior," this last formal and fine. His "Plowing" is appealing because he has kept it simple. It is one of the most effective pictures in the show. His other two canvases deal with the water, one of his favorite subjects, and are vigorously and robustly decorative.

The exhibit will continue through the month.

Works of Two Dead Authors Are New Books

brisk air—the complete confounding of the police by an amateur detective who blandly points out that the murder was in matter of fact a suicide.

There is a grim moment in a great hotel when one of the guests, a playwright, whose last play has been not of the greatest success, commits a very lifelike [or perhaps one should say deathlike] suicide. But the reader soon finds that it was all in fun—the young man was just about his business of gathering material, at first hand.

The title story is about a husband who gave himself a good case of the flu to keep from traveling with his wife and his infant child and an accidental cat burglar, and what happened in the family at that crisis.

Froth, and I should say, not too important even as froth, most of the stories in "The Night Visitor" are!

"Rivers of Damascus" contains eleven stories, all with Donn Byrne's well known "punch." He was an amateur prize fighter, you remember, of the highest rank, and although his best known book "Messer Marco Polo" had no irony or drive and was sheer lilting Irish loveliness; most of Donn Byrnes short stories were ironic and hard-fisted. The stories in "Rivers of Damascus" are, for the most part, not about Irishmen, although there are two or three which have the background that Donn Byrne made so peculiarly his own. There is a short [and not very good] story of the old custom of "The Bride's Play." "Fosterage" is Irish. "The Colleen Rue" is the story of a New York policeman who married an Irish beauty and adored her so that she became to him a sort of goddess to whom he must make more and more lavish votive offerings. When his savings gave out he began to take graft. And then he discovered that he was suspected, and went home to blow out his brains. His wife for the first time in their lives was really happy, because at last she could do something for him to show her love, not just accept his.

There is a story called "The Thing Called Gratitude" which tells about a convict who was taken as valet by a 'gangster,' and how he repaid his benefactor's kindness to him by killing him—to save him from disgrace.

Almost every one of the stories has a grim turn like that—they are Donn Byrne in his pugilistic mood rather than his dreamy Irish one. His wife has written in a foreward that in the dedication to "Changeling" Donn Byrne wrote: "I would as little think of sending a story friendless into the world as I would of sending a child, a horse, or a dog," and sadly adds: "But when a man start hurriedly on the longest road of all, his child and his horse and dog have to look to others . . . Maybe they'll find kindness, maybe they won't . . . Somehow I feel these stories will find friends and a welcome . . ."

Midwinter Hat Is High on One Side

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The Empress Eugenie hat is no longer the darling of the smart Parisiennes. This type of hat has been supplanted by another newer shape that rises high on one side of the head, leaving most of that side bare, and that descends to an extremely low level on the other side.

Examples are shown in the accompanying sketches. Where the hat is highest it is there that Paris likes to place the trimming, and if that trimming is a quill or two, these quills are placed so that the height of the hat is further accentuated.

The Paisu hat at the bottom of our sketch gives you the exact idea. It is made of navy blue felt with a brim that is tipped way down on the right side, and hoisted high on the left side. At the left side, on the highest peak, a polka dotted quill is placed, slanting upward and skyward, and a second quill is placed in a lazy horizontal position, pointing toward the back.

Above are two views of the newest toque in Paris, a toque that is smart to wear with the fur coat having a big collar. This hat is shaped like a boat, and is made of black velvet. It is worn so that almost the entire left side of the head is exposed, and to give greater height to this side a row of balls made of black ostrich is mounted on top of the hat.

These ostrich balls also border the right side of the hat. A silver rose is placed at the front of this hat, and a bow of black velvet ribbon at the back.

TRIBUNE HOLDS SKI MEET JAN. 3 AT RIIS PARK

Boys to Compete in Four Divisions.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The second annual boys' ski tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and the commissioners of the northwest park district will be held Sunday, Jan. 3, at Riis park, Fullerton and Mead avenues.

For years THE TRIBUNE has promoted sports events calculated to improve the health of the contestants and create friendly rivalry. Last year, for the first time, a ski tournament was added to the list of promotions. The meet was an unqualified success, both from the standpoint of interest of boys competing and the thousands who gathered to watch them. Thirty thousand saw the tournament last January at Riis park.

Aids Other Successes.

The ski meet is a splendid addition to the list of TRIBUNE promotionals, which now includes Silver Skates Derby, Golden Gloves boxing contests, a cycling meet, sports congress, and other best competition.

In consideration of the entry list last year, it was decided to divide the contestants into four divisions. The divisions follow:

Class A, 18 years of age and under.
Class B, 14 and 15 years of age.
Class C, 12 and 13 years of age.
Class D, 10 and 11 years of age.

The entry blank is printed today and will be published daily until Dec. 30, when entries will close. Clip the blank, print name and club (if any) and age, specifying age. Each contestant must be certain to include his age so that entry may be filed properly.

Three awards will be made in each class or division. Gold medals are first prizes. Silver medals will be given to the runners-up, while the boy finishing third will receive bronze medals. Winners will be decided by a committee of competent judges who have served in that capacity previously at major ski events in Chicago territory. The prizes will be won by the boys who not only have the best jumps but who exhibit the best form.

Medal for Longest Jumper.

In addition, a gold medal will be awarded to the boy who makes the longest jump without falling, regardless of form.

A trophy will be the prize for the club scoring the most points in the meet. First places in each age division will count five points, second place three points, and third place one point.

Ernst Kalteux and Oscar C. Johnson, commissioners of the Northwest park district, who have charge of the recreation program for the district, are cooperating with THE TRIBUNE in arranging for the ski tournament. Joseph P. Gubbins, president of the park district, and other commissioners or officials also have promised their assistance.

Skiing is a coming sport in Chicago. Interest last year did much to develop this outdoor activity among the youth of Chicagoland. A record entry list, of whom more than half reported for the competition, attests the fact.

The meet is designed to furnish recreation for boys who can not indulge on the long Norge slide at Silver Grove, at the Ogden Dunes club, or in the forest preserves.

Those best entries will be received, so fill in the entry blank and mail it immediately to the Ski Editor, sports department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Broaillard and Joe Gans Fight Draw

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Lou Broaillard of Worcester, Mass., welterweight champion, fought a draw with Baby Joe Gans, California Negro, in a ten round non-title bout here tonight.

SECOND ANNUAL TRIBUNE SKI MEET

Riis Park, Jan. 3

Boys 18 years of age and under are eligible. There will be four divisions: Under 10; 11 and 12; 13 and 14; 15 and 16. Entry to Ski editor, sports department, Chicago Tribune. Entries close at midnight, Dec. 30. Watch THE TRIBUNE and the Northwest Park district for announcements in case of interference.

TALKING IT OVER.

BY ARCH WARD.

If you can believe the newspapers, and every once in a while I find they are dependable, Chick Meehan resigned as coach at New York university because his salary of $18,000 was out of keeping with the amateur spirit of intercollegiate football.

Burt Ingwersen, who received only about one-third that amount, retired as gridiron leader at Iowa presumably because of alumni criticism, but I am beginning to suspect that they feared he too was being overpaid.

I don't know what all this proves except the obvious fact that coaching is the most precarious of all professions. If you succeed in winning 90 per cent of your games you are subjected to attacks from all sides about overemphasis and proselyting. If you win only 10 per cent of your games you are fired for failure to maintain enough interest in your team to produce anticipated revenue.

There have been plenty of examples of late in support of the observation that football schedules are arranged at most universities with an eye toward enticing the piquant greenback. It seems only reasonable that men who coach college football should be practical enough to demand fair compensation for their part in these monetary spectacles. Certainly when a school decides to commercialize the game there should be no objection if its representatives, catching the spirit of the policy, commercialize themselves.

As a group, football coaches are underpaid. At most of the Big Ten schools the coach's salary runs from $6,000 to $8,000. Receipts from football at these same schools range from $150,000 to $500,000. A man conducting a business with a volume of say $300,000 certainly would expect more than $8,000 return in a normal year.

Few individuals in a university and none in the athletic department have the responsibility of a football coach. The success or failure of his season affects the entire athletic structure, for his sport must finance all the other athletic activities conducted by the school.

Seldom have so many teams lined up at the Western conference basketball barrier with such fine prospects of getting somewhere in the fastest competition the sport provides. Not since Mahatma Gandhi last wore a dinner coat has there been indication of such a heated title drive.

Northwestern, which last year won the championship, with 11 victories and one defeat, will encounter plenty of opposition from Purdue, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Ohio State, where title hopes are running strong. The Wildcats will meet five of these six teams, Illinois being the exception.

Illinois, which last year won seven straight games to end its season, has all its old players back except Harper. The Kamp brothers will be the mainstays. Neither Michigan nor Purdue lost a man from last season's regular lineup. The Wolverines have a strong scoring combination in Daniels, center, and Weiss and Eveland, forwards. Purdue is led by Johnny Wooden, one of the finest floor guards the Boilermakers have had in years.

Indiana's victory over Notre Dame is an indication of what you can expect from the Hoosiers. This game also served to introduce Indiana's sophomore star, Suddith, who was a prep performer of note at Martinsville, Ind., two years ago.

Wisconsin, never weak and always interesting, has added strong sophomore talent to veterans like Nelson and Poser.

Mexican Woman Rifle Shooter 2d to General

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Señora Esperanza E. De Orozco is the second best rifle shot in the federal district of Mexico, and may place on the Olympic team now being chosen. Gen. Gustavo Salinas turned in top score of 1,914 out of 2,000, while Señora De Orozco scored 1,883. Señorita Eugenia Escudero placed fifth with 1,522, having missed one day's shooting which might have given her the lead.

North Central Defeats Armour Quintet, 27-22

North Central college defeated Armour Tech last night, 27 to 22, at Naperville. The score at the half was 13 to 17 in favor of North Central. Christoph of Armour was high scorer with 9 points.

BRUINS, RANGERS SCORE TWICE IN FIRST; THAT'S ALL

Toronto, Americans Come to Same Conclusion.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The New York Rangers failed to break the Bruin jinx tonight when the two teams battled into an overtime period to gain a 2 to 2 tie.

Although the scoring was done in the first period, much of the excitement came in the second period after Eddie Shore, Bruins' defense man, had left the ice on a penalty. The Rangers bombarded the Bruin goal, but failed to break the tie. During the period Tiny Thompson, Bruin goalie, had 16 stops to his credit and the Boston defense men stopped as many more attacks before they reached Thompson.

Welland started the night's scoring early in the first period when he drove one in on a combination pass from Shore and Clapper. Barry scored soon afterward when he dashed down the rink alone and slashed the disc past Roach. The Rangers were not long in overcoming the lead, as Boucher and Bill Cook dashed down the ice and Bill scored. Murdoch and Somers cooperated to bring the tying score. Lineup and summary:

AMERICANS, 2; TORONTO, 2.

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans battled through seventy minutes of hard hockey, punctuated by a free-for-all fight in the penalty box, to a 2-2 tie tonight. The draw put the Leafs in a tie with the idle Montreal Canadiens for second place in the Canadian division of the National Hockey league.

The penalty box battle started in the second period, when Red Horner of Toronto, charged George Conacher, American wingman, and got a crack with a stick in return. They began to fight in the "cooler" and when fans tried to separate them Horner included the peace-makers among the objects of his wrath. Horner drew a ten minute penalty and Patterson was given a major for slashing.

The Americans got off to an early lead when Patterson scored on a long shot soon after the game started and Normie Himes backhanded in a short one just before the end of the first period. Alex Levinsky scored Toronto's first counter on a solo dash down the left alley and George Conacher tied the count in the third period, with a long drive. Lineup and Summary:

Navy Approves Proselyting; Alumni to Canvas Preps

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Navy today replaced in the hands of the men who guided its 1931 football destinies the problem of next season's campaign and gave tacit approval to proselyting prep school grid stars to aid them.

The entire coaching staff, headed by Edgar E. [Rip] Miller, was reappointed, according to an announcement by Capt. John D. Wilcox, director of athletics. The same announcement contained approval of the proselyting plan which was proposed by the Naval Academy Graduates' association.

Miller retained as his chief assistants Christy Flanagan, back field coach, and Johnny O'Brien, end coach. All three are former Notre Dame stars.

Center Coach Gone.

Ensign Whitey Hughes, center coach, is the only member of the staff who will not return, having been ordered to active service with the fleet. No successor was named.

Intensive effort to improve the material available from the ranks of midshipmen will be started at once, according to the plan of the Graduates' association, adopted at a dinner in New York just before the Army-Navy clash Saturday.

The association plans to have its scouts look over football players at preparatory schools and then seek to have promising boys matriculate at the academy. After their appointment by congressmen, the prospects would have to stand entrance examinations and keep up their studies just as any other student.

Capt. Wilcox cast favor on the idea today, and said that players of an average weight 15 pounds heavier than the present run of material should be sought.

Await Army's Schedule.

The academy in its statement of reappointment, expressed itself well satisfied with the results obtained in the first year of the Miller-Flanagan-O'Brien combine. It installed the Notre Dame system to supplant the Warner style as taught by William A. [Bill] Ingram in his five years as head coach at the academy. Ingram now is at California.

The 1931 team started slowly and came on late in the season to beat Penn and make a gallant losing stand against the Army. It lost to Ohio State, Southern Methodist, Notre Dame, and Maryland; beat Penn, Princeton, William and Mary, Delaware, and Wooster, and tied West Virginia Wesleyan.

A schedule including Penn, Princeton, Columbia, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, and others, is being constructed for next season, and it is considered probable that the Army will have a definite place on the schedule. The Penn game, usually the final battle for the sailors, has been moved up a week, leaving the date clear for the soldiers to be scheduled.

Badger Solons Quiz Frank on Finance Today

Madison, Wis., Dec. 15.—(AP)—President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin today was requested to be the first witness in the legislative investigation of the university athletic department.

The legislative committee, composed of two senators and three assemblymen, held an organization meeting today and announced that it would begin taking testimony from President Frank in a secret session tomorrow.

Finances Primary Aim.

When asked whether the committee would inquire into the resignation of George Little, director of athletics, Assemblyman Frederick Kres, secretary of the committee, pointed out that the resolution calling for an investigation was concerned primarily with athletic department finances.

Senator Walter Rush, chairman, said:

"President Frank has in mind a complete program for reorganization of the department as suggested by the athletic council, I believe. We will determine the immediate trend of the investigation after questioning him."

One of the recommendations made by the athletic council was that the administrative and coaching staffs be reduced "to the minimum consistent with efficiency," while another called for a salary schedule "in terms of the salary scale of the university as a whole with due regard to unavoidable Big Ten relationships."

Coach Denies Resignation.

The cause behind Mr. Little's resignation, as yet only a matter of conjecture, is expected to be brought into the open by the investigating committee. The resignation is generally attributed to the conflict between the alumni members of the athletic council and the athletic director over the status of Head Football Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite.

The athletic director last year fought for the retention of Coach Thistlethwaite, but this year was reported to have asked for the latter's resignation. Coach Thistlethwaite yesterday said he had not submitted his resignation and did not intend to do so.

Meanwhile, the assembly awaited the completion of the investigation before acting on a resolution introduced last night. The resolution asks Director Little to reconsider his resignation and requests that the board of regents refuse to accept it.

Hal Chase, Former Baseball Star, Is Hurt in Crash

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Hal Chase, former major league baseball star, was injured in an automobile accident that took the life of H. Gordon of Houston, Tex., near here last night.

Gordon was crushed between a parked automobile belonging to H. R. Heath of Tucson and a machine driven by O. K. Anderson, Tucson.

Chase, who was accompanying Heath, was standing in front of the automobile and was knocked down, his legs being cut and bruised when Anderson's automobile smashed into the rear of the parked car. Heath and Chase were repairing a tire and Gordon stopped to aid them. Anderson said he was blinded by the lights of Gordon's machine.

PLA-MORS BEAT BUFFALO HOCKEY SEXTET, 1 TO 0

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Kansas City Pla-Mors launched a fast attack to beat the Buffalo Majors, 1 to 0, in an American Hockey league game tonight.

The Pla-Mors scored as the final period opened, and as the session closed the Majors threw defense to the winds and rushed in a five man forward line, withdrew the goalie, and one defense man took his position.

The Kansas City score came when Campbell picked up a pass from McKinnon, skated past the cage, and drove the puck past Stark. The Majors had several chances to score in the second and first periods when Kansas City had men off the ice, but failure to follow up shots stopped them.

GOVERNOR PICKS GROUP TO ADVISE ONCONSERVATION

Otto Hassel of Chicago Is Named Chairman.

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois now has a staff of conservation advisers as the result of action taken yesterday by Gov. Emmerson. According to an Associated Press dispatch from Springfield five well known sportsmen have been appointed advisers to the Illinois department of conservation, of which Ralph B. Bradford is the head.

Those named by the governor are Otto Hassel, Chicago business man and sportsman; W. R. James, president of the west park board, Chicago; Josiah Treharne, president of the Illinois division of the Izaak Walton league; Ben C. Overman, former director of the Izaak Walton league, and William C. Duncan, Alton manufacturer. Mr. Hassel was named chairman of the group.

Northern Illinois Sportsmen.

At least four of the five advisers are well known to northern Illinois sportsmen. Mr. Hassel is one of Chicago's most ardent duck hunters and owns an extensive shooting preserve on the Sangamon river. Mr. James, active in the Lincoln Park Trapshooting club, and an expert wing shot, was one of the leaders in the recent fight to give Illinois the month of November for duck hunting.

Josiah Treharne of Joliet is known to thousands of sportsmen throughout the state because of his work as head of the Izaak Walton league and more recently for his leadership in the campaign to abolish the open season on hen pheasants.

Advise Conservation Board.

Ben C. Overman is one of the state's most interested students of conservation problems and is conversant with the quail situation down state. Mr. Duncan is one of the leading sportsmen in the southern part of the state.

Although no information is available regarding the duties of this board of advisers, it is presumed that the members will counsel the department of conservation regarding policies and a program to give the 340,000 Illinois hunters and many more thousands of fishermen in the state enough fish and game to provide better sport.

IOWA STATE WHIPS BRIGHAM YOUNG, 47 TO 26

Ames, Ia., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Iowa State college quintet won its first game of the season by defeating Brigham Young university, 47 to 26, in an intersectional contest in the state gymnasium tonight. Iowa State took the lead early in the first period and lost it to the visitors only once, by one point. Recovering it before a quarter of the game was up, the Cyclones held the advantage throughout the remainder of the contest.

Monmouth Conquers Iowa Wesleyan, 31-15

Monmouth, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Leading from the start, Monmouth college's basketball team swamped Iowa Wesleyan, 31 to 15, tonight. Monmouth had a 12 to 2 margin at the half and steadily increased it after quelling a brief Wesleyan rally at the start of the second period. Monmouth controlled the ball most of the way, using a delayed offensive.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

COLLEGE LETTER BOX.

EAR WAKE: The following records have been checked with the athletic department, University of Michigan, and I would like to see them published as a matter of interest and not with the hope of bringing about any arguments.

During the 24 years' membership of Michigan in the conference it has won or tied for the conference football title 13 times. In 1909 and 1910, when not in the conference, Michigan beat Minnesota, champion in 1909, and unbeaten in two conference games in 1910.

Michigan has won or tied for the Big Ten championship six times in the last ten years—1922, 1923, 1925, 1926, 1930, 1931. The last three ties were with Northwestern, and with Purdue sharing in 1931.

Michigan has defeated each Big Ten eleven more times than any team has defeated the Wolverines, making Michigan undisputed all time conference champion.

Harve: Purdue alumni are in jubilant mood because of Purdue's recent rise in football. During the last five seasons the Gold and Black has won 34 games, lost 7 and tied 1. Total points, Purdue, 342; opponents, 202.

In the conference, Purdue has won 18, lost 7, and tied 1. Total points, Purdue, 418; opponents, 149.

HTW: Why should my alma mater, Chicago, be left out of these football arguments? Didn't we win seven conference games in 1905, which is a record for a regular season. In 1905-1909, five seasons, we won 23 and lost only 2 games. Of course, that's a little far back, but in the last four seasons we lost only 17 and won 2, unless we get a half game for that charity merry-go-round on Thanksgiving day at Stagg field. Moreover, I want you to understand, sir, that we're an educational institution.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—A Purdue basketball team that seldom missed a shot smothered Notre Dame's hope for revenge for four previous defeats at the hands of the Boilermakers here tonight before a crowd of 5,000. The score was 32 to 24.

JOHNNY WOODEN.

Purdue led at the half, 13 to 7. A Notre Dame rally in the second half brought the Irish within six points of Purdue at 28 to 22, but the Boilermakers put on steam and won going away.

Harry Keller and Johnny Wooden, Purdue co-captains, were held to one field goal apiece, but the Irish didn't reckon with the other three veterans from Lafayette. Charlie Stewart, center, dropped in four field goals; Ray Eddy, forward, and Ralph Parmenter, guard, made three each.

Bill Newbold, Notre Dame forward, sank four field goals and two free throws. Johnny Baldwin, Notre Dame guard, was released from the infirmary this afternoon to play, but a bad cold forced his retirement at the end of the first half. Boxes:

BADGERS, 30; PITT, 29

Madison, Wis., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The Pittsburgh Panthers' invasion of the Big Ten conference was given an unexpected jolt here tonight by Wisconsin, 30 to 29. Capt. Marvin Steen supplied the winning point with a basket from far out on the side of the court in the last 10 seconds.

Wisconsin, in turning back the Panthers, staved off two sensational rallies and came within an inch of dropping the battle. Pitt, after being held to three points in the first 15 minutes of the second half, suddenly came to life and, with baskets by Wrobleski and Lawry, forced the game into a tie.

Wisconsin, starting with a rush, led early in the first period, but Pitt staged a rally in the final minutes and left the floor at the intermission leading, 17 to 15.

Soon after the second half opened the Badgers gained a 21 to 19 advantage. From that point, the Badgers continued to control the ball and increased their margin. Pitt then lost McCommens on fouls, but Wrobleski entered the game and shot a pair of baskets that tied the score.

Wisconsin immediately took the tip-off and Steen dribbling to the side, dropped in a basket that won. The Badgers dashed from the floor after the basket believing the game was over, but were called back, penalized with a technical foul which the Pitt ace, Lawry, completed to bring the score to 30 to 29. The Badgers took the tipoff as the gun ended the game. Lineup:

King of England Shoots Pheasants with Dukes

(Copyright, 1931, by the New York Times.)

KING CHEROKEE GALLOPS TO WIN AT NEW ORLEANS

Deemster Is Second, 4 Lengths Back.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Favored by the break at the barrier and by the general racing luck, F. Perry's King Cherokee galloped to an easy victory in the six furlong dash which was the feature on the card at Jefferson Park today. He finished four lengths in front of Mrs. Charles Gregory's Deemster while C. V. Whitney's Crazy Coot was third, five lengths farther back in a field of seven starters.

This was all to the dismay of the form players, who had installed Mrs. W. R. Padgett's Prometheus a 7 to 10 favorite for the race and saw him finish fourth after a series of mishaps that began at the start of the race.

Two Horses Collide.

For three furlongs King Cherokee raced close to Black Patricia, at which point the filly weakened badly and King Cherokee went to the front and held command for the balance of the journey. Deemster, which never had been far off the pace, began to close in in the stretch and at the same time Prometheus moved up with a fine show of courage after his early mishap. But just as the favorite was getting into his stride, Deemster came beside him and, colliding, nearly knocked him into the fence, throwing him out of stride and out of contention. Deemster went on to gain the place while Crazy Coot, which had not been a serious factor in the race, moved into third place, a length in front of Prometheus.

Elston Rides Two Winners.

Jockey George Elston, who was something of a sensation in the racing in the north, got away to a running start by riding the winners of the first two races. The first was a one mile test for 2 year olds, in which he got home in front with Beauty Secret.

Elston came back in the second to pilot home Banal Girl, four lengths before Yarrow, with Shasta Lover third, the winner paying $37.60 in the mutuels.

BOWMAN QUITS AGUA CALIENTE MANAGERSHIP

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Dec. 15.—Lyle G. Bowman, president and general manager of the Agua Caliente company, promoter of this resort, resigned his managership today. A. V. Aldrete, Lower California business man, was appointed general manager.

The announcement of the change was made by Baron Long, San Diego hotel man, who, with Bowman and James N. Crofton, established the hotel, casino, and race track here several years ago. No reason was announced.

Crofton said Bowman would continue as president at least until Jan. 26, when his term expires.

Phils Release Rensa; Buy Hargrove from San Antonio

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Release of Catcher George Rensa to the Rochester club of the International league and signing of Pitcher William Hargrove of San Antonio, Tex., were announced tonight by Gerry Nugent, business manager of the Philadelphia National league baseball club.

Jefferson Park Race Results

Banal Girl, 107 (Elston)		6.20	4.00
Shasta Lover, 110 (Glenn'ol)			3.80

Beauty Secret was far back in the early running. Finished with a rush. In the last furlong Yarrow passed Kuhlman, who had raced Beauty Pride, but could not hold off the winner. Makandy, dropped back at the start, made a determined effort to overhaul the leaders in the stretch, but was not good enough. Beauty Bride tired in the last furlong after setting the pace.

Time, 1:41. Elsbeary, Golden Archer, Beauty Bride, Dancing Boy, Destiny, Ivy Her, Charlie Hilda, and Annie Laurie ran.

SECOND RACE—Purse $600, claiming, 3 year olds, 6 furlongs:

Banal Girl, alertly ridden, drew out to win well. Yarrow moved into good position in first quarter and held up well. Shasta Lover showed speed after a quarter, but tuned in the final drive. Traumel, Gallonette, and Seminch ran.

Time, 1:15 1-5. Monde, Tarpon, Dick Price, Polly's Folly, Sweet Pea, Brenore's Dream, Traumel, Gallonette, and Seminch ran.

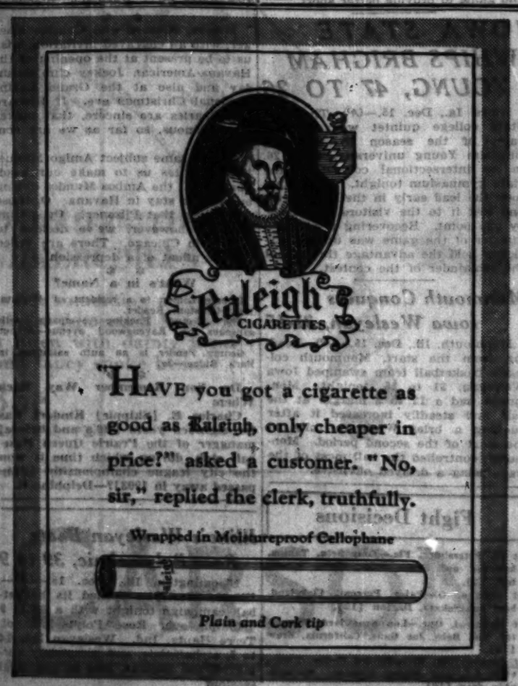
Jack's Sleepers Wake Up in Time to Win, 23 to 21

Michigan City, Ind., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Jack's Sleepers of Gary defeated the Michigan City Blackhawks basketball team here tonight, 23 to 21. The score was tied 14 to 14 at the half.



George Pins Zbyszko in 2 Out of 3 Falls

Wrestling does not seem to catch on with the regulars or any of the other customers who frequent the Chicago Stadium.

Only 1,500 were scattered around the ringside last night when Don George beat Karol Zbyszko in two of three falls.

George, former University of Michigan athlete, had won the first fall with a series of flying tackles in 25 seconds. Then Zbyszko thrilled the slim crowd by taking the second fall with a headlock in 17 minutes and 19 seconds. The third fall went to George when he flattened out "Zby" with a head scissors in 15 minutes and 15 seconds. The crowd didn't think that Zbyszko's shoulders were both down at the same time and hooted the decision of Referee Walter Evans.

The other matches resulted as follows:

Len Macaluso of New York pinned Sailor Arnold of Rutland, Vt., in 17 minutes.

Frank Judson of Boston was given the decision over Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., in 30 minutes.

Count Zarynoff of Russia pinned Jack Wagner of Brooklyn in 16 minutes.

Only a few Stadium officials were present. Most of them were in Washington helping land the Republican convention for Chicago. But the Stadium officials who were on hand indicated that this was probably the last wrestling show the Stadium corporation will promote at its big red and white arena on the west side.

Southern California Beats Missouri, 21-20

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Southern California staved off a spirited last minute attack to defeat the University of Missouri basketball team here tonight, 21 to 20, and win the first game of their midwest invasion. The Californians were ahead most of the game, although their margin was never greater than six points.

Garibaldi Meets Plummer Friday on Fronton Mat

Gino Garibaldi, Italian heavyweight, will make another appearance in Chicago Friday night, when he wrestles at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

Garibaldi, who held Jim McMillen to a draw at the Coliseum last week, is matched with Leo Plummer.

Jim McMillen, former football star, will wrestle in the windup against Frank Bronowicz.

The semi-windup brings together George Zaharias, Colorado Greek, and Mike Romano. Another supporting match is between Jack Washburn at Hollywood and Hans Kampfer.

Two Centers a Problem to Shamrocks

With two veteran centers available when he needs only one, and two American Hockey league clubs ready to grab the one he lets go, Babe Dye of the Shamrocks is taking a moment to stop and think before he acts. The decision lies between Bert Clayton and Ade Johnson and both St. Louis and Buffalo are ready to put a uniform on the man the Shamrock boss decides he can do without.

While both Buffalo and St. Louis have signified their interest in the two centers, Buffalo seems to have the greater need. Manager Dick Carroll of St. Louis already has three great centers in Larry Goyer, Shrimp McPherson, and Red Jackson. Goyer, leading scorer of the American league two years ago, is fast returning to form.

A final workout this afternoon will be held by the Shamrocks in preparation for Chicago's first Saturday night hockey when they battle the Kansas City Pla-Mors at the Stadium this week-end.

Detroit Battles Hawks Tonight on Stadium Ice

Detroit's Falcons make their seasonal debut at the Chicago Stadium tonight to meet the protean Blackhawks in a National Hockey league game. With the appearance of the Falcons every team of the Calder circuit will have appeared in Chicago this season. Detroit has several new faces in Kilrea, Cox, Alex Smith, Connell, and Young. The first four came to Detroit from Ottawa, and Young was obtained from Cleveland, where he was the highest scoring defense player in the International league last year.

Manager Johnnie Adams will put his best foot forward against the Hawks, starting Ebbie Goodfellow at center, Hec Kilrea at left wing and Capt. Shovelshot Cooper at right wing. Laurie Aubie, Herb Lewis, and Danny Cox will be the front line in immediate reserve. Johnny Sorrell, Tommy Fillmore, and Art Gagne, another veteran Falcon line, will have ample opportunity to oppose the Hawks, as Detroit lines are operated at three minute intervals.

Defense duty for the invaders will be handled by Elbows Noble, who has been in the major circuit 18 years, Alex Smith, the only native Englishman in hockey, Whitey McInenley, and Young. Noble and Smith are the best of the quartet, and to them will go most of the important task of upsetting the Hawks' scoring plays.

Since Monday the Blackhawks have been working on their passing and shooting. To date the Hawk forwards have not been able to take advantage of the breaks.

Mush March, Tommy Cook, and Stew Adams will start tonight's game, with Gottselig, Couture, Romnes, Lowery, Ripley, Thompson, and Holmes as reserve forwards. Wentworth, Abel, Graham, and Boucher will be the defense players.

VASSIS GETS HIS CHANCE AGAINST BAKER TOMORROW

BY FRENCH LANE.

The folks who watch the boxing shows in the pit at the White City arena each week are going to find out tomorrow night if Costas Vassis, a sturdy young Greek who has just come to our shores, really is a fighter of merit.

Vassis arrived in Chicago toting what he said was the Greek middleweight championship. Whether that means anything or not doesn't really make much difference, for in his only two fights in this country, both at White City, he has performed quite nobly, winning them, but against rather ordinary competition.

Meets Baker Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night the young Greek will meet Bill Baker, one of the toughest boys the west side has sent into boxing in several seasons. Baker is a stablemate of Tuffy Griffith and has been a pupil of Griffith for many months. Recently he has knocked out such boys as Jud Judkins, Bobby Vernon, Dan Warden, and Chief Elkhart. He's going to be a real barrier for Vassis to hurdle, and if the Greek falls he might as well pack up his tights and make use of his return ticket back to his native country.

"Thousands of Greeks will march on White City to see this battle," the rotund, enthusiastic promoter, Mique Mallos, reported last night. "And don't think for a minute that the west siders will not follow Baker and his manager, West Side Jack O'Keefe, to the scene of the combat.

"A few hundred west siders can make more noise than all the Greeks in Athens," remarked Mr. O'Keefe.

Those Light Heavies!

So many fast heavyweight fighters in our midst tuning up for the second series of the world's championship tournament at the Chicago Stadium Friday night it requires a couple of expert statisticians to count all their flat noses.

Lou Scozza and Harry Fuller, both of Buffalo, arrived yesterday and our statisticians reported that they were No. 10 and No. 11. Only Battling Bozo is missing, and he is to arrive early this morning and will personally be condensed into the loop by Willie Stribling.

Scozza's opponent will be Russ Rowsey of Huntington, W. Va., and Fuller fights Able Bain. Scozza is rated as the better of the two Buffalo battlers, and many are picking him to step on through the ranks and become the new champion of his division.

Heavy financial problems are apparently going to trouble Nate Lewis, matchmaker at the Stadium, right up until the time the holiday season begins.

It's a Matter of Money.

He learned yesterday that he can secure the Tony Canzoneri-Battling Battalino lightweight championship scrap for the Stadium if he is willing to pay enough money for it.

Lewis visions a January program at the Stadium that will find Ernie Schaaf and Willie Stribling headlining one show and Canzoneri and Battalino the topliners in another. But how much money can he dangle before Canzoneri and Battalino to bring them to Chicago?

Scialaba Boxes Tony Muscarello on Friday Card

Nick Scialaba, international Golden Gloves champion, and Tony Muscarello, Central A. A. U. titleholder, meet in the windup of the amateur boxing show Friday at Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenue. Scialaba has defeated every good bantamweight and featherweight in the middle west, but has never met Muscarello. Tony, like Scialaba, is undefeated.

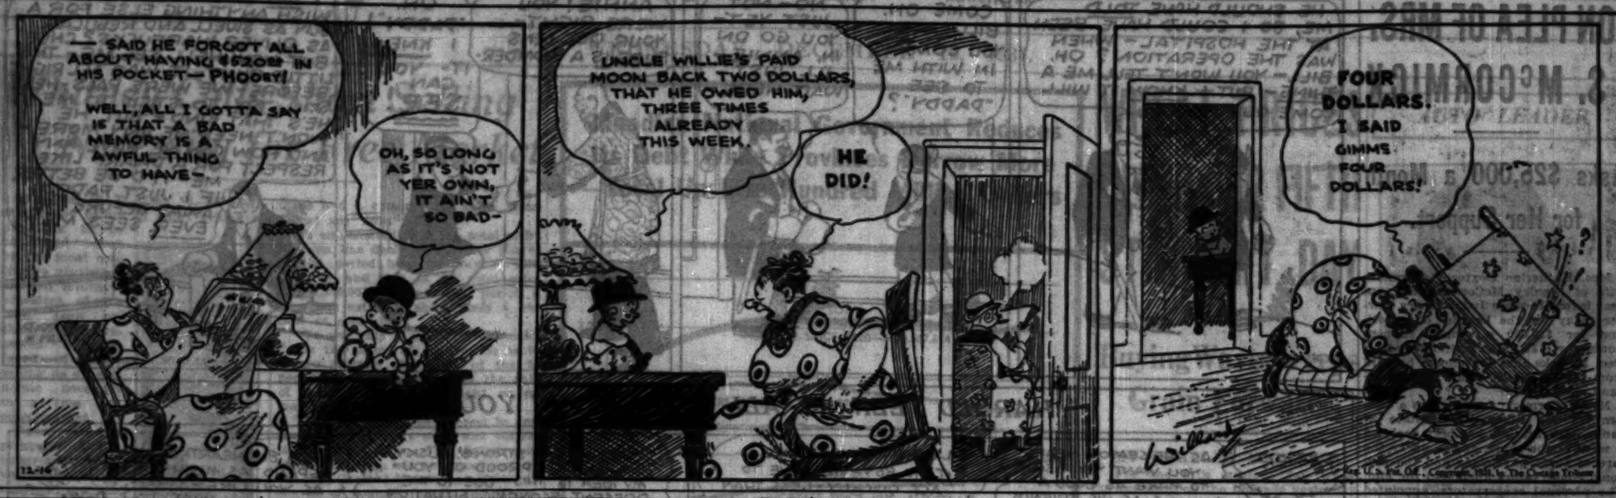
MOON MULLINS—THE COLLECTOR OF INTERNAL REVENUE



Three Kinds of Basketball on Relief Card

Leading exponents of every type of basketball will be seen in action tomorrow night at the Chicago Stadium, when college, high school, and Knights of Columbus players play three games on the benefit program sponsored by the Knights of Columbus league and the Joint Emergency Relief fund of Cook county.

The feature game will bring together Northwestern university and a picked team from the Knights of Columbus league. In the other two contests St. Viator's college will meet De Paul university and St. Mel's, Catholic league prep champion, will battle Crane Tech, City league titleholder.

N. U. Looks to Rieff.

Joe Rieff, leading scorer of the conference last winter, is the man around whom the Northwestern attack is built, although the west sider is given plenty of support by Johnson, Smith, Lockhart, Farber, and Brewer.

The K. of C. team which will oppose the Wildcats will be selected from the ranks of more than 600 players on the 45 teams in the circuit. The league, eligibility rules of which are almost as strict as those of any university in regard to membership, is made up of former college and prep stars.

The exact makeup of the K. of C. squad has not yet been determined, but the choice has narrowed down to fifteen men, selected from the five divisions of the league.

De Paul Meets St. Viator.

The De Paul-St. Viator's contest will display another type of college basketball, in addition to bringing together two traditional foes. The downstaters, coached by Bucky Dahman, former Notre Dame star, are among the leaders in the Little Nineteen. De Paul, under the guidance of Jim Kelly, opened its season last week by defeating Southern California. Last year St. Viator's won both games from St. Paul, the first by 1 point and the second by 2.

The high school game will not be far behind the others in interest. Crane, coached by Sam Litschults, has a star in Bob Gruneig, 6-foot 6-inch center. In his last game he scored twelve baskets. St. Mel's, coached by Paddy Driscoll, has practically the same lineup which won the Catholic league title last year.

STADIUM ADDS CHARITY IDEA TO SCHMELING OFFER

The Chicago Stadium corporation, acting for Gov. Emmerson's unemployment relief fund committee, yesterday wired an offer of $200,000 to Joe Jacobs, manager of Heavyweight Boxing Champion Max Schmeling, for the latter to meet Mickey Walker in a title bout for charity in February or March.

The offer was made by Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, who also proffered a privilege of 40 per cent of the gate receipts.

The bout would be promoted by the Stadium corporation for the relief fund committee. George Getz, millionaire sportsman, a member of the committee and co-promoter with Tex Rickard of the Dempsey-Tunney spectacle in 1927 at Soldiers' field, asked the Stadium corporation to work with him in attempting to bring the bout to Chicago.

Getz left last night for Springfield to discuss ways and means of raising money quickly for unemployment relief, and was expected to ask the Illinois legislature to amend the state boxing law to permit 15 round championship bouts. Should he be successful in this, one serious objection by Schmeling to fighting in Illinois would be eliminated. Schmeling is opposed to defending his title in bouts shorter than 15 rounders.

CRISLER REPEATS DECISION TO STAY AT MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 15.—(AP)—H. O. [Fritz] Crisler announced again today he plans to remain at the University of Minnesota as athletic director.

Repeated reports that he would go to the University of Wisconsin or the University of Chicago caused him to make known his plans again he said.

From Wisconsin, where Athletic Director George Little resigned yesterday, came word Crisler was sought. Then once more officials heard overtures were being made by the University of Chicago. Crisler came from there nearly two years ago. Crisler denied earlier this month he planned to go to Chicago.

Differences had developed here between Crisler and the university administration over athletic department policies and policies. Crisler's announcement today was taken to mean the difficulties had been adjusted, although he refused to comment.

Crisler has been both athletic director and head football coach at Minnesota. He will be succeeded in the latter position by B. W. [Bernie] Bierman, now at Tulane, after Jan. 1.

Bruins, Celtics Open Tonight at Fronton

The Chicago Bruins will meet the New York Celtics tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, in the first game of the professional basketball season. The game will follow a preliminary contest between Franklin-Kelly girls, A. A. U. champions last year, and the Continental Illinois.

The Bruins will be made up of Chicago boys with the exception of Ralph Miller, who is serving as a playing coach. Miller is one of the veterans of the pro game.

Hickey with Celtics.

The New York team is made up of the original Celtics with the exception of Nat Holman. In his place is Nat Hickey, who has completely recovered from an injury sustained last season. Sharing the forward berths with Hickey is Davey Banks, who has been one of the aces of the five for the last few years. Joe Lopchick, who measures 6 feet 5 inches, will perform at center, with Dutch Dehnert and Pete Barry at the guards. Dehnert is the originator of the pivot play in basketball.

Art Bramhall, prep sensation of a few seasons ago, will play one forward for the Bruins with Red Skurnick at the other. Skurnick was formerly with the Cleveland Rosenblums, world champions, for two seasons.

Murphy at Center.

At center, Charley Murphy, formerly of Loyola university, a member of the Bruins last season and ranked among the outstanding centers of the pro league, will perform again. Miller will be supported at guard by Red Barek. The lineup:

Finances 1st, Then Coach, Is Iowa Plan

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Financial problems will take precedence over the hiring of a new head football coach to succeed Burton A. Ingwersen, whose resignation was accepted Saturday, and it is probable that the University of Iowa will be without a 1932 grid director for at least another month, according to members of the athletic board.

Although the board will give some consideration to the coaching situation immediately, the first order of business is to organize the Hawkeyes' 1932-'33 athletic budget. This task will be more complicated than usual because of depleted finances resulting from meager football receipts.

Committees Meet Today.

The committees on staff and finance will hold a joint meeting tomorrow or Thursday for the purpose of estimating next year's expenditures. It is probable that the result of the figuring will be the principal topic for discussion at the next meeting of the board Friday, but it is doubtful whether the budget will be completed at that time.

Before entering into negotiations with possible coaches, board members are agreed they will first decide how much Iowa can afford to pay its next grid coach. Dr. E. H. Lauer, director of athletics, will probably attend the meeting of coaches in New York City, Dec. 29 to 31.

May Need Two Coaches.

He will probably not be authorized to close a deal before the board has considered the situation further. The appointment will be delayed further if Ingwersen accepts another position and decides to take an Iowa assistant coach with him, a situation university officials believe is likely to occur.

GYMNASTIC SHOW TO BE GIVEN BY TURNERS SUNDAY

A gymnastic demonstration will be given by the Vorwaerts Turners' School of Physical Education at their hall, 2421 West Roosevelt road, Sunday in connection with a Christmas festival. The Vorwaerts, one of the oldest gymnastic schools in the city, has developed many champions. Its men and women's gymnastic team recently won highest honors at the National Turner meet in Buffalo, and will be seen in action at this demonstration.

Bennie Allen of Kansas City defeated Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., 125 to 104 in 10 innings. Allen had a high run of 52 and Layton 15.

COLUMBIA GRID PLAYERS ANSWER EDITOR'S ATTACK

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Thirteen members of Columbia university's football team replied today in a letter published by the Spectator, the college newspaper, to attacks that have been made recently by its editor, Reed Harris, upon the present methods of conduct of the game. They agreed that intercollegiate sports are overemphasized; asked how the substitution of intramural games, which calls for a participation of more men, would diminish football deaths and injuries, and accused Harris of seeking to attain "purely selfish ends."

Victory at Any Cost Vanishing, Meehan Claims

Rome, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The college alumnus who desires football victories at any cost is a vanishing power in football, John F. (Chick) Meehan, retiring New York university coach, said here tonight. He indicated he considered this a good thing for the game, characterizing the "victory at any price" alumni as "synthetic" graduates who stood as a barrier between natural rivals and were intolerant when players made mistakes.

Turning to attacks on the game because of injuries and deaths and charges of commercialism, Meehan said "football needs no defense; the defense is always the following season's record."

SOUTH BEND PREP ELEVEN IS NAMED STATE CHAMPIONS

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Central High school today was officially presented with the trophy awarded annually to the winner of the Northern Indiana High School conference football championship. Later in the week it will receive a trophy emblematic of football supremacy throughout the state.

This year marked the first time Central has won either award, although it played Emmerson of Gary to a scoreless tie in the conference championship game of 1924.

Cathedral high of Indianapolis was runner up for the statewide honor. Coached by Joe Dienhart, former Notre Dame guard, Cathedral won nine games, while Central was undefeated in eleven. It beat Horace Mann of Hammond, 19 to 6, in the championship encounter. Its season's record follows:

Shortridge of Indianapolis, 20 to 0; Washington of East Chicago, 27 to 2; Emmerson of Gary, 31 to 0; Laporte, 44 to 0; Michigan City, 38 to 0; Evansville, 38 to 0; Mishawaka, 28 to 7; Riley of South Bend, 12 to 6; Goshen, 39 to 13; Elkhart, 32 to 6, and Horace Mann, 19 to 6.

Griffith and Mastro Will Referee Bouts

Earl Mastro, featherweight contender, and Tuffy Griffith, heavyweight, will referee the Odd Fellows benefit bouts tonight at Ashland auditorium, Van Buren street and Ashland boulevard.

Mastro will officiate in the feather and lightweight matches and Griffith in the heavier classes.

BARRETT SKATING CLUB STRONG IN FRANKLIN DERBY

Team entries are being received by the Franklin Skating club for the Franklin derby, the opening meet of the year, to be held in Humboldt park on Dec. 27. Among the most impressive lists received is that of the Barrett A. C., which has entered three class A men, two class A women, and an intermediate champion in the major events.

Each of the class A men—Art Peters, Ted Keohane, and Art Conroy—has a chance to win in his division and, were it not for the fact that Eddie Murphy, Mill Minster, and Al Kucera are wearing the club's colors in the east, the Barretts would have one of the best balanced class A teams in the Franklin classic. Peters reports complete recovery from a leg ailment which bothered him last season.

Eleanor Thiel and Priscilla Richey are the Barrett's class A feminine representatives. Both should furnish contention to Elisabeth Du Bois and Helen Bina, leading stars on past performances.

Heading the entire team in point of ability for his age is Wilbur Marks, United States and North American intermediate champion, a powerfully built lad who will be heard from in the senior lists when he graduates into that division later in the season.

Other Barrett entries include John Serro, class AA; Steve Osto and Don Wittkamp, class B; Leo Freisinger, Ed Miller, and John Irving, boys under 16; Jimmy Bruder, boys under 14, and Kathlyn Welter, class B girls.

Catholic Youth Lightweight Fives Open Play Tonight

HEARING TODAY ON PLEA OF MRS. S. McCORMICK

Asks $25,000 a Month for Her Support.

Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick, wife of Stanley McCormick will appear before Probate Judge Henry Horner today for the hearing of a petition for $25,000 a month support money for 1932. The petition, filed on Dec. 10, asks that the money be paid from the $40,000,000 estate of her husband.

Mr. McCormick, for 28 years a resident of his Rivan Rock estate at Santa Barbara, Cal., has been declared a ward of the court, and is under the care of three physicians and the personal conservators appointed for him. The personal conservators, appointed by Judge Horner and the Superior court of Santa Barbara county, include Dr. R. Langley Porter, dean of the medical school of the University of California, and Dr. William Ophuls, dean of the medical school of Leland Stanford university, as well as his wife, and his sister and brother.

Condition Gradually Improving.

The staff of resident physicians is headed by Dr. Robert L. Richards and includes Drs. W. W. Boardman and Milton B. Leman. Weekly reports of their patient's progress are forwarded to Judge Horner by Dr. Richards. The latest, received last Friday, indicated that Mr. McCormick's condition was gradually improving.

The method of treatment as explained by Judge Horner consists of efforts to rouse the patient's interest in building improvements upon his estate, in music, and in athletic sports. Pursuant to this all the plans for landscaping, road construction, and building are explained to Mr. McCormick and he is brought into contact with the architects and workmen.

Concerts on Holidays.

On every holiday, it was revealed, an orchestra and a vocal soloist are brought to the estate for concerts. Judge Horner has approved expenditures of $1,500 for an orchestra and vocalist last July 4 and again $850 for a similar concern on last Thanksgiving day.

Because Stone house, Mr. McCormick's present residence, has been condemned as a bad earthquake risk, the court has authorized the expenditure of $85,000 for the construction of a new home to be called Meadow house. A total of approximately $30,000 has been granted by court order for the furnishings.

Agreement Fixes Fees.

The physicians who are stationed at Riven Rock, Judge Horner said, were selected because of their experience. Dr. Richards receives a fee of $30,000 a year. Drs. Boardman and Lemon receive $25 an hour for their treatment. The annual bill does not exceed $15,000 each, according to the court agreement.

The annual report for 1930 recently filed disclosed that the estate, although having shrunk from $60,000,000 to $40,000,000 because of the stock market depression, produced an income of $2,500,000.

Thwart Second Attempt to Wreck Passenger Train

Shemeld, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Authorities today investigated a second attempt within the last month to wreck a Rock Island train near here. A loosened rail was discovered after a slow moving freight train had safely passed.

A month ago a rail was lifted at Langley Station, four miles east of here.

Authorities believe that robbers planned to hold up passengers after wrecking the trains.

JUDGE FREES SON WHO KILLED FOR MOTHER'S HONOR

Declaring that he would have done the same thing himself, Judge Joseph B. David yesterday dismissed a charge of murder against Santiago Rivera, a young Porto Rican, who asserted that the man he killed had criminally assaulted his mother.

Rivera, who is 25 years old, is a translator. He admitted the killing. On Aug. 26, he said, he returned to his home at 1808 West North avenue and found his mother, Mrs. Maria Cardenas Rivera, 50 years old, in tears.

At first, Rivera said, she refused to tell him her trouble, but when he pressed her she told him that Jerry Brosman, janitor of the building where they lived, had found her alone when he came to collect the rent, and had locked the door and attacked her.

Rivera met Brosman on the street the next day, and after a short conversation returned to his home, got a revolver, and killed the janitor. A coroner's jury freed him, but he was indicted later on a charge of murder.

The trial before Judge David was without a jury. Mrs. Rivera, a tiny woman weighing only 80 pounds, substantiated her son's testimony when questioned by Barratt O'Hara, his attorney.

"I would have done the same thing that this boy did, under the circumstances," Judge David said. He wouldn't have been much of a man unless he had done this. I find him not guilty."

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The condition of Winston Churchill, British statesman and author, had so improved today that it was decided to dispense with an official bulletin at Lenox Hill hospital.

At 9 p. m. it was reported Mr. Churchill's temperature was 100.8 and that both his pulse and his respiration were normal. He will, however, be confined to the hospital for eight or ten days.

AYRES TRACES STEPS LEADING TO PROSPERITY

Balanced Budgets Held Essential.

BY O. A. MATHER.

There isn't any royal road back to prosperity. But that happy condition can be attained again if the American people will face facts and use common sense. This, in substance, was the nub of advice given by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, banker and economist, in an address before the Cleveland, O., Chamber of Commerce.

First, Col. Ayres traced the principal causes of the current depression and expressed the opinion that two of the chief factors, decline in commodity prices and contraction of credit, have about run their course. If improvement is to follow he clearly indicated it will be conditioned on the future conduct of the people.

Should Balance Budgets.

"Two principles appear valid as guides in the formation of policies, whether personal or corporate, in war," he said. "The first is that operating budgets should be balanced. This means that income should be raised up and outgo should be pared down, at whatever cost of thought and effort, until the two accounts overlap and leave at least a little margin on the credit side.

"It involves calling a halt to the piling up of debts and making progress in paring them down. This policy is the valid objective for the national government, the state, the municipality, the corporation, the church, the club, and the family. It will not do to think that we can wait until business recovery makes possible the adoption of this policy. The order of events is the other way round.

Prosperity's Return.

"Prosperity will return when millions of individual men and women resolutely grapple with existing conditions and use them as a foundation from which to build for the future. Business recovery cannot be ushered into being by the enactment of some all-inclusive legislation. The volume of employment will increase in proportion as individual business units so reorder their affairs as to enable them to operate at a profit. Business can operate successfully at new and lower price levels when and if it has adjusted its operations to them."

And the American people should dismiss the thought or hope that former losses may be recouped by another period of speculation, Col. Ayres warns.

"The second guiding principle is that in a time of readjustment to lowered price levels hopes for speculative profits should be relegated to very subordinate positions," he said. "This appears alike to hopes for speculative gains in land, in commodities, and in stocks. It is not equally true of bonds.

Speculation Difficult.

"Even in periods of rising commodity prices, stock speculation is the most laborious form of acquisitive enterprise. When general readjustment to lowered commodity price levels is under way, successful speculation is rendered doubly difficult. This country is overequipped with speculative facilities and its people are overimbued with the speculative spirit, both ill adapted to present conditions."

While not making definite predictions for next year, Col. Ayres outlined some hopeful aspects, as well as some adverse ones.

"It seems probable that a year from now industrial production, railroad buildings, and factory employment will be recorded in greater volumes than they are at present," he said. "Gold reports probably will be smaller, money in circulation less, and bank failures fewer in 1932 than this year. Commercial failures probably will be more numerous. Dividend payments are likely to be less, and the cost of living and the average earnings of industrial and railroad employes lower. Long series likely to advance may be included brokers' loans and the production of electric power."

Whitney Calls Short Selling Necessity for Free Market

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Assailing the critics of short selling as unwilling to be convinced even by the most conclusive statistics, Richard Whitney, president of the New York exchange, today renewed his defense of short selling as an economic necessity in a free and open market.

Faced with the prospect of a congressional investigation of the supposed machinations of bear raiders, the exchange's executive head attacked the use of "imaginary statistics" and the attempts to discredit short selling by "indirect and devious ways." He addressed the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Whitney cited statistics to show that not short selling, but liquidation has "smashed prices on the stock exchange," disclosing, for instance, that the 15 stocks with the heavies short interest had the most solid market and the narrowest price fluctuations.

Little Short Interest.

On the other hand, he said, the 15 stocks with the greatest decline in percentage of value have virtually no short interest; and that of the 15 with the greatest dollar decline, only three had a considerable short interest at any time.

He emphasized that the total short position has declined 1,850,000 shares in the period between May 25 and Nov. 30, and that of the total sales of 264,500,000 shares in that period, a generous estimate shows only 5 per cent as sold short.

"To say this 5 per cent," he said, "was the cause of the decline is to ignore entirely the effect of the 95 per cent which represented the sale of securities owned outright or on margin.

"The greatest short interest in any single stock at any time was 406,000 in General Motors. This figure may seem very large, but you must remember that General Motors has 43,500,000 shares of common stock and, therefore, the short interest was actually less than 1 per cent of the total capital of the company.

General Motors Situation.

"If you will examine the price fluctuations of General Motors you will find that in the whole course of the year 1931 its high price 48 and its low price slightly above 22. This is a depreciation of a little more than 50 per cent.

"Furthermore, the market action of General Motors has been consistently steady. Great quantities of the stock have been bought and sold and yet it has normally moved by small degrees, either upward or downward.

"It is hard to believe, in view of these facts and figures, that the critics of short selling are justified in saying that this practice smashes prices."

KATY RAILROAD PASSES DIVIDEND ON PREFERRED

Acts to Strengthen Cash Position.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 15.—The board of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad today passed the quarterly dividend due at this time on the preferred stock. The common dividend was omitted last March. The preferred issue had received its full $1.75 quarterly, or $7 a year, since it became cumulative on Jan. 1, 1928, payments previously being at the rate of $5 a year from the beginning of 1925 to the second quarter of 1926, when the amount was increased to $6 a year.

The company, it is understood, has the cash with which to make the disbursement, but directors felt it would be in the interest of stockholders to keep the road's position as strong as possible until traffic and earnings improve. Recent estimates of earnings place net income for the current year at approximately $1 a share on the preferred.

Declares Dividends.

The Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad declared a dividend of $4 on the common stock and the regular semi-annual dividend of $2 on the preferred. The last payment on the common stock was made in 1925, when total dividends amounted to $6 in that year. On Feb. 25, 1926, the quarterly dividend of $1.75 was omitted.

Directors of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the common stock, compared with 60 cents previously. The latest declaration places the common on a $1.50 annual basis, against $2.40 heretofore.

Omits Quarterly Payment.

The Maryland Casualty company voted to omit the quarterly dividend due at this time. Three months ago a dividend of 15 cents was paid, and six months ago 30 cents, prior to which the stock was on a $2.25 annual basis.

The National Gas and Electric corporation omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the $6.50 preferred stock due at this time. Island Creek Coal company declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, placing the issue on a $3 annual basis, against $4 previously.

WARNS OIL INDUSTRY TO PUT SELF ON SANE COURSE OR COLLAPSE

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The oil industry was warned in a forceful statement addressed directly to it today by Amos L. Beaty, president of the American Petroleum institute, that it faces the choice between sanity of operations and utter collapse.

"Unless something is done quickly we are headed for more trouble," Mr. Beaty said. "A tariff promptly enacted might temporarily save the situation in the United States. At some expense to foreign business it might even tide us over until the present high potentials of crude production here are reduced to safer bounds. But a tariff alone cannot save us. We must do some constructive things or else witness demoralization and loss exceeding anything which has occurred in the recent past.

"Crude production from flowing wells is 20 per cent too high and refinery runs are 20 per cent too high. This is not a wild or extravagant statement; it is fully supported by up to date statistics which take into account the decline in consumption now occurring. The industry must take its choice between sanity in operations or utter collapse. Optimistic and lulling statements at this time are to be deplored."

More than $2,600,000,000 Passes Through Treasury

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—More than $2,600,000,000 passed through the United States treasury today. The government sold $1,323,000,000 in securities, paid debts of $994,000,000, interest of $95,000,000 and collected a little more than $200,000,000 in income taxes. The activities resulted from the second quarterly financing of the government in the 1932 fiscal year.

German Exports Slump $30,000,000 in November

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—New tariff walls and depreciated currencies in many lands caused a drop in Germany's exports in November by more than $30,000,000 to $178,000,000. Imports were stationary at $115,000,000, so there is still a favorable balance of $63,000,000. Germany's trade with the United States continued to slump heavily.

WHEAT PRICES CLIMB FOR FIFTH STRAIGHT DAY

Buying Wave Sweeps Grain Forward.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

For the fifth straight day wheat prices were on the upgrade yesterday, and the upturn was the more impressive from the fact that it started at a time when the stock market was semi-demoralized and prices were the lowest on the current downturn.

Reports of an active export demand, with sales of 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bu in all positions, largely Manitobas but including some hard winters, had considerable effect on sentiment which had been somewhat bearish early, and a wave of general buying swept over the market and with stop loss orders uncovered prices ran up 2@2¼c from the early low, with the finish within a fraction of the top. December closed at 55¾c; March, 57¾c; May, 59@59¼c, and July, 57¾@57⅞c.

May wheat at the top sold at 59¼c, the highest price since Dec. 2, and showed 5¼c above the low of last week. Many operators regarded the action of the market as nothing short of sensational in view of the debacle in securities.

Aid for Farm Products.

Bullish operations received considerable impetus toward the last from Washington reports claiming that the proposed reconstructed War Finance corporation included proposals to help agricultural products in reopening or to keep open foreign markets which threatened to be closed by the unusual conditions abroad. Local statisticians were out with figures during the day suggesting that regardless of the size of the crops in other countries the United States would be called upon to furnish more or less wheat for the use of importing countries.

Rumors which appeared to come from European sources to the effect that the United States might go off a gold basis early in the spring attracted considerable attention and increased bullish enthusiasm. The trade for many weeks has been talking about prospective world-wide inflation in commodity prices which has been confidently expected since England and numerous other countries abandoned the gold standard.

Increase in Interest.

There was a considerable increase in general speculative interest in the wheat market after the latter started upward, and sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves on the bulge. Winnipeg was strong on buying by houses with continental connections and closed 2¼@2¾c higher, with

New York, Dec. 15.—They gave crepe hangers the air and the share market a much needed little breathing spell toward the close of business down on the stock exchange today. Prices rebounded in spirited fashion all along the line, wiping out numerous early losses, substituting many of them with net gains and enabling the list to go into the overnight record with nothing worse than an irregular finish.

All this, considering the eight previous days of unbroken decline, Wall street considered some shakes for a market afraid of its own shadow. As usual there was no news to precipitate the buying spurt and philosophical observers were inclined to credit it as much as anything to sheer disgust with the cloud of rumors which have been in circulation here of late.

CREPE HANGERS IN WALL STREET ARE GIVEN AIR

Spirited Rally Staged by Stock Market.

Steel Hits New Low.

Before the afternoon upturn United States Steel common had led another procession of industrials, rails and utilities into low ground for the major decline on losses of 1 to 3 points or more. United States Steel went to 38¾, but came back to close at 41½, of less than half a point.

Followers of the railroad shares were able to pin some hopes on the Chicago wage conference although the outlook on the face of dispatches from the western city did not appear overly bright. The dope was that the carrier executives were becoming more and more impatient over the progress of the negotiations and on the verge of taking the bull by the horns and precipitating a showdown by decreeing a 15 per cent cut in the pay of their union employes.

This admittedly would not settle the question, but Wall street believes that it would open the way to an early compromise and thus rebound to the benefit of the lines at no very distant date. Final changes in the group today were largely fractional—a pleasant relief from the sharp losses with which chart followers have been cornered from this section for no long.

Auburn Jumps Up.

Recoveries were well distributed among the common shares of other groups, industrial, utility and specialties. Auburn Auto staged one of its sensational impressive performances by hopping up some 5 points. They say a pool in this issue has the situation in "complete control" and the price rallies of late would seem to verify the report. Homestake Mining is said to be in much the same boat.

Preferred stocks once more took it on the chin in rather brutal fashion. Losses in such issues as American Smelting 2d preferreds, American Rad., Electric Power and Light 6s, United Cigar Stores and Consolidated Gas ranged anywhere from 3 to more than 14 points.

WHEAT PRICES CLIMB FOR 5TH STRAIGHT TIME

Wave of Buying Sweeps Grain Forward.

December at 41¼c in Canadian funds, or 19⅞c on a gold basis. Buenos Aires was ⅝@⅝c lower for the day, while Liverpool was dull and ⅛@⅛c per bu lower, with December at 53c, figured on the basis of $3.46 for exchange. The latter delivery was 2⅝c under Chicago at the time the English market closed.

There is an important holding of wheat futures in the market which has apparently been overlooked by the trade. According to testimony given by George S. Milnor, president of the Stabilization corporation, at Washington recently, the government organization was the holder of 27,000,000 bu for future delivery on Oct. 31. This was about 17 per cent of the total open interest in all futures in the Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth and Kansas City markets at the time.

Corn Market Strong.

Corn showed independent strength as compared with wheat in the early trading, starting upward before the latter grain and at no time was it headed. General short covering developed and stop loss orders were uncovered with the close at net gains of 5⅛@5⅜c, December finishing at 37⅝c; May, 42⅞@42¼c, and July, 43⅜@44c.

There was no material pressure on the market, although the country took advantage of the bulge to sell 50,000 bu to arrive. The continued light movement to terminal markets is attracting attention. According to the pit gossip liquidation of a large line of long grain was completed Monday and the technical position has been strengthened materially.

Rye Leads Advance.

Rye developed independent strength as the result of buying of both cash and futures by houses with foreign connections, and the close was 3⅝@3¾c higher. December finished at 43¾c; May, 48c, and July, 48⅛c. Speculative interest generally was much broader and the belief that Europe must come to the United States for supplies sooner or later has been strengthened materially by the recent purchases. The bulk of the business is understood to have been in Canadian grain. The aggregate amounts taken have not been given.

Cash interests were fair buyers of oats early and later there was a general movement to buy, with the result prices advanced 1½c and closed at the top with December 25¾c; May, 26⅝c, and July, 26⅝c.

Lehigh Portland Cement.

I should be pleased to receive any information you have on the preferred stock and common stock of Lehigh Portland Cement company of Allentown, Pa. Do you know if this firm has any mortgage bonds or other fixed indebtedness outstanding? — R. S. G.

Lehigh Portland Cement company has an annual capacity of about 24,700,000 barrels. Its plants are located throughout the United States.

For the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1930, sales were $16,700,000, against $19,347,000 for the preceding year, and $23,522,000 for the year ended Nov. 30, 1928.

Net income for the 1930 fiscal year was $3,106,000, which was 1.47 times preferred dividends and equal to $1.46 per common share, against $2,737,000, which was 1.85 times preferred dividends and equal to $2.79 per common share for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1929. Net income for the 1928 year was $4,124,000, and for the 1927 year, $4,119,000.

Net income for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1931, was $482,350 equaled $2.35 per preferred share, against net of $1,631,000 for the twelve months to June 30, 1931.

On Nov. 30, 1930, current assets were $19,701,000 and current liabilities were $1,223,000. Cash and government securities alone were $13,411,000.

President Young stated in his report covering the 1930 year that the duty included in the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was helpful. It was not, however, sufficient to enable domestic manufacturers to sell with profit in competition with foreign cement at seaboard points, he stated.

The company had no funded debt. There are outstanding 204,969 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100], and 450,348 shares of common [par $50].

Although dividends are being paid on the preferred none has been reported on the common since May 1, 1931. The preferred deserves a fairly good rating. The common is a speculation.

Receipts of cattle, calves and hogs at Chicago today, with comparisons:

	Today.	Week ago.	Year ago.
Cattle	8,000	15,000	15,000
Calves	2,000	2,000	2,000
Hogs	42,000	45,000	45,000

Bulk of sales today, $4.85@4.90; week ago, $4.40@4.60; year ago, $3.40@3.90.

Hogs: Light weight hogs held steady yesterday, while the general market for medium and heavy grades ruled weak to 10c lower, the average for the day showing a loss of 5c at $4.85. The top was unchanged at $4.90, with the spread of 15c equal to that in three weeks. Chicago prices were larger than a week ago, a decrease at points farther west for the gain here.

It was generally $4.80 and $4.10 paid to larger houses toward the end, when most sales were off 10c in early selling. Unfavorable reports from the fresh meat trade added to the weakness in medium and lighty stock, the heavier loins selling at a discount. Movement over Chicago was rapid, but competition lacking and about 7,000 hogs were left in the pens at the close, the low mark of the day.

No Change in Futures.

There were few buyers or sellers in the futures market yesterday. May pork were bid $5.75. December medium and heavy grades were bid $4.10, but the only offer was $4.35 in heavy pigs for that month.

Comparatively large receipts yesterday, augmented by the large carryover from the previous session, proved too much for the cattle market and soon took another plunge to the lowest levels in recent weeks. The trade was lifeless and the fact that many end grades of steers were carried into the late afternoon rounds without bids was even more depressing to the selling side than the drastic cut in prices.

Big Holdover Indicated.

It was impossible to move all stock on the market and another big holdover was indicated for today's trade. Packers are determined to hold down their purchases as much as possible because of the condition of the dressed beef trade. Weak to lower prices are said for fresh meat and buyers exercise liquidation of live cattle by packers to further congest the situation unless there is an immediate settlement of supplies.

Fat cattle yesterday dropped to the lowest Tuesday top since Dec. 1. Most sales were made within a range of $5@7. Mates to some Nebraska cattle that sold a week ago at $8.25 were peddled out yesterday at $6@6.35. Additional reductions were noted in cows and heifers. Calves lagged mostly 25c. Hardly enough interest has been transacted in the stocker and feeder division to establish quotations. Prospective buyers are waiting developments in the fat cattle trade.

Lambs Bring $5.90.

The trend of the lamb market was upward yesterday and the top price was up in the at $5.90, although the general market was only steady to strong. Quality of fed western lambs was good, and urgent eastern demand was the feature of the trade again. Packers are buying some of the best numbers of the year for eastern shipment, and large local packers are also eager for the better kinds.

Good slaughter lambs sold at $5@5.75, about 1,500 fed westerns netting the $5.90 top to packers and shippers. Aged sheep were in line with the low spot of yesterday's market, yearling stock sold at Monday's declines. Country demand for feeding stock absorbed the new lots of yearlings at firm prices.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 30,000 cattle, 24,000 hogs, 20,000 sheep, against 14,624 cattle, 31,315 hogs, and 30,641 sheep the corresponding day of last week, 7,636 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 20,830 sheep a year ago.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—SILK—Raw, firm; steady; sales, 2,000 bales. Spot, 1.31; March, $2.35; May, $1.68. Futures, nearby eggs (not 'Mids.), declined 7c and round whites 1c. Storage news proved bearish in both butter and eggs, the weekly reports showing a reduction of 3,000,000 lbs. in the butter stocks and 41,000 cases in the egg shortage, while more cuts were made in the daily four market report. Support largely was of a covering character. Selling was heavy, however, and actively vacuity, developed caution. Weather conditions continue bearish. Sales: Butter, 103 cars; eggs, 205 cars; potatoes, 10 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 8 cars. Prices follow:

NEW LOW ON BUTTER

Liquidation continued in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, prices declining to new low levels. Butter closed 1¼@1½c lower after an early rally, while eggs lost 7@8c. Cheese futures dropped 7c and round whites 1c. Storage news proved bearish in both butter and eggs, the weekly reports showing a reduction of 3,000,000 lbs. in the butter stocks and 41,000 cases in the egg shortage, while more cuts were made in the daily four market report. Support largely was of a covering character, while selling was heavy, however, and actively vacuity, developed caution. Weather conditions continue bearish. Sales: Butter, 103 cars; eggs, 205 cars; potatoes, 10 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 8 cars. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

With the government holding over 27,000,000 bu of wheat futures traders are giving more thought to the situation, as it represents a liberal percentage of the total visible, and with such a holding in strong hands it is natural it would have more influence on trade sentiment. This is given as one of the reasons for the mysterious strength displayed in the last week.

"The fundamental conditions in corn are much better than in wheat, as there is no large surplus," says the Uhlmann Grain company. "Farmers are reluctant to sell at this low level. This also refers to rye and oats, both of which show great strength," they say.

Broomhall says first arrivals of Argentina's new wheat are reported to be of fine quality.

"Location of world's wheat supplies suggests that North American shipments from Dec. 1 to July 1 should exceed last year's by at least 35,000,000 bu and equal 210,000,000 to 230,000,000 bu," says R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. statistician. "The latter figure has been exceeded 3 years out of the last 7 years."

PRODUCE MARKETS

An easier undertone prevailed in the potato market. Receipts, 48 cars, with 550 cars on team tracks. Live hens advanced 1@2c. Receipts, 6 cars and 20 trucks. Fresh eggs dropped 1@2c with demand slow. Receipts 3,066 cases. Butter was unchanged to ¼c lower, top scores showing the most loss. Receipts 13,479 tubs.

Bryan dot markets, however, were said to be slow and exports of cotton continue heavy and are about equal to last year's figures. Prolonged rains over the belt are giving way to clear cold weather and picking and ginning have made slow progress recently and will doubtless be interfered with by the approaching holiday season. LARD WELL SUPPORTED

Buying of lard, while not heavy, was sufficient to absorb limited offerings and close the market 2½@5c higher for the day. Liverpool lard was 9d@3s lower. Exports were 1,250,000 lbs of lard and 2,000,000 lbs of bacon. Cash trade was moderate, with the offerings of pork loins of low prices. Deliveries on December contract were 200,000 lbs of lard. Hog prices were steady to 5c lower with receipts about the same as a week ago and fairly in excess of last year. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today. Local refiners as a result showed little interest in the market, although it was believed they would pay the last paid price or 3.10c for spots, and even perhaps 3.12c for augar in position to suit, but there was nothing available below 3.15c.

Reports that Java was unwilling further to restrict her output, and the indifferent attitude of refiners in the spot market seemed responsible for an easier tone in futures, where final prices showed net losses of 3 to 5 points. Approximate sales, 8,850 tons. Prices follow:

S. E. ERICKSON MADE HEAD OF REAL ESTATORS

Wins Presidency After a Lively Battle.

In one of the liveliest election battles in several years Samuel E. Erickson, for many years clerk of the Superior court, yesterday was made president of the Cook County Real Estate board, to succeed Robert Clark Duncan, who held office for two terms. Mr. Erickson headed the regular ticket and defeated Frank P. Murphy, formerly in the escrow department of the Torrens system, who was running for president of the real estators on the Members' ticket. H. H. Harwood, on the latter ticket, defeated the candidate on the Regular ticket, Gerrit Pon, for the office of vice president.

SAMUEL E. ERICKSON.

William C. Bander, on the Regular ticket, was elected secretary of the realty board and William Joern, also on the regular ticket, was named for treasurer. Carl N. Wolf and Frank J. Petru were defeated for office of secretary and treasurer respectively on the Members' ticket.

Miss Cotter to Continue.

Only one director, George J. Kappes, was named on the Regular ticket. Timothy P. Quinn and John T. Kelly were both defeated by C. T. A. Anderson and A. W. Stanmeyer, who were elected directors on the Members' ticket. Miss Cathrine M. Cotter will continue as executive secretary of the Cook County Real Estate board, a position she has held through several administrations.

Fred Beckleneberg has negotiated a life insurance loan through the Chicago Title and Trust company for $100,000, five years at 6 per cent, on his property at the northwest corner of Wrightwood avenue and Burling street. The property is 105x122.

The W. E. O'Neil Construction company has purchased the property on the east side of Clybourn avenue, 225 feet southeast of Diversey parkway, from Roy L. Wakefield for use as a yard. The property is 125x125.

Bakery for Commuters.

Pixley & Ehlers have leased the store at 327 West Madison street, 22x125, from the Haskell Building trust for a term of years and will operate a bakery shop, where all of the pastries and bakery goods similar to those served in their fourteen restaurants will be sold for home consumption. The new bakery, which will open on Friday, is two doors east of one of the Pixley & Ehlers restaurants. William Ames of Wills & Co. was broker for the restaurant company and Robert White & Co. represented the lessor.

"We've been selling bakery goods over the counter in all our restaurants and will continue to do so," said Albert J. Pixley, president of Pixley & Ehlers. "The restaurant at 322 West Madison street, however, was always crowded at rush hours. We learned from a survey that most of the rush hour customers were commuters, homeward bound. The carryout business at this restaurant finally became so large that it's necessary to open this bakery shop to care for these patrons."
